BOSTON URBAN WILDS: CONSERVATION PROGRAM

Most of the Urban Wilds sites require more protection than is available through existing land-use regulations and zoning. Under the Boston Zoning Code, conservation of natural features is left to chance or, if public funds are involved in the development of the land, to the city's limited control through the design review process.

Affirmative, permanent protection is needed for many of the Urban Wilds sites. Once designated public conservation land, a site cannot be later diverted to other uses except by a two-thirds vote of the State Legislature. Analysis of the ownership and tax status conditions of all 43 Urban Wilds sites showed that one-third of them are already owned by the City of Boston and other units of government and can, therefore, permanently be preserved without cost to the city and without further reducing the existing tax base. In addition, those Urban Wilds sites that are privately owned can, through various strategies, also be protected without great financial strain on the city. The conservation methods below are appropriate for effectively protecting Boston Urban Wilds sites.

Transfer of Government Property — Land held by local and state governments can be transferred by each of them into the care and control of appropriate conservation or open space management agencies for conservation and recreation purposes. Forty Urban Wilds sites are currently owned by the state and city governments and can be protected by this method. The largest acreage is held by the Massachusetts Port Authority in East Boston. These properties could be transferred to the Metropolitan District Commission, for permanent open space management and preservation. The remaining government-owned Urban Wilds sites located in Roxbury, West Roxbury, and Dorchester are currently in the City of Boston Real Property Department, and could be transferred to the Boston Conservation Commission. The Boston Redevelopment Authority has title to six sites in Charlestown and in Roxbury which appear to be unbuildable. These also could be transferred to the Boston Conservation Commission.

Fee Simple Acquisition — The city can, of course, simply purchase privately owned Urban Wilds sites if and when an owner decides to sell. The existing reserved monies of the city's parkland replacement fund are available for this purpose without current cost to the city. Also there are state and federal reimbursement aids for such purchases currently available in amounts up to 75 percent (when combined) of the approved project land acquisition cost.

Gifts of Land — The City of Boston, by either its Park Commission or its Conservation Commission, can accept gifts of privately owned land in fee. These gifts of land could be donated from personal, corporate, or institutional sources. In addition, gifts of land from state or federal units of government could also be accepted. This is effective and economically desirable. It does not require expenditure of public funds, and it may result in tax savings for the donor.

Conservation Restrictions — The City of Boston may also seek and accept gifts of a less-than-fee interest in privately owned Urban Wilds sites and other lands and may propose to purchase any such interest. A conservation restriction may be so drawn as to accomplish major urban open space projection in perpetuity while leaving the property on the tax rolls with an infinitely varied degree of development rights. By some variant of this method, the owner may agree to keep either all or part of his/her land in much the same natural state it was at the time of agreement, and he/she retains part of the ownership of the land and may in the future sell, give, or lease that interest in that property to any other person or entity. The degree of public access on the restricted property would be regulated by the terms of the agreement. The owner may choose to allow public access and/or use of property, or may not, and may limit the hours, days or seasons of use and of access. Such agreements may not require any expenditure of public funds and the land continues at the same valuation on the city property tax rolls. This procedure, in all its infinite variety of accommodating private and public desires, is especially recommended for protection of non-tax-exempt Urban Wilds sites.

Land Use Regulations — Boston Urban Wilds sites can be partially protected by available land-use regulations. Such partial protection should always be supplemented by other methods to insure long-term protection of an Urban Wilds site.

Conservation . . .

The Wetlands Protection Act (G.L. chapter 131, section 40, as amended) regulates the filling, dredging, or altering of inland and coastal wetlands, river-banks, ocean shorelines, beaches, tidal flats, and salt meadows. Under the statute any developer or governmental agency wishing to alter any such area in Boston must first receive approval from the Boston Conservation Commission.

Floodplain zoning, if adopted by the City of Boston, will be applicable to areas subject to tidal action or to flooding. Farming, conservation, and outdoor recreation will be the only land uses permitted as of right in a "Flood Hazard District." Exceptions from the floodplain zoning regulation may be granted, but only in certain instances.

Planned Development Area (PDA) Regulations. In the City of Boston the provisions of PDA zoning may offer protection to some of the most outstanding natural features of a site about to be built upon or otherwise developed. In Boston, the PDA may permit cluster building at high specific densities in return for a variety of trade-offs.

It is initiated by request of the developer, and requires a series of development and design declarations and review steps, including a mandatory series of three separate publicly advertised public hearings.

Any site in Boston designated for this procedure must not be less than one acre in size.

The effectiveness of such regulations for conservation purposes depends on the size and form of the site, the extent of natural areas to be preserved, the building floor area ratio of prescribed density in the underlying zoning district, and the city's ability to enforce the resulting regulation.

Eminent Domain — If no other or lesser means are available, an Urban Wilds site or any natural area can, of course, be taken by the City of Boston from any landowner by vote of the City Council under its power of eminent domain, for any of the stated public purposes. Occasionally, in the past, the City of Boston has taken land by eminent domain for conservation purposes, where the title to the acquired land was in doubt or where the purchase price exceeded the assessed value by 25 percent or more.

Natural Area Zoning — The city should study the applicability in Boston of new "Special Natural Area" zoning similar to that adopted in New York City in 1975, which applies to any area which contains significant geologic, topographic, aquatic, and other natural features worth preserving. In Boston, the Urban Wilds sites and other natural features could be protected by specific regulations within a Special Natural Area District. Every proposal for building development on any parcel within such a district would require review by the city's planning agency or by the Conservation Commission or both prior to issuance of any permit to build. Such permit would be issued only if the city determined that the proposed development would not adversely affect the natural features involved. This kind of additional zoning regulation, if adopted in Boston, could be an especially suitable means for protecting natural features until more permanent measures were arranged.

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS SET FOR THE FENWAY

The BRA recently awarded a $1.8 million contract for a program of public improvements to be carried out as part of the Fenway Urban Renewal Project.

The public improvements, which will be done by Coughlan Construction Company of Canton, Mass. will encompass street reconstruction, new street lights, sidewalks and street plantings for several blocks within the Fenway. The following streets are included in the contract: Burbank Street, Hemenway Street, Norway Street, Stoneholm Street, Gainsborough Street, Edgerly Road, St. Stephen Street and Opera Place.

BRA Director Robert F. Wals said, "This contract, along with work already underway on St. Germain Street, represents a total of some $1.8 million in public improvement work for the Fenway this year. We are extremely pleased that funding became available so that we could carry out these improvements."

Construction is expected to get under way within the next two weeks and should be completed by summer, 1978.

INTERESTED IN HISTORY?

You're in Boston, bitter about the British blockade. You sense the tension on the faces of the troops, still smarting from the shot heard around the world. You share the fear and pride of the farmers as they dig in atop Breed's Hill.

Dawn breaks and, with the sun, come the redcoat regiments. You ready your sweaty flintlock as Colonel Prescott whispers the word "wait." Then, at last, the whites of British eyes trigger your rifle.

You're surrounded by the sights and sounds of America's first full-scale battle. You forget you're being stunned and stirred by a multi-media spectacular. You're in the middle of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

"Whites of Their Eyes" gives you a whole new perspective on the American Revolution. You better understand the agony of a costly British victory, and the determination that sprang from a new nation's battlefield bravery. You're there as America first proves its military mettle.

All this is brought to you in-theatrical with more than 1,000 color slides, fourteen screens, twenty-two life-sized costumed figures and seven channels of sound. Don't miss the experience of seeing the "Whites of Their Eyes."

The Pavilion is located just off Boston's Freedom Trail, only 200 yards from the U.S.S. "Constitution" ("Old Ironsides") in Charlestown. It's easily accessible by car

EXHIBIT SERVES PURPOSE: DISMANTLED

Mayor Kevin H. White has said the administration's display of selected tax delinquents "has made its point in striking fashion and has served its purpose well." He instructed that it be dismantled. His order has been implemented.

The gallery was taken down following a briefing on the administration's tax collection efforts by First Assistant Collector-Treasurer Newell Cook.

Cook said the graphic display of prominent tax delinquent people and properties had "served to raise the public's awareness of the city's need for uncollected delinquent revenues."

The gallery was first displayed September 8. Mayor White said it would stand for about two weeks. It has been the subject of nationwide publicity and local controversy.

The exhibition is part of an accelerated program ordered by Mayor White not only to collect back taxes owed the city, but to improve the flow of routine tax payments.

"We didn't figure the exhibition would set well with those tax delinquents who are represented on it," Cook said. "But we are convinced of the legality of such a concept and of its value in seeking the support of those responsible people who do pay their taxes against those who don't."

Cook revealed statistics showing delinquent real estate collections between May 9, 1977, shortly after publication of lists of tax delinquents in local media, and September 23, as $11.1 million, compared to just $9 million in the same span the previous year. The increase is 23.8 per cent.

Combining real estate and personal property taxes, collections between May 9 and September 23, 1977 were $15.3 million, compared to $9.3 million over the same period in 1976. The increase is nearly 64 percent, but Cook qualified it, saying a large part of the collection increase was due to major payments by tax delinquent airlines.

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Alan Mackey states that although one-half of the fall inspection period has lapsed, only one-third of registered motor vehicles has been inspected.

The registrar urges owners of uninspected motor vehicles and trailers to visit any of the 4,200 official inspection stations now and have their vehicles inspected. This will prevent long lines of waiting as the end of the inspection period approaches. Immediate inspection will also give the owner enough time to have a rejected motor vehicle or trailer repaired to meet the statutory equipment requirements.

The fall inspection period ends October 15, and all motor vehicles must display the current yellow inspection sticker thereafter.

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED FOR STORROW DRIVE

Metropolitan District Commissioner John F. Snedeker has announced a two-part project involving Storrow Drive from Leverett Circle to the Bowker Overpass near Fenmore Square.

The commissioner said, "According to the plans, one part of the project involves Storrow Drive itself. The roadway will be completely resurfaced, the Storrow Drive tunnel between Leverett Circle and Bowker Overpass will have its walls retiled, and curbing along the roadway will be reset. Most important, new safety guard rails will be erected where appropriate and the periodic flooding of Storrow Drive will be ended by repairing the catch basins and the cleaning of the drains along the drive."

The second part of the project, which will be done simultaneously with the first, is the creation of a major new bike path from the Charles River Dam, along the Esplanade to the Boston University Bridge. Along the path will be selected new police call boxes to add to the safety and security of those persons using the Esplanade area.

This part of the project will be completed before next spring.

Commuters using Storrow Drive during peak hours of 7 A.M. to 9:30

A.M., and after 3:30 P.M., will not be inconvenienced. There will be no workers or obstacles on Storrow Drive during this time.

"This project is very necessary and long overdue. We are pleased to be able to do the work with a minimum of problems for commuters and local residents alike," Commissioner Snedeker concluded.

The projected completion date for the road resurfacing is June 20, and the project cost will total $1,013,000.

"Face-Lift" Planned for South Station

Mayor White urges BRA to designate MBTA for $30-million rail project at South Station.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on October 6, urged the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA) to designate the MBTA to carry out a $30-million, all-service improvement program for South Station.

The project would be funded by state and federal agencies. Mayor White said having the MBTA develop rail facilities "ensures that the agency having the appropriate expertise in transportation (the MBTA) deals with the federal government in soliciting money for the program."

Mayor White said the BRA would retain responsibility for developing air rights above the South station rail facility, including plans for a hotel, garage, and possibly, office space. "Not only will this project provide commuters with better rail service than they have had since the heyday of the railroads, but its completion will lend itself to the overall upgrading of South Station and vital redevelopment of the area. I look forward to the day when South Station will again be a vital, lively, commuter service facility," Mayor White said. Station improvements planned include an underground pedestrian passage between the MBTA's red line and commuter rail and AMTRAK platforms. The South Station concourse will be rehabilitated, and elevated platforms will be installed for commuter convenience for both commuter and AMTRAK boarding facilities.

A parking garage will be built to accommodate Boston area residents using the AMTRAK service to terminals in other cities, and buses will be built outside South Station so that the boarding of buses will not interfere with traffic.

BRA Director Robert F. Walsh said, "The designation of the MBTA to rebuild and refurbish the track area and concourse is a breakthrough. The work done by the MBTA will follow the guidelines of our plan to make South Station a transportation center in practice as well as in theory. Once South Station is functioning again as an important rail terminal, the prospects for additional development in the area will be greatly enhanced."

MBTA Director Robert Kiley said the MBTA is "pleased to be the developer of rail facilities at South Station, which is the New England terminal for the nation's Northeast Rail Corridor." Mr. Kiley said the MBTA-BRA joint involvement "is the best possible arrangement for ensuring the vital redevelopment of South Station."

The BRA Board is expected to vote on the designation of the MBTA as developer for the transportation component of the South Station project. The proposal will also require the approval of the MBTA's Board.

LANDLORDS REMINDED OF HEAT GUIDELINES

Boston Housing Inspection Commissioner John Vitagliano has urged all landlords and homeowners to check the condition of their heating systems now before winter hits. During last year's record-breaking, cold winter, the Housing Inspection Department received more than 1,500 "no heat" complaints. Most of them were from tenants whose landlords had failed to properly maintain the heating system or had let the furnace run out of heating oil.

During the heating season from September 15 to June 15, landlords are required to provide heat in every habitable room to a temperature of at least 70° between 7 A.M. and 11 P.M., and at least 65° between 11:01 P.M. and 6:59 A.M., unless the occupant has agreed to do so under a written lease.

Tenants without heat are encouraged to call the Housing Inspection Department at 725-4787. That agency will contact the landlord and send an inspector out to the building to verify the complaint. Landlords who fail to comply with HUD directives will be prosecuted in Boston Housing Court and can be fined as much as $5,000 a day for every day the heat is inadequate.

In the past, some of the most serious "no heat" cases have arisen at night and on weekends. The city's twenty-four-hour service is now available to respond to emergencies at all times. The twenty-four-hour staff will take all complaints and contact the landlords in "no heat" cases. Tenants who need assistance should call the twenty-four-hour service at 725-1000.

MAYOR LAUDS POLICE AND CITIZENS FOR RESPONSE TO ELECTRIC OUTAGE

Mayor Kevin H. White said he was pleased with the response of the Police Department and the citizens alike during the electric outage on October 5, affecting about 30,000 people in the Back Bay and the South End.

The Mayor lauded "a very fast and thorough response" by police in dealing with traffic problems in the affected area, bounded by Berkeley and Arlington Streets, the Charles River, and Columbus Avenue.

Citizens also helped, the Mayor said, by helping to direct traffic in Kenmore, Copley, and Park Squares, and in maintaining public order while the area was blacked out.

Mayor White said police response was in keeping with the plan for dealing with electrical blackouts developed by the city following last June's city-wide outage in New York City.

EXPEDITIOUS LEGISLATION URGED

Deputy Mayor Young urges passage of bill allowing quick recovery of taxes owed by Penn Central.

Citing Boston's immediate revenue needs, Deputy Mayor James V. Young has urged a United States House subcommittee to favorably recommend legislation which would expedite recovery of about $17 million in back taxes owed the city by the Penn Central railroad.

Mr. Young, appearing on behalf of Mayor Kevin H. White, sought support for the legislation (HR 8882) from members of the Subcommittee on Transportation and Commerce of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

The Penn Central, which went bankrupt in 1970, owes Boston $17 million. Its indebtedness in Massachusetts is $24 million. It owes $450 million to more than 2,400 communities, counties, and tax-levying, school districts in the eastern United States.

One settlement offered by the Penn Central would permit only 30 to 40 percent recovery. Boston would have to settle for $5 million of its rightful $17 million if it accepts, by October 22, a check to be mailed soon by the railroad for cashing or rejection. Mayor White has said the city will not accept the check.

The long-term recovery option offered by the Penn Central provides for 20 percent immediate recovery in cash and 80 percent in interest-bearing notes to be issued by the Penn Central for maturation in 1987. Thus, the city would have to wait a decade to collect full payment.

The legislation Deputy Mayor Young is pushing would permit 100 percent immediate recovery by having the federal government guarantee the Penn Central notes, so that cities and towns could issue their own securities and realize the revenues possibly this year.

"The receipt of the taxes due Boston, which the proposed legislation will enable, will mean a lot to Boston, a city which is more heavily dependent on the property tax than any other city in the country," Mr. Young told the committee. "It will allow taxing jurisdictions to finally collect taxes which in many cases are five or more years overdue rather than wait many years to realize this income."

"This quick stimulus will come in a manner which can be expected to be much less inflationary than direct, federal-grant program of similar magnitude, and I assure you, controlling inflation is of importance to us who are trying to minimize increases in local budgets," said Mr. Young, who directs Boston's fiscal affairs.

"In closing, let me strongly urge you to recommend passage of the legislation," Deputy Mayor Young said.

REMINDER: MOPED RALLY OCTOBER 23

Greater Boston Moped riders will be rallying for the United Cerebral Palsy Association of Metropolitan Boston on Sunday, October 23, at Boston Common.

The event, which is cosponsored by the Boston Parks and Recreation Department and Honda of Boston, will begin at 9 A.M. on Cusick Ball field, located at the corners of Boylston and Charles Streets in Boston.

Assistant Director of Recreation Jack Hurley, who is a cochairman of the rally, stressed: "A rally is not a road race. It is a test of the driver's skill and knowledge of the road, emphasizing safe operation of the Moped."

The rally course will cover a route in and around Metropolitan Boston. Money will be raised for Cerebral Palsy by participants asking their friends and neighbors to sponsor them for a portion of the course.

Several Moped manufacturers are offering prizes of new Mopeds for this rally. First prize will be a new Honda Hobbit Moped for the person who completes the course in the best and most appropriate time as determined by the Rally Committee. The Grand Prize of a Puch Newpor Moped will go to the person whose pledges result in the largest amount of money collected for United Cerebral Palsy.

A special prize of a Vespa Moped will be drawn from all tax deductible registration donations received before October 20. You need not participate in the rally to win.

Many other prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served.

The United Cerebral Palsy Association supports programs for children and adults, social services, the CP clinic at Children's Hospital, prescribed orthopedic appliances for needy families, camp scholarships, and research programs.

Join in with the Moped Rally, have a great time, win some fabulous prizes, and help raise funds for a good cause. HARVARD APPOINTS THOMAS O'BRIEN

Thomas O'Brien has been appointed financial vice-president for Harvard University effective October 1, 1977, President Derek Bok announced on October 6.

Mr. O'Brien, who is currently serving as acting vice-president, succeeds Hale Champion, who resigned in January to become undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare in the Carter administration. As chief financial officer for the university, Mr. O'Brien is responsible to the president and the Harvard Corporation for matters of policy, management, and operation of the university's finances (other than investment of financial assets).

In making the announcement, Mr. Bok said, "We're delighted to have Tom continue in this capacity. He has gained an invaluable knowledge of the university's financial administration and has earned the unqualified and enthusiastic support of his associates."

A 1960 graduate of Tufts University, with the Master's and Ph.D. degrees in economics from Cornell University, Mr. O'Brien first came to Harvard in 1971 as assistant to the financial vice-president. He was granted a two-year leave from the university in order to serve as assistant secretary of Administration and Finance under Massachusetts Governor Francis Sargent. He returned to Harvard in 1974 to serve successively as acting director of Personnel Administration, acting director of Budgets and Financial Systems before becoming acting vice-president. Prior to his original appointment at Harvard, Mr. O'Brien was an assistant professor of economics at Brandeis University; served as director of research and director of the Community Renewal Program with the Boston Redevelopment Authority; and spent a year as a White House fellow with the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development. He is a native of Massachusetts and currently resides with his family in Belmont.

Mr. O'Brien's appointment comes after a long and vigorous search, coordinated by a five-member committee, which considered a pool of more than 600 applicants from around the world. IV. LETTERS OF THANKS

"DEAR COMMISSIONER PAUL:

On Thursday night last, at approximately 6 P.M., a fire started in a basement room of the Kennedy Center at 27 Winthrop Street. That fire and resulting damage was contained only by the prompt response and efficient action of Charlestown's Engine Company 50 of the Boston Fire Department.

We would, therefore, like to take this opportunity to commend all of the fine men of that company; and, in particular,

Fire Fighters John Upton and Vincent Scalli, who observed and reported the fire and secured the key to the building. Under the able direction of Lieut. Richard Morrissey, the men of the company entered the building and extinguished the fire with remarkably little damage to the parts of the structure not directly involved. In fact, despite necessary entrance through a storage room for ceramic crafts, not one of these fragile pieces was even slightly disturbed.

Again, we salute your department and the men of our Charlestown companies for their dedication and performance. And, although we have always recognized and respected their outstanding reputation, it is in circumstances like this that we can truly appreciate the continuing basis for it.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely yours,

JOHN T. GARDINER,
Executive Director.
MAURICE J. GILLEN, President."

October 5.

General Order No. 52

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Fire Prevention Week will be observed in the City of Boston from October 9 to October 15, 1977, inclusive. Mayor Kevin H. White has issued the following statement in connection with the observance of this week.

"The success of a fire prevention program is predicated on the activities of an experienced fire department and the cooperative assistance received from members of the community. We are fortunate in Boston that these necessary elements exist, and thus fire safety has steadily progressed. The nature of fire and fire causes is such that negligence can lead to disaster. Hence, everlasting vigilance must be maintained. The Fire Department must provide initiative to the public at all times, for their greater safety from fire.

"I have noted the progress made by the Boston Fire Department in the field of research. The efforts expended in this area have been extensive and rewarding. As Mayor of this city, I am pleased to congratulate the Fire Department for their accomplishments in this respect. The results indicate that research such as this is a most important factor in future fire safety. This added to the continuous fire prevention work, and the efficient operations of an excellent fire fighting force contribute to make Boston a safer city."

The Boston Fire Department will again emphasize Fire Prevention Week with a series of activities as follows:

(a) Fire stations shall be open to the public between the hours of 1200 and 2000 for inspection of the premises and for the conveyance of information concerning the Fire Department functions and fire prevention matters. When citizens come to a station during Fire Prevention Week, the man on house patrol shall summon the commanding officer who should be available and ready to either show the visitors around the station and to answer questions regarding the department, or to have a suitable person assigned to this duty.

(b) Canvas signs giving notice that Fire Prevention Week is in progress should be displayed from all fire stations. Most stations have these signs in their possession from exhibitions of previous years, and it is the responsibility of company officers to see to it that these signs are kept in good condition from year to year. Signs should be displayed from Sunday to Saturday. Signs shall be checked daily by the officer in charge of quarters to assure they are firmly affixed to the building in a proper manner.

District Fire Chiefs are directed to take an active interest in fire prevention programs in the following manner:

(a) By making arrangements with the various plants and industrial enterprises within the district to hold fire drills during the week, by grading these drills as "Good," "Fair," or "Poor," and making a report of same to the Fire Prevention Division, indicating the name of the enterprise, the date of the drill, and the grade. Same should be forwarded promptly. Each concern should be requested to acknowledge participation in Fire Prevention Week activities via written correspondence. These drills should be conducted by a company officer after arrangements are made. At plants where there are special or company fire brigades, particular attention should be given to assignments and/or response procedures. It is requested that the name of the company officer conducting the drill be furnished. It is anticipated that not less than three drills be conducted in each district.

(b) Due to conditions at various schools throughout the city, fire prevention activities will be held during Fire Prevention Week at the discretion of the headmasters. Company officers will contact school officials in the schools in their subdistrict and make arrangements to hold the required fire exit drills during Fire Prevention Week, if feasible. The fire exit drill shall be so arranged that it will be held ten minutes prior to the end of the school day.

The district fire chief should compile a list of fraternal, social, civic, and professional organizations within the district and advertise to them the willingness of the Fire Department to provide company officers for the purpose of lecturing on fire prevention at any time. District fire chiefs should make a concerted effort to bring the activities of the department before these organizations and arrange for lectures to be given. The name of any organization so participating should be reported to Fire Prevention Division, specifically if the organization can be urged to forward on their own stationery a notation of the event, it would be to the greater advantage of the Fire Department.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

Fire fighters are to pay special attention to the observance of fire hazards and to the duty of observing and locating fire hazards along the route followed by them in their coming to and going from daily work. Dilapidated buildings, rubbish accumulation, and other hazards should be reported to the Fire Prevention Division. The public expects uniformed members of the Fire Department to know something about fire prevention work and to have an interest in this subject since they are public employees engaged in this field. Fire fighters, therefore, during Fire Prevention Week, should have this subject uppermost in their minds, and they should not pass a fire hazard at any time without making a note of it for reference to the Fire Prevention Division. In short, every uniformed man in the Fire Department is a fire prevention inspector at all times.

Company commanders, on receipt of the fire prevention posters, will post these items in a suitable location at the front of each fire station where they will be visible to the public. They will remain posted until October 16, 1977.

Special Order No. 77-84

To: All Bureaus, Divisions, Districts, Offices, Sections, and Units.

Copies to: All Superintendents, Deputy Superintendents, and Directors.

The Boston Licensing Board has requested the officers of this department to act as authorized agents of the board. Police officers may therefore enter and inspect any licensed premises whenever, in the opinion of the police, there is reason to do so in order to obtain information about (a) the fitness or character of the person(s) holding the license; (b) the place where business is conducted; and/or (c) the way business is conducted. (M.G.L. ch. 138, sec. 63; Acts of 1906, ch. 291, sec. 17.)

It is also provided that any person who hinders, delays, or refuses admittance to any authorized agent of a local licensing authority, including a police officer, in the performance of his duties shall be punished by a fine or imprisonment. (M.G.L. ch. 138, sec. 63A.)

This order is issued as a restatement and reaffirmation of the previous policy established in 1911.

Officers are expected to cooperate and assist whenever possible in providing information to the board about license premises in the city.

Special Order No. 77-89

To: All Bureaus, Divisions, District Offices, Sections, and Units.

Copies to: All Superintendents, Deputy Superintendents, and Directors.

Effective immediately, all districts and units will discontinue the use of B.P.D. Form 1725 (Hackney Carriage Violation Form) and will use the B.P.D. Form 172 revised (7-1-77) Hackney Carriage Violation Form instead. Supplies of this new form are available at the Hackney Carriage Office, Headquarters.

Commanding officers of all districts and units will insure that all Hackney Carriage Violation Forms are forwarded to the Hackney Carriage Office no later than twenty-four hours from the time that they are issued.

All officers issuing hackney carriage violations in the future should see to it that these violation notices are printed, except in those spaces where a signature is required.

It will be the responsibility of commanding officers of all districts and units to insure that this order is strictly complied with, without exceptions.

September 14.

Special Order No. 77-93

To: All Bureaus, Divisions, District Offices, Sections, and Units.

Copies to: All Superintendents, Deputy Superintendents, and Directors.

Effective immediately, station assignments will not be given to response units on Channel Seven by district or unit supervisors at any time for any reason. Officers assigned to response units will not accept station assignments on Channel Seven under any conditions.

All requests for station assignments for response units must be made through the Operations Division. There will be no exceptions.

All patrol units are prohibited from returning to their district stations without authorization from Operations. Under no circumstances will a district use Channel Seven to instruct a field unit to return to the station.

District or unit supervisors needing a response unit for a station assignment will contact the Operations Division on Extension 4911. Final approval or disapproval of the station assignment request will then be made by an Operations Division supervisor who shall make that decision based upon his assessment of the availability of response units on the requesting district.

The Operations Division supervisor's decision will, in all cases, be final.

September 15.

Special Order No. 77-94

To: All Bureaus, Divisions, Districts, Offices, Sections, and Units.

Copies to: All Superintendents, Deputy Superintendents, and Directors.

Public awareness of the various police functions of the department is in the best interest of the community and the department. Moreover, particular individuals representing community groups, news media, and research sources can serve a very useful purpose in alerting their respective clientele and the public of the problems and concerns involved in our daily operations. Through a policy of openness the community can view our department in a more enlightened manner.

Therefore, effective immediately, the following procedure is to be followed concerning authorized ride-alongs. Civilians will be allowed to ride in patrol cars, dependent upon the availability of units and under the following circumstances:

1. Department employees, with the approval of their Bureau Chief.
2. News media personnel.
3. Representatives of Boston Community Groups, dependent upon recommendation of area commander.
4. Other (only those civilians doing research which in the judgment of the Informational Services Unit will benefit the Police Department and who show that the research is dependent upon riding in police cars).
5. Police officers from outside departments.

Ride-alongs, except in the case of news media personnel, must be requested two weeks in advance through the Informational Services Unit. A ride-along request form BPD No. 1820 will be processed through the Informational Services Unit.

The superintendent in charge of the unit where the ride-along is requested will receive a tab enumerating the details, including date, time, and particular district affected. A ride-along request form is attached to the tab. This form lists the details of the ride-along, written approval from Informational Services, and a waiver which must be signed by the ride-along participant.

The signed ride-along request form is to be returned to Informational Services where it will be kept on file. The district commander will sign the ride-along request form, indicating knowledge of the arrangements as well as certification that the ride-along participant has signed the waiver in his presence. The commanding officer of the district will then assign a unit to accompany the participant. Participants will also have a copy of the form which will then be given to the officers with whom they are assigned. Informational Services will notify the area commander by telephone of the ride-along.

The truth is like a coffee break. You can get in trouble stretching it.

September 15.

Special Order No. 77-95

To: All Bureaus, Divisions, Districts, Offices, Sections, and Units.

Copies to: All Superintendents, Deputy Superintendents, and Directors.

All department personnel are reminded that they are required to answer all telephone calls by announcing, "Boston Police," followed by their unit and their names.

"Sect. 350: No person shall, without the consent of the mayor, post up or affix in any manner, or paint, or print, or write, or cause to be painted, printed or written, a notice, advertisement, or bill, upon a curbstone, sidewalk, tree, telegraph pole, lamp post, or hydrant, in a street or public place, or upon a walk, fence, or building belonging to the city."

officer in charge thereof or the owner or tenant of such property, shall, upon complaint of such municipal or public officer, or of such owner or tenant, be punished by a fine of not less than ten or more than one hundred dollars, and in addition shall forfeit to the use of the public or private owner of such property or the tenant thereof the cost of removing or obliterating such defacement to be recovered in an action of tort. Any word, device, trade mark, advertisement, or notice which has been painted, put up, or affixed within the limits of a highway in violation of this section shall be considered a public nuisance and may be forthwith removed or obliterated and abated by any person."

Enforcement Actions:

Arrangements have been made with the Public Works Department for the removal of illegally posted signs on public property. The Public Works Department may be contacted Monday through Friday, at telephone number 482-5300, attention Mr. James Johnson, for the removal of illegally posted signs.

THE BOSTON PLAN: ITS PURPOSE

Following is a draft copy of "The Boston Plan" for public review. The plan contains over seventy recommendations for utilizing federal financial assistance in a coordinated manner in four geographic areas of the city in order to address some of our most significant urban issues. The four specific areas included in the plan are the Harbor, Blue Hill Avenue, Columbia Point, and Hyde Park.

The primary objective of this effort is to maximize the impact of federal funds by leveraging state, local, and private investment in the projects described in the plan. The major benefit to be achieved is the creation of approximately 14,000 new jobs over the next five years, something that will benefit not only a few neighborhoods, but all areas of the city.

During the coming months, members of my administration will be seeking your comments on the Boston Plan. Our goal is to give the plan wide circulation, to solicit comments, and then determine which projects have the broadest support at all levels (neighborhood, city, state, federal) in order that we can actively pursue the proper funding sources, for those projects receiving strong support.

I, therefore, hope you will carefully review the Boston Plan and offer any comments or suggestions you may have.

Sincerely,

KEVIN H. WHITE,
Mayor of Boston.

INTRODUCTION

The American city is recognized today as key to our country's economy and strength. President Carter has committed the federal government to assist the nation's cities in strengthening their vitality. The people of Boston applaud this effort. It is our hope that this document will support the development of policies and programs needed to achieve the goal of revitalizing our cities.

A. Rationale

Boston is one of the nation's oldest and most historic cities. Characteristic of American cities, Boston has come to rely upon federal aid to pay for part of its operating costs. The cause of this increasing dependence upon Washington has often not been clearly understood.

Over the past twenty-five years many of the cities in this country have experienced a decline in population. Large numbers of middle-class people migrated to the suburbs forcing numerous cities to raise taxes year after year simply to keep up with inflation. In many instances, the void left by the departing middle class has been filled by low-income people more dependent on public services than the more affluent they replaced.

The result for cities across America has been a spiraling demand for increased public services — jobs, housing, transportation, education, recreation, health, crime, energy, etc. — paid for out of a decreased, local tax base. The solution to this impossible situation has thus far been rather haphazard and piecemeal.

Some cities have gone bankrupt. Many cities have been forced to cut back services provided by local government in order to reduce costs; in some cases a decrease in services has resulted in more efficient management, while in others it has only worsened our nation's unemployment problem.

B. Purpose

The purpose of the Boston Plan is to demonstrate how we can effectively utilize federal financial assistance in a coordinated and well-organized manner to remedy some of our major problems and to preserve Boston as a viable place to live and work.

This document is a blueprint for improving life in Boston through seventy-two projects which have previously been beyond the city's capacity to address due to a lack of funds. These projects are all achievable, in our judgment, and can be implemented in a reasonable period of time given the support of the federal government. Combined, the seventy-two projects provide a coordinated attack on some of our most devastating urban problems. The objective of the Boston Plan is to achieve certain, clearly defined goals across the city by focusing our efforts in four neighborhoods. The past ten years' experience of Mayor Kevin White's administration offer the federal government an excellent opportunity to put to the real test many innovative approaches to some of the nation's urban problems.

Boston has become recognized for its success in resolving urban problems. Over the past ten years major new developments have changed the complexion of the city with new office and apartment buildings significantly altering the skyline. Direct municipal investment in the Downtown-Waterfront area has transformed a dilapidated and obsolete commercial area into a new housing, commercial, and tourist center of national reputation. At the same time, innovative housing, neighborhood revitalization, job training, and crime prevention programs have been implemented. Finally, the challenge of busing has been met.

Yet, the City of Boston, like other urban areas, has had to deal with a declining tax base concurrent with major national recessions, a tight, municipal bond market, extensive unemployment, and the absence of a meaningful federal commitment to cities. Boston has been hard-pressed to continue the provision of basic services, not to mention the investment in growth and innovative new programs necessary to insure the city's future vitality. This proposal is, therefore, a request for the coordination of the federal aid essential to the economic growth of the city.

C. Benefits

The major benefit to be achieved by the Boston Plan is the creation of some 14,000 new permanent jobs over the next five years. The need for jobs is critical since Boston's unemployment rate was more than 10 percent in 1976, reflecting the fact that we have lost more than 50,000 jobs since 1970. Assuming 50 percent of the 14,000 new jobs are filled by some of the 33,000 Boston residents who were unemployed in 1976, our unemployment rate would be reduced substantially to approximately 8 percent.

Other benefits of the Boston Plan include the rehabilitation of public and private housing, increased crime prevention services, improved transportation services, better health care services, more recreational activities, and increased energy conservation. The breadth of benefits is such that only a coordinated approach that utilizes funding from a number of federal agencies will make the Boston Plan a success.

D. Costs

The Boston Plan will require public and private expenditures totaling more than $500 million over the next five years. Of this total, the federal government's proposed share would be $122 million. Some of these federal funds could come, for example, from HUD's proposed Urban Development Action Grants, while many of the projects proposed by the Boston Plan ought to be supported by such other federal departments as Labor, Commerce, Energy, Health, Education and Welfare, Interior, Defense, Transportation, and Treasury. The objective of the Boston Plan is to maximize the impact of federal funds from these different agencies by coordinating the use of these monies to leverage state, local, and private investment in order to achieve goals which ordinarily cut across traditional departmental lines.

E. The Neighborhoods

To insure the successful completion of a manageable number of projects, the Boston Plan has focused on four, high-priority, geographical areas of the city. These areas were selected on the basis of both firm public and private commitments and the existence of effective community organizations. The problems and the solution represented by these "neighborhoods" are relevant to other Boston areas (and other cities) as well and therefore, the planning approach used by the Boston Plan ought to be applicable elsewhere.

The Blue Hill Avenue and Hyde Park areas represent neighborhood projects which emphasize the re-investment and service needs necessary to strengthen two types of urban neighborhoods. Blue Hill Avenue represents one of Boston's most deteriorated areas while Hyde Park is an opportunity for preventive maintenance of one of Boston's strongest neighborhoods. Projects in both of these two neighborhoods involve housing, industrial, commercial, energy, and transportation components. The third area deals specifically with the use of a major potential resource, the Harbor, to create new employment opportunities and tax potential for the city. Finally, a new neighborhood will be established at Columbia Point where a mammoth, mostly vacant, public housing project will be converted to a mixed-income housing development, and an abandoned shopping center will be reopened.

II. GOALS OF SPECIFIC PROJECT ACTIVITIES

The Boston Plan is a coordinated attack on our worst urban problems, including jobs and job training, public and private housing, crime, health, energy, education, transportation, recreation, and taxes. In addition to the Executive Summary, this document is organized into four chapters which describe the specific projects proposed in each of the four neighborhoods. This section presents an overview of the effect on the city as a whole of the seventy-two projects constituting the Boston Plan.

A. Increased Job and Job Training

The creation of jobs and job training, are, without question, of primary importance to Boston. The number of unemployed people in ts city was approximately 33,000 in 1976, raising the unemployment rate to 10.8 percent last year. Resident labor force participation has declined significantly as suburbanites take three out of every four new jobs. The various projects proposed will result in some 14,000 permanent jobs and 4,000 temporary jobs in Boston over the next five years. Our goal is to capture half of these jobs for Boston residents.

SENIOR CITIZENS: TAKE NOTE

An MBTA registration team will visit Boston's eight Little City Halls starting October 26 to register eligible senior citizens and handicapped citizens, the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) announced on October 12. Registration will take place between 9:30 A.M. and 2:30 P.M.

To be eligible for a senior citizen reduced fare identification card, which contains the name and address of the holder and a color photograph for positive identification, senior citizens must bring proof of age — 65 years or older — such as a birth certificate, baptismal record, or driver's license; proof of residency such as a driver's license, library card, or charge plate; and a 50¢ cash fee.

Medicare cards will not be accepted as proof of age.

The MBTA stressed that senior citizens who already have a reduced fare identification card do not need to register again. What appears to be an expiration date is used merely for internal auditing and control purposes. Once a reduced fare identification card is issued, it is good for life.

To be eligible for a handicapped citizen, reduced fare, identification card, good only during off-peak hours, handicapped persons must present acceptable proof of their disability such as a Medicaid card showing Category 03, handicapped; a certificate of award letter from the Social Security Administration; or evidence of 70 percent or more disability as determined by the United States Veterans' Administration; or completion of MBTA Form No. SN-7, which must be approved and signed by a physician or state or federal agency serving the handicapped.

The MBTA forms will be mailed to anyone requesting them by calling the MBTA's Special Needs Office at 722-5123.

The MBTA special registration team will visit the Little City Halls on the following dates:

Wednesday, October 26, 1977 — Dorchester Little City Hall, Park Street and Dorchester Avenue; Thursday, October 27, 1977 — Jamaica Plain Little City Hall, 20 South Street; Friday, October 28, 1977 — Hyde Park Little City Hall, 1179 River Street; Monday, October 31, 1977 — Allston Little City Hall, Harvard and Commonwealth Avenues; Tuesday, November 1, 1977 — Roslindale Little City Hall, 6 Cummins Highway; Wednesday, November 2, 1977 — South Boston Little City Hall, 449 West Broadway; Thursday, November 3, 1977 —

West Roxbury Little City Hall, 1860 Centre Street; Friday, November 4, 1977 — Charlestown Little City Hall, 236 Bunker Hill Street.

"SPINE-TINGLERS" AT CHILDREN'S MUSEUM

It's frightening; it's thunder and lightning. It's out-of-sight. It's out of space! And it's right in Jamaica Plain!

What's "it?"

It's the sixth — and best yet — edition of the Children's Museum "Haunted House," an exhibit designed to produce delicious fright and delight in thousands of youngsters and adults while at the same time raising much-needed funds for the Children's Museum Resource Center. The funds provide educational services to community groups and schools in Greater Boston.

Yes, once again, "frightening has struck the Haunted House" at the Children's Museum where it will illuminate all types of "spiritual" delights and chills and thrills from now to October 30.

On Mondays through Thursdays the eerie edifice will be open from 3 P.M. to 6 P.M. On Fridays it will be open 3 P.M. to 9 P.M.; on Saturdays and Sundays the witches and the bewitched will get together from 10 A.M. to 6 P.M.

Top "dis-traction" this year is expected to be the hit in the pit — the cellar — where a science fiction spectacular a la "Star Wars" is sure to ignite all types of "oohs and ahs" from both old and young.

The space fantasy, however, is only one of ten spine-tingling features on the happy, haunting ground.

The spooky, kooky structure will also play host to these unsettling settlers:

A witch at the front door; a spider in a spider web all set to cast more than his spell over you; a "lady of the house" going quite mad as a thunderstorm rattles the Gothic mansion's interior; snakes and more snakes trying mightily to slither their way towards you.

Also, some "offbeat" cooks performing their duties in an oversized, distorted kitchen; a skeleton and a shark in a bathroom scene that makes "Jaws" look merely like a dental brochure; a visit to "Skullay Square" where a conductor is taking tickets on the "Gangrene Line." A romp on a Parisian rooftop with Quasimodo. A corpse "lying in state."

The admission price for both old and young, big and little monsters, is one dollar. To save waiting time, order tickets by mail. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to Haunted House, Children's Museum, Jamaicaaway, Boston, MA 02130. Make checks payable to the Museum Aid. Haunted House is not recommended for children under six.

The Children's Museum is on the Jamaicaaway between Eliot and Burroughs Streets. It can be easily reached by automobile, MBTA, or broomstick, or by practically any "witch" way.

Chairperson of the hair-raising, fund-raising event is Polly Kisiel of the Museum Aid. The Museum's haunts were done by Andy Merrill and Dottie Merrill.

MASSACHUSETTS AUTO THEFT RATE DECLINES

Massachusetts is in the process of losing its dubious distinction of having the highest auto theft rate in the nation. Although final FBI auto theft figures have not been completed, the Massachusetts rate continues to decline for the third consecutive year.

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Alan Mackey announced that from January 1 to August 31, 47,746 motor vehicles were reported stolen. Of these, 42,144 were recovered. During the same period last year, 56,343 motor vehicles were stolen and 51,010 were recovered. This 8,600 decline represents a 6.6 percent decrease in motor vehicle thefts. Since 1975 the number of motor vehicle thefts has dropped by 17 percent.

The Registrar added there are numerous reasons for such an improvement. Among these are built-in, anti-theft devices by the vehicle manufacturers, insurance reductions for added anti-theft devices, and the "Lock it and Pocket the Key" campaigns of many organizations. He also stated the Title Law and close scrutiny by inspections stations of verifying identification numbers is having an impact.

Finally, Registrar Mackey stated that due to the close cooperation between state and local police departments in disseminating information and investigating thefts, the recovery rate is also increasing.

SERIOUS CRIME DECREASES

Reports of serious crime in the United States fell 7 percent during the first six months of 1977, when compared with the same period of 1976, Attorney General Griffin B. Bell announced on October 12.

This trend was noted in statistics from the Uniform Crime Reports released by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The downward trend in serious crime first appeared in the last quarter of 1976, when serious crime was off 6 percent and continued into the first quarter of 1977 when it decreased 9 percent, as compared to similar quarters of the preceding years.

"This is encouraging evidence that the surge of crime in recent years is ebbing," Mr. Bell said. "However, the number of violent crimes — those against persons — remains high. We must persist in our efforts to develop more effective deterrents to all crimes."

The seven Crime Index offenses used to gauge the volume of crime nationwide are separated into two categories: the violent crimes of murder, forcible rape, robbery, and aggravated assault, and the property crimes of burglary, larceny-theft, and motor vehicle theft.

The number of violent crimes, as a group, showed no change when compared with the first half of 1976. The number of property crimes decreased 7 percent. Only two index crimes showed increases. Forcible rape was up 8 percent, and aggravated assault rose 4 percent.

FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley also stressed the importance of preventing crime.

"By practicing simple crime resistance measures, citizens in all walks of life can constructively lessen the opportunities for crime in every part of our nation," he said.

Crime in cities with more than 25,000 inhabitants decreased by 7 percent. The suburban areas recorded a 6-percent decline, and the rural areas showed a drop of 4 percent.

All geographic regions experienced decreases in reported serious crime. The North Central States had the largest decline, 11 percent; the Northeastern States followed with 8 percent; the Southern States, 5 percent; and the Western States, 3 percent.

NEW APPOINTMENT

Mayor White names Maureen Schaffner Police Director of Planning and Research — first woman to hold command position in department's history.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on October 12, announced the appointment of Maureen Schaffner of Dorchester as the first woman in a command position in the Boston Police Department since it was established in 1838.

Mrs. Schaffner, thirty-four, formerly served as the White administration's Commissioner of Elderly Affairs. In a year and a half she was responsible for bringing more than $3 million in federal funds into Boston for programs for the elderly. She will direct the BPD's Planning and Research Division in the Bureau of Investigative Services.

Mayor White said her appointment "is evidence that the old police department in the county is taking the lead in progress police work by appointing a woman to a command staff position." She is believed to be the first civilian woman to serve in such a job in any big city (population over 100,000) police force in the nation.

Mayor White said under his leadership the police Planning and Research Division will be "pursuing federal funds for community research in Boston to devise and implement improved methods of protecting all our citizens, and especially the elderly."

"We have 112,000 people over sixty years old in this city," Mayor White said, "and they will be receiving extra attention as we seek to further reduce crime and improve police relations in all of Boston neighborhoods."

Mrs. Schaffner said another focus of her office will be channeling suggestions from police officers into the policy-making decision process "to help close the gap between police field work and the planning and research function."

"The more we dovetail actual beat experience with planning policy," she said, "the more effective that planning will be."

Director Schaffner was appointed by Mayor White as Commissioner of Elderly Affairs March 3, 1977. She administered programs such as Visiting Aides and Senior Aide, the Mobile Market, the Senior Shuttle, and the Retired Senior Volunteer Program. The budget for elderly programs doubled during her administration, in part because of her success in attracting federal funds for program proposals.

NEW APPOINTMENT

Mayor White appoints Michael Donovan to Police Department administrative post.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on October 12, appointed Michael D. Donovan as Police Commissioner Joseph M. Jordan's administrative assistant.

Mr. Donovan, thirty-three, the former director of the city's CETA program, replaces Stephen P. Dunne who was appointed Mayor White's special assistant for public safety on August 12.

Mayor White said, "Mike Donovan has proven his considerable talent for administration in what is probably one of the toughest jobs in the city—directing the CETA employment program. His direction increased that program from a $12-million program with 200 jobs to a $32-million program boasting nearly 3,000 jobs in less than eighteen months."

Mayor White added, "Under Mike Donovan, the CETA program has achieved the highest performance rating available for such projects from the United States Department of Labor. In a high pressure, high visibility position, Mike Donovan has shown he is a tough, honest, thoroughly professional administrator."

Mr. Donovan, a Boston native, is a 1966 graduate of Boston College. He also holds a master's degree in public affairs from the Lyndon Baines Johnson School of Public Administration at the University of Texas.

A United States Air Force veteran who rose to the rank of captain, he served under two Texas governors as a program evaluator for the Texas Criminal Justice Council. Subsequent to that service, he was executive assistant to Mayor Roy Butler of Austin, Texas.

Mr. Donovan has more recently served as the assistant director in charge of real estate review for the Mayor's Economic Development and Industrial Corporation.

He lives at 86 Baldwin Street, Charlestown, with his wife, Marie, and their two children.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT

Office of the
Collector - Treasurer

Sealed proposals will be received by the Collector-Treasurer of the City of Boston, Massachusetts, at the Office of the Collector-Treasurer, Room M-5, City Hall, Boston,

Massachusetts, until 11 A.M. (Boston time) on Tuesday, November 1, 1977, at which time and place all such proposals will be publicly opened and announced, for the purchase of all (but not less than all) of the following issues of bonds (collectively the "Bonds") of the City of Boston, Massachusetts:

$1,300,000 Municipal Purpose Loan of 1977 (Second Issue) — Payable November 1, $170,000 in 1977 to 1982; $70,000 in 1983 to 1987; and $10,000 in 1988 to 1997.

The Bonds will be general obligations of the City of Boston and all taxable property in the city will be subject to the levy of unlimited ad valorem taxes to pay the Bonds.

The Bonds will be dated November 1, 1977, and will bear interest at the rate of rates per annum specified by the successful bidder therefor in accordance herewith, payable semi-annually on May 1 and November 1 of each year until maturity, will be issued in bearer form in the denomination of $5,000 each, registrable as to principal only and will be exchangeable for fully registered Bonds in denominations of $5,000 or an authorized multiple thereof. Fully registered Bonds may not be re-exchanged for coupon Bonds. The Bonds will be payable at the office of the undersigned Collector-Treasurer in Boston, Massachusetts, and, at the option of the holder, the principal of coupon Bonds (but not the interest) will be payable at the principal office of Citibank, N.A., in the Borough of Manhattan, City and State of New York. The interest on fully registered Bonds will be paid by check or draft mailed to the registered owner thereof by the undersigned Collector-Treasurer, as registrar.

The Bonds will not be subject to redemption prior to maturity. Stated collectively the Bonds will mature on November 1 of each of the years and in the aggregate principal amounts as follows:

Due November 1	Principal Amount
1979	2,160,00
1980	2,160,00
1981	2,160,00
1982	2,160,00
1983	2,060,00
1984	2,060,00
1985	2,060,00
1986	2,055,00
1987	2,055,00
1988	1,905,00
1989	1,905,00
1990	1,905,00
1991	1,905,00
1992	1,905,00
1993	1,900,00
1994	1,900,00
1995	1,900,00
1997	1,785,00

Each proposal must specify the amount for the Bonds (not less than 100 percent or more than 105 percent of the aggregate value of the Bonds) and must specify a multiple of 1/8 or 1/20 of 1 percent rate or rates of interest per annum which the Bonds are to bear but shall not specify more than one interest rate for any Bonds having like maturity; (b) a zero rate interest; or (c) any interest rate for any Bonds which exceeds the interest rate stated in such proposal for any other Bonds by more than 2 percent. The interest due on any Bond on any interest payment date will be represented by a single coupon, and a proposal which specifies supplemental coupons, split interest rate, the cancellation of coupons or the payment of any premium earned in anything other than bank funds will not be considered. In addition to the amount bid for the Bonds, the purchaser must pay an amount equal to the interest on the Bonds accrued to the date of delivery.

As between proposals which comply with this notice, the Bonds will be sold to the bidder (herein called the "successful bidder") offering to purchase the Bonds at the lowest interest cost to the city, such cost to be determined under each proposal by doubling the semi-annual interest rate, compounded semi-annually, necessary to discount the debt service payments from the payment dates to November 1, 1977 and to the price bid, excluding interest accrued to the date of delivery. If there be more than one proposal making said offer at the lowest interest cost, the Bonds will be sold to the bidder whose proposal is selected by the Collector-Treasurer by lot from among all such proposals.

All proposals must be enclosed in sealed envelopes and addressed to Mr. James V. Young, Collector-Treasurer, City Hall, Boston, Massachusetts, and marked on the outside in substance "Proposal for Bonds." As a condition precedent to the consideration of his proposal, each bidder must enclose with it, as a good faith deposit, a certified or cashier's check, payable to the order of the city in an amount not less than $400,000. Proposals will be accepted or rejected, subject to approval by the Mayor, promptly after opening and not later than 3 o'clock P.M., on November 1, 1977. When the successful bidder has been ascertained, the city will notify him and turn all deposits other than that of the successful bidder. The check of the successful bidder will be retained to be applied in part payment for the Bonds or to provide security for the city against loss resulting from the failure of such bidder to comply with the terms of his proposal. No interest will be allowed on the amount of any good faith deposit.

The right is reserved to reject all proposals and to reject any proposals not complying with this notice of sale and, so far as permitted by law, to waive any irregularity or informality with respect to any proposal.

The successful bidder may at his option use to accept the Bonds if prior to their delivery any income tax law of the United States of America or the Commonwealth of Massachusetts shall provide that the interest on the Bonds is taxable, or shall be taxable at a future date, for Federal or Commonwealth income tax purposes, and in such case the deposit made by him will be returned and he will be relieved of his contractual obligations arising from the acceptance of his proposal.

The city has not contracted for the issuance of any policy of municipal bond insurance for the Bonds. If the Bonds qualify for issuance of any such policy or commitment therefor, any purchase of such insurance or commitment shall be at the sole option and expense of the bidder and any increased costs of issuance or delivery of the Bonds resulting by reason of such insurance shall be paid by such bidder. Proposals shall not be conditioned upon the issuance of any such policy or commitment. Any failure of the Bonds to be so insured or of any such policy or commitment to be issued shall not in any way relieve the successful bidder of his contractual obligations arising from the acceptance of his proposal for the purchase of the Bonds.

It shall be a condition to the obligation of the successful bidder to accept delivery of and pay for the Bonds that contemporaneously with or before accepting the Bonds and paying therefor, he shall be furnished without cost, with (a) the approving opinion of the firm of Palmer & Dodge, Boston, Massachusetts, to the effect that the Bonds are valid general obligations of the City of Boston, that all taxable property in the city is subject to the levy of unlimited ad valorem taxes to pay the same and that, under existing statutes, the Bonds are exempt from local property taxes in Massachusetts and the interest thereon is exempt from Massachusetts personal income taxes and from federal income taxes; (b) a certificate of the Corporation Counsel of the city in form satisfactory to said firm, dated as of the date of delivery of the Bonds and receipt of payment therefor, to the effect that no litigation is then pending (or, to his knowledge, threatened) (i) seeking to restrain or enjoin the issuance or delivery of any of the Bonds (ii) in any way contesting or affecting any authority for or the validity of the Bonds (iii) in any way contesting the power of the Collector-Treasurer to issue the Bonds or the power of the city to sell them as contemplated by this notice of sale (iv) in any way contesting or affecting the power of the city to levy and collect taxes to pay the Bonds or (v) contesting the corporate existence or boundaries of the city; (c) a certificate of the Collector-Treasurer and the City Auditor addressed to the successful bidder to the effect that, to the best of their knowledge and belief, that the Official Statement referred to below, both as of its date and as of the date of delivery of the Bonds, did not contain any untrue statement of a material fact and did not omit to state a material fact necessary to make the statements therein, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading; together with the further certificate of the Corporation Counsel of the city confirming the aforesaid certificate of the Collector-Treasurer and Auditor as to matters of law; and (d) the opinion of the firm of Palmer & Dodge, addressed to the successful bidder, to the effect that, although they are not passing upon and do not assume any responsibility for the accuracy or adequacy of the statements contained in the Official Statement and make no representation that they have independently verified the same, on the basis of their participation in the preparation of the Official Statement and in connection with the rendering of their opinion as to the validity of the Bonds, no facts came to their attention which would lead them to believe that the Official Statement (other than financial statements and other financial and statistical data contained therein, as to which such firm will express no opinion) contained any untrue statement of a material fact or omitted to state a material fact necessary to make the statements therein, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading.

Additional information concerning the City of Boston and the Bonds is contained in the Official Statement, dated October 21, 1977, which has been distributed and to which prospective bidders are directed. Such Official Statement is provided for informational purposes only and is not a part of this notice of sale. Additional copies of the Official Statement, in reasonable quantity, may be obtained prior to November 1, 1977, from Mr. James J. Hyde, First Assistant Collector-Treasurer, City Hall, Boston, Massachusetts, 617-725-4140. Following the award of the Bonds in accordance herewith, the city will deliver 300 copies of the Official Statement to the successful bidder for use in reoffering the Bonds to the public.

It is anticipated that CUSIP identification numbers will be printed on the Bonds, but neither the failure to print such number on any Bond, nor any error with respect thereto, shall constitute cause for a failure or refusal by the successful bidder to accept delivery of and pay for the Bonds. All expenses in relation to the printing of CUSIP numbers on the Bonds will be paid for by the city, provided, however, that the city assumes no responsibility for any CUSIP Service Bureau charge or other charge that may be imposed for the assignment of such numbers.

It is expected that the Bonds in definitive form will be ready for delivery at the Office of the Collector-Treasurer, Boston, Massachusetts, or at a place designated by the city in New York, New York, on or about November 17, 1977, against payment of the balance of the purchase price in Federal Reserve funds payable to the order of "City of Boston." The successful bidder will be given at least forty-eight hours notice of the time and place of delivery.

JAMES V. YOUNG,
Collector-Treasurer.

For the purpose of the preceding sentence minority group members are citizens of the United States who are Negroes, Spanish-speaking, Oriental, Indians, Eskimos, or Aleuts.

Each bidder must complete, sign, and file with his bid the "Contractor's Minority Business Utilization Report." The three lowest responsive bidders will also be required to submit a "Certification of Minority Status" form for each subcontractor, supplier, or vendor the bidder proposes to use to provide services or supplies under this contract. The certification shall be completed and signed by the Minority Business Enterprise by the bidder within five (5) days after the time set for receiving bids. At the Authority's request, one or more of the three (3) lowest responsible bidders may also be required to submit the "Information on Minority Business" form (Exhibit G). Sufficient time will be allowed to complete this form if necessary.

THE BOSTON PLAN: ITS PURPOSE

Part 2

The city is concerned with more than the numbers of jobs, or payroll, resulting from these projects proposed in the Boston Plan. A more important issue is the ability of Boston residents to identify, secure, and maintain suitable employment. To this end, job training, skills center, and/or employment coordinators will be utilized in conjunction with neighborhood recruitment centers. This effort ought to improve the caliber of the Boston work force, leading to expansion of private investment in the city.

One type of job program proposed in the Boston Plan is the training of "advocates" for eligible recipients of pensions, transfer payments, and unemployment insurance who do not receive such benefits. While as little as 25 percent of Boston's households depend on such payments for all or part of their income, many potential recipients are not informed or do not know how to collect these funds. Since the city does not pay for any of the direct costs of these programs, every dollar of increased entitlement income or service provided returns to the city's benefit. Manpower programs using employees as facilitators, negotiators, and information deliverers could substantially increase access to entitlement systems and, therefore, increase personal income.

A major industrial park, the Easton Marine Industrial Park, in the Harbor, will provide jobs for 3,000 unemployed people who have marine repair skills. The Crosstown Industrial Park, on the northern end of Blue Hill Avenue, will generate 3,000 permanent jobs from industries locating there. The former Readville Railroad Yards in Hyde Park offer the third site for development of a new, industrial park. This site will either be marketed through the private sector, or will be used by AMTRAK for a heavy railway repair facility, creating jobs for some 1,000 people.

Project activities for Blue Hill Avenue and Hyde Park will support some 1,000 temporary construction jobs per year. Modernization and construction of housing and related facilities at Columbia Point, will provide over 1,400 temporary jobs per year. The projects proposed for the Harbor will create the largest number of permanent jobs in conjunction with state and local investment. In addition to the 3,500 jobs to be created within the Boston Marine Industrial Park, reconstruction of the fish pier will strengthen the fishing industry and create 1,000 jobs. The establishment of a Foreign Trade Zone will increase demand for the port and other transportation services while creating 350 jobs. Development of the former Charlestown Navy Yard will generate 1,800 service sector and light manufacturing jobs, and private development of waterfront property for housing and commercial activity will support 2,400 jobs.

In addition to leveraging private sector jobs, the Boston Plan proposes creation of over 200 additional public service jobs and development of expanded, youth employment programs. Public service jobs will include energy-related training and work programs, tenant foot patrols, open-space management programs, employment training, and basic construction work. Youth employment programs include housing rehabilitation projects, part-time youth work programs, and development of vocational training programs in conjunction with the neighborhood schools.

B. Expansion of Tax Base

Boston's property tax is used to finance almost entirely the local share of city programs. However, over 50 percent of the taxable property in Boston is owned by tax-exempt organizations, which reduces potential revenue for the city. As a result our property tax rate — $252 per $1,000 assessed valuation — is the highest in the nation. A combination of factors has seriously drained the city's economic resources, including: inflationary increase of the costs of public services (at the rate of $40 million per year); the expanding number of poor residents and an increase in the demand for public services; and a decreasing tax base due to a shrinking of Boston's middle-income population. These factors are even more critical considering the fact that Boston must raise approximately 70 percent of its local revenues from the property tax, compared to an average of 40 percent for the nation's fifty largest cities.

The projects described in the Boston Plan, however, will strengthen property values in decaying areas of the city and will create additional sources of local revenue. The three industrial parks described in the previous section will induce substantial private investment and expand the city's tax base. When the Boston Marine Industrial Park is fully operational, for example, the Economic Development Industrial Commission's payment to the city in lieu of taxes will exceed $1 million. Similar payments by other tax-exempt organizations are part of the Boston Plan's efforts to provide the total revenues needed to revitalize the city. In total, an estimated $10 to $15 million of increased tax revenue could result annually from the implementation of the Boston Plan.

C. Commercial and Industrial Development

The two neighborhood reinvestment proposals, Blue Hill Avenue and Hyde Park will benefit from strengthening of commercial areas. The Blue Hill Avenue program recommends removing the outdated, usually empty and boarded-up storefronts along the avenue, and using city and federal funds to strengthen two commercial nodes. Public improvements and business development incentives will also help revitalize the major commercial area in Hyde Park. Plans include attraction of a magnet store and creation of a strong, neighborhood business district program. These programs will increase the existing tax base as well as strengthening the perception of the neighborhoods which are dependent upon viable local shopping amenities.

Infrastructure improvements to the Fort Point Channel, development of a major new commercial activity at the old Penn Central Yards, and establishment of a Foreign Trade Zone will also provide a stimulus to commercial and industrial development in the Harbor area of the city. Demolition of abandoned public housing and construction of new mixed-income housing will convert nontaxable property into tax-producing revenues and will encourage new middle- and upper-income residents to the area. Related private development of two waterfront parcels on the Harbor occurring at a later phase, will create hotel and market housing as well as mixed-income housing and commercial space.

Revitalization of commercial districts is another focus of the Boston Plan. These programs will, in turn, increase the overall level of employment and economic activity in the city. Commercial development of the Harbor will build on Boston's attraction as a tourism center and extension of existing downtown activities. The reopening of the 1,500 square-foot Bayside Mall at Columbia Point will create a regional shopping facility while considering the needs and purchasing power of the proposed mixed-income community.

D. Improved Housing

Providing decent housing to residents of public housing facilities as well as to occupants of private housing stock is a common need throughout the four target areas. Boston has experienced greater housing deterioration than many other urban centers to a large degree because of the age of its housing stock.

One of the major proposals of the Boston Plan is conversion of the Columbia Point Housing Project — the largest public housing project in New England and now over two-thirds vacant — to a new mixed-income development. The 1,000 units proposed for mixed-income use will be established through modernization, demolition, and new construction. The city will maintain its commitment to the people presently living at the Point.

Two housing developments for the elderly will add 250 units of housing in Hyde Park. An elderly development and service center will provide 170 units, including a segregated care facility, for the Blue Hill Avenue area. Privately sponsored housing on waterfront property at the Harbor, built in a later development phase, will add 1,000 to 3,000 units of mixed-income housing.

Concentrated use of existing housing programs, in addition to an abandoned housing rehabilitation program, will strengthen existing housing stock in Boston. Other components of the Boston Plan, which will also improve residential quality, include energy conservation programs, crime prevention strategies, transportation and infrastructure improvements.

E. Reduction of Crime

In order for the projects proposed in the Boston Plan to be successful, the fear and incidence of crime must be reduced. The demolition of vacant structures and construction of new housing units at Columbia Point, for example, will strengthen the residents' sense of security; it will remove obvious targets for vandalism. This improvement alone is not sufficient. A residential security program will also be established at the housing projects at both Columbia Point and Blue Hill Avenue. A community anti-crime program will provide information on crime-prevention measures, promotion of security hardware improvements, and an elderly escort service.

The abandoned housing renovation program, in addition, will further improve neighborhood quality and security by replacing vacant structures with desirable housing opportunities.

Improved Transportation Services

Implementation of the projects described in the Boston Plan depend on an upgrading of transportation services, such as roads, bridges, rapid transit, and bus lines. These services will substantially improve access to the project areas, thus increasing job, housing, recreation, and cultural opportunities.

Bus and rail improvements are necessary to link better the Blue Hill Avenue and Hyde Park neighborhoods internally and will provide better connections with job opportunities downtown and in other employment centers. A new trolley line and interim bus service is essential for Blue Hill Avenue to increase access to local employment and commercial centers. Expanded public transit service is especially vital for Columbia Point to reduce the sense of isolation the residents in this part of the city feel toward the rest of the city.

The Harbor proposal, finally, contains two critical transportation components for industrial use of South Boston. A new Seaport Access Road and Northern Avenue bridge are the necessary infrastructure improvements to provide for efficient truck movement between the industrial areas and the regional highway system. The Seaport Access Road will both enhance the traditional advantages of South Boston for industry and keep trucks off local residential streets. A secondary issue is the development of an efficient bus network to bring local workers from such areas as Hyde Park and Blue Hill Avenue to new job opportunities in South Boston.

Development of Energy Conservation Capabilities

The skyrocketing costs of energy and related utilities are a well-known fact these days, especially for Boston homeowners facing extremely high heating bills. Utility costs for the typical property owner, for example, increased over 70 percent between 1973 and 1976. These increased costs seem proportionately heavier for owner and tenants with the lowest incomes. Basic conservation improvements, however, can substantially reduce these costs and increase homeowners' ability to maintain their property.

To accomplish these goals, an energy outreach program will be established by the City of Boston providing residents with free cost/benefit analyses and technical assistance for energy improvements. Residents may use existing city home-improvement programs to help fund the cost of these energy-saving recommendations.

An energy-conservation firm will also be established through community coordination and input. This firm will coordinate a tool-lending library for energy repairs and for ordering materials at discount prices for resale to area residents. The firm may also produce insulation for winterizing improvements. Energy-conservation technicians will be trained to work with the firm and help implement program activities.

MR. MAYOR GOES TO WASHINGTON

Mayor White takes Boston Plan to White House; outlines Boston's strategy for Urban Revitalization

Mayor Kevin H. White, on October 19, flew to Washington, D.C., to present personally the Boston Plan, a comprehensive blueprint for urban revitalization, to the Carter Administration.

At the invitation of the Carter Administration, Mayor White presented the plan at a 10:45 a.m. meeting of Cabinet members in the Roosevelt Room of the White House on Thursday, October 20. President Carter attended the meeting and personally spoke with Mayor White.

Calling the White House invitation "a unique opportunity to discuss the plan," Mayor White said that the time for total reliance on federal money to solve the problems of the nation's cities has passed.

"We have learned some turbulent lessons over the past ten years," he said. "One of the most important lessons is that federal money alone cannot save the cities. The Boston Plan, with its mixing of federal money and private investment, is a response to urban problems which takes a realistic view of the plight of the cities."

Mayor White, noting that the plan is expected to produce four dollars of private investment for every dollar of federal investment, said, "The main aim of the Boston Plan is jobs for the city's people."

The Boston Plan calls for $100 million in federal assistance to Boston over the next five years to lever over $400 million in private and other public funds to the city. The plan could mean 14,000 permanent new jobs, and 6,000 temporary construction jobs over the next five years to a city whose 1976 unemployment rate exceeded 10 percent.

On October 19, Mayor White met with Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr. and Senator Edward Kennedy to discuss the presentation prior to the Cabinet meeting.

Cabinet officers at that meeting were: Secretary of Transportation, Brock Adams; Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, Patricia Harris; and Secretary of Labor, Ray Marshall.

Accompanying Mayor White were: Senator Kennedy and Speaker O'Neill; Senator Edward Brooke; U.S. Representatives John J. Moakley and James Burke; Lt. Governor Thomas P. O'Neill III; Massachusetts Secretary of Education, Paul Parks; Chairman of the Board of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, Gerhard Bleicken; First National Bank of Boston President, Richard Hill; Chairman of the Board of MIT, Howard Johnson; and Dr. Charles Sanders of Massachusetts General Hospital. Joining Mayor White from his administration were Federal Relations Director, John Drew, and Deputy Mayor for Fiscal Affairs, James Young.

KITS FOR KIDS

This time of year, everyone's looking for special present ideas for children. The Children's Museum staff will share their ideas for inexpensive, personal gifts for children at "Kits for Kids" workshops on November 3 and 12.

Workshop participants will learn how to prepare more than twenty, child-tested kits that are ideal for special holidays, birthdays, hospital visits, and car trips. Most kits can be prepared for $2 to $3.

Children will delight in assembling such kits as a printing kit, a xylophone kit, a bubbles kit, and a kit to make a geodesic playhouse.

Many of the kits can be prepared by older children for their younger brothers and sisters.

The workshop for adults is Thursday, November 3, 7 to 9 P.M.; the workshop for families and adults is Saturday, November 12, 1 to 3 P.M. There's a workshop fee of $5 for adults and $3 for children. Pre-registration is required; call 522-4800.

FREE FLU SHOTS FOR HUB'S ELDERLY

Mrs. Kathryn White appeals to Elderly to "Fight the Flu" by participating in free inoculation program.

Mrs. Kathryn White is urging the city's elderly residents to "fight the flu" by taking advantage of a free inoculation program sponsored by the administration of her husband, Mayor Kevin H. White.

"There are 112,000 people over the age of sixty living in Boston and every year, only about 10,000 eligible elderly people receive inoculations," Mrs. White said. "Many of the city's elderly are passing up an opportunity to be immunized from the flu by trained medical personnel."

As part of a ceremony kicking off the flu inoculation program, Mrs. White received the first flu shot recently at the newly expanded Community Health Center in Uphams Corner, Dorchester. The program is cosponsored by the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly and the city's Department of Health and Hospitals.

Health and Hospitals Director David Rosenbloom and Commissioner of Elderly Affairs Elaine Guiney have designated fifty locations throughout the city as suppliers for the A/Victoria and B/Hong Kong vaccine for the elderly. Assisting in the program this year will be trained personnel from the American Lung Association, the Boston University Home Care Service, the Faulkner Hospital Health Care Corporation, and the ambulatory care units of the Carney Hospital and Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Boston residents sixty and over are eligible for free shots, as well as residents over fifty suffering from certain chronic illnesses. For information on the program and transportation to and from health centers, call the city's Elderly Hotline, 722-4646.

The inoculation program will be conducted until November 15.

"T" SPONSORS TRANSIT USER'S GUIDEBOOK

"Car-Free in Boston: a User's Guide to Public Transportation in Greater Boston and New England," was introduced at a news conference recently by MBTA Chairman Robert R. Kiley.

Speaking beneath the skylight of the newly modernized MBTA Haymarket Station, Mr. Kiley said, "This book is something that Boston has long needed — a comprehensive guide on how to live in Boston and visit Boston without a car.

"We are very pleased to have sponsored this guide, which was written by the Association for Public Transportation, Inc. in cooperation with the MBTA's Community Affairs and Marketing Department.

"It is a comprehensive guide to all transportation services — the MBTA, trains, boats, plan private bus companies, taxis, even mopeds and bicycles.

"It has an extensive 'how to get there' section which should be valuable not only for tourists, but for natives of Boston."

Chairman Kiley introduced Gordon Lewin, director of the Association for Public Transportation, an editor and project director of the ninety-six-page guide.

"Boston is the first city in the United States to publish such a transit user's guide," said Mr. Lewin. "We hope other cities across the country use this Boston guide as a model for their own version." "Car-Free in Boston" has sixteen maps and seventeen chapters, and extensive listings, which have been designed to help readers use the MBTA and a wide range of transit bus, and ferry services throughout the region. The Massachusetts Consumers Council provided supplemental funding for the guide. "It represents a unique, new publication produced through cooperation between two agencies and a nonprofit consumers organization," Mr. Lewin said.

The guide provides readers with transit information for trips to museums, theaters, sports events, parks, beaches, colleges, and towns in Eastern Massachusetts.

"Car-Free in Boston" is available to the public through bookstores for $1.25. Proceeds will be used to print the second edition, Mr. Lewin said. Production of the book was funded by a $7,900 grant from the MBTA and a $1,000 grant from the Massachusetts Consumers Council.

If lawyers are disbarred, are clergymen defrocked, doesn't follow that electricians can be delighted, musicians denoted, cowboy boys deranged, models deposed, tax surgeons debarked, and drycleaners depressed?

CONTRIBUTIONS GRATEFULLY RECEIVED

The Massachusetts Bay United Fund campaign has almost reached the halfway mark of its $18.6 million goal. Herbert Roth, Jr., general chairman, made the statement on October 18, at a luncheon held for campaign workers. Mr. Roth said $9,120,764 in contributions and pledges have already been received. The drive for funds started September 17, and will end November 17.

Also featured will be dog obedience demonstrations, Boston police horses and dogs, marionette plays, spinning and weaving demonstrations, and tours of the pet adoption center, where you may meet a new friend. The fair is open to the public free of charge.

The Animal Rescue League of Boston was incorporated in 1899 as a nonprofit, charitable animal protective organization.

CHARITY DONATION MONEY: WHERE DOES IT GO?

Where does my money go? How much really goes to the agencies? Who gets the services provided by my dollars?

These are just a few of the many questions asked each year during the campaign by employees throughout the Mass. Bay area. The answers are often provided through the Program Services section of the Public Affairs Department.

Either through a tour of a member agency or by hearing one of the United Way speakers, employees get their questions answered, with direct, accurate information on the United Way and its member agencies. Program services is not only a communications link between the United Way and employees, but it is also a link between the member agencies and employees.

In the '77 campaign to date, sixty-six tours have been held for forty-one companies at member agencies in more than thirty of the sixty-six cities and towns in the Mass. Bay area. More than 900 people have seen what their dollars provide at agencies serving retarded citizens, children, the elderly, handicapped, families, teenagers, and others. Voluntary United Way and member agency speakers have addressed 140 audiences at corporate locations throughout the area. The word is spreading.

So if you have a question, get an answer through Program Services. Call Claudia Smith at 742-2010, extension 338. You may be surprised at what you see or hear.

SEALED PROPOSALS FOR $40,000,000 CITY OF BOSTON GENERAL OBLIGATION BONDS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Collector-Treasurer of the City of Boston, Massachusetts, at the Office of the Collector-Treasurer, Room M-5, City Hall, Boston, Massachusetts, until 11 A.M. (Boston time), on Tuesday, November 1, 1977, at which time and place all such proposals will be publicly opened and announced, for the purchase of all (but not less than all) of the following issues of bonds (collectively the "Bonds") of the City of Boston, Massachusetts:

$1,300,000 Municipal Purpose Loan of 1977 (Second Issue) - Payable November 1, $170,000 in 1978; $70,000 in 1983 to 1987; and $10,000 in 1988 to 1997.

The Bonds will be general obligations of the City of Boston and all taxable property in the city will be subject to the levy of unlimited ad valorem taxes to pay the Bonds.

The Bonds will be dated November 1, 1977, and will bear interest at the rate of rates per annum specified by the successful bidder therefor in accordance herewith, payable semi-annually on May 1 and November 1 of each year until maturity, will be issued in bearer form in the denomination of $5,000 each, registrable as to principal only and will be exchangeable for fully registered Bonds in denominations of $5,000 or an authorized multiple thereof. Fully registered Bonds may not be re-exchanged for coupon Bonds. The Bonds will be payable at the office of the undersigned Collector-Treasurer in Boston, Massachusetts, and, at the option of the holder, the principal of coupon Bonds (but not the interest) will be payable at the principal office of Citibank, N.A., in the Borough of Manhattan, City and State of New York. The interest on fully registered Bonds will be paid by check or draft mailed to the registered owner thereof by the undersigned Collector-Treasurer, as registrar.

The Bonds will not be subject to redemption prior to maturity. Stated collectively the Bonds will mature on November 1 of each of the years and in the aggregate principal amounts as follows:

Due November 1	Principal Amount

Each proposal must specify the amount bid for the Bonds (not less than 100 percent or more than 105 percent of the aggregate par value of the Bonds) and must specify a multiple of 1/8 or 1/20 of 1 percent rate or rates of interest per annum which the Bonds are to bear but shall not specify (a) more than one interest rate for any Bonds having like maturity; (b) a zero rate of interest; or (c) any interest rate for any Bonds which exceeds the interest rate stated in such proposal for any other Bonds by more than 2 percent. The interest due on any Bond on any interest payment date will be represented by a single coupon, and a proposal which specifies supplemental coupons, a split interest rate, the cancellation of coupons or the payment of any premium offered in anything other than bank funds will not be considered. In addition to the amount bid for the Bonds, the purchaser must pay an amount equal to the interest on the Bonds accrued to the date of delivery.

As between proposals which comply with this notice, the Bonds will be sold to the bidder (herein called the "successful bidder") offering to purchase the Bonds at the lowest interest cost to the city, such cost to be determined under each proposal by doubling the semi-annual interest rate, compounded semi-annually, necessary to disburse the debt service payments from the payment dates to November 1, 1977 and to the price bid, excluding interest accrued to the date of delivery. If there be more than one proposal making said offer at the lowest interest cost, the Bonds will be sold to the bidder whose proposal is selected by the Collector-Treasurer by lot from among all such proposals.

All proposals must be enclosed in sealed envelopes and addressed to Mr. James V. Young, Collector-Treasurer, City Hall, Boston, Massachusetts, and marked on the outside in substance "Proposal for Bonds." As a condition precedent to the consideration of his proposal, each bidder must enclose with it, as a good faith deposit, a certified or cashier's check, payable to the order of the city in an amount not less than $400,000. Proposals will be accepted or rejected, subject to approval by the Mayor, promptly after opening and not later than 3 o'clock P.M., on November 1, 1977. When the successful bidder has been ascertained, the city will notify him and return all deposits other than that of the successful bidder. The check of the successful bidder will be retained to be applied in part payment for the Bonds or to provide security for the city against loss resulting from the failure of such bidder to comply with the terms of his proposal. No interest will be allowed on the amount of any good faith deposit.

The right is reserved to reject all proposals and to reject any proposals not complying with this notice of sale and, so far as permitted by law, to waive any irregularity or informality with respect to any proposal.

The successful bidder may at his option refuse to accept the Bonds if prior to their delivery any income tax law of the United States of America or the Commonwealth of Massachusetts shall provide that the interest on the Bonds is taxable, or shall be taxable at a future date, for Federal or Commonwealth income tax purposes, and in such case the deposit made by him will be returned and he will be relieved of his contractual obligations arising from the acceptance of his proposal.

The city has not contracted for the issuance of any policy of municipal bond insurance for the Bonds. If the Bonds qualify for issuance of any such policy or commitment therefor, any purchase of such insurance or commitment shall be at the sole option and expense of the bidder and any increased costs of issuance or delivery of the Bonds resulting by reason of such insurance shall be paid by such bidder. Proposals shall not be conditioned upon the issuance of any such policy or commitment. Any failure of the Bonds to be so insured or of any such policy or commitment to be issued shall not in any way relieve the successful bidder of his contractual obligations arising from the acceptance of his proposal for the purchase of the Bonds.

It shall be a condition to the obligation of the successful bidder to accept delivery of and pay for the Bonds that contemporaneously with or before accepting the Bonds and paying therefor, he shall be furnished without cost, with (a) the approving opinion of the firm of Palmer & Dodge, Boston, Massachusetts, to the effect that the Bonds are valid general obligations of the City of Boston, that all taxable property in the city is subject to the levy of unlimited ad valorem taxes to pay the same and that, under existing statutes, the Bonds are exempt from local property taxes in Massachusetts and the interest thereon is exempt from Massachusetts personal income taxes and from federal income taxes; (b) a certificate of the Corporation Counsel of the city in form satisfactory to said firm, dated as of the date of delivery of the Bonds and receipt of payment therefor, to the effect that no litigation is then pending (or, to his knowledge, threatened) (i) seeking to restrain or enjoin the issuance or delivery of any of the Bonds (ii) in any way contesting or affecting any authority for or the validity of the Bonds (iii) in any way contesting the power of the Collector-Treasurer to issue the Bonds or the power of the city to sell them as contemplated by this notice of sale (iv) in any way contesting or affecting the power of the city to levy and collect taxes to pay the Bonds or (v) contesting the corporate existence or boundaries of the city; (c) a certificate of the Collector-Treasurer and the City Auditor addressed to the successful bidder to the effect that, to the best of their knowledge and belief, that the Official Statement referred to below, both as of its date and as of the date of delivery of the Bonds, did not contain any untrue statement of a material fact and did not omit to state a material fact necessary to make the statements therein, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading; together with the further certificate of the Corporation Counsel of the city confirming the aforesaid certificate of the Collector-Treasurer and Auditor as to matters of law; and (d) the opinion of the firm of Palmer & Dodge, addressed to the successful bidder, to the effect that, although they are not passing upon and do not assume any responsibility for the accuracy or adequacy of the statements contained in the Official Statement and make no representation that they have independently verified the same, on the basis of their participation in the preparation of the Official Statement and in connection with the rendering of their opinion as to the validity of the Bonds, no facts came to their attention which would lead them to believe that the Official Statement (other than financial statements and other financial and statistical data contained therein, as to which such firm will express no opinion) contained any untrue statement of a material fact or omitted to state a material fact necessary to make the statements therein, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading.

Additional information concerning the City of Boston and the Bonds is contained in the Official Statement, dated October 21, 1977, which has been distributed and to which prospective bidders are directed. Such Official Statement is provided for informational purposes only and is not a part of this notice of sale. Additional copies of the Official Statement, in reasonable quantity, may be obtained prior to November 1, 1977, from Mr. James J. Hyde, First Assistant Collector-Treasurer, City Hall, Boston, Massachusetts, 617-725-4140. Following the award of the Bonds in accordance herewith, the city will deliver 300 copies of the Official Statement to the successful bidder for use in reoffering the Bonds to the public.

It is anticipated that CUSIP identification numbers will be printed on the Bonds, but neither the failure to print such number on any Bond, nor any error with respect thereto, shall constitute cause for a failure or refusal by the successful bidder to accept delivery of and pay for the Bonds. All expenses in relation to the printing of CUSIP numbers on the Bonds will be paid for by the city, provided, however, that the city assumes no responsibility for any CUSIP Service Bureau charge or other charge that may be imposed for the assignment of such numbers.

It is expected that the Bonds in definitive form will be ready for delivery at the Office of the Collector-Treasurer, Boston, Massachusetts, or at a place designated by the city in New York, New York, on or about November 17, 1977, against payment of the balance of the purchase price in Federal Reserve funds payable to the order of "City of Boston." The successful bidder will be given at least forty-eight hours notice of the time and place of delivery.

JAMES V. YOUNG,
Collector-Treasurer.

THE BOSTON PLAN: ITS PURPOSE

Part 3

H. Expansion of Recreation and Education Facilities

Expansion of recreation and education facilities will be accomplished by programs proposed in the Boston Plan. The housing, commercial, and industrial projects planned for the Harbor area, for example, are to be enhanced by new recreational facilities. Public waterfront amenities will offer a marina, picnic areas, an overlook to the harbor, and tennis and basketball courts.

A new municipal facility and civic center at Hyde Park will include an amphitheater in addition to education opportunities. This center will be used as an outpost of community colleges and will offer adult education classes. Function and activity rooms at the proposed elderly centers for the Blue Hill Avenue area and Hyde Park also expand recreation and education facilities in those neighborhoods.

Columbia Point promises an educational and cultural opportunity which is unique, due to the proximity of the University of Massachusetts and the new John F. Kennedy Library. Special education programs and membership options may be offered to area residents. A conference center may also be established through renovation of an existing building at the Columbia Point site.

I. Increased Community Confidence

The signs of public and private investment in the target areas in Boston should increase community confidence in these neighborhoods. The Boston Plan surely will not solve all the problems of the city, but the discrete projects outlined herein will affect the viability and livability of these neighborhoods. Transforming the largely vacant public housing project at Columbia Point into a mixed-income development, for example, will create a new neighborhood taking advantage of the waterfront and having increased access to the city.

The two areas in Hyde Park and along Blue Hill Avenue, in addition, will benefit from a multifaceted approach satisfying commercial, residential, and industrial needs of the communities. The two neighborhoods have two different sets of needs, however, for community confidence. Blue Hill Avenue requires substantial efforts to counteract its negative image from the media, outsiders, and community residents themselves. Hyde Park, on the other hand, is a strong community in the need of intervention programs mainly as a form of preventative maintenance, although the residential, commercial, and employment programs proposed will certainly strengthen the area.

Expanded use of the Harbor, finally, rounds out recent public and private efforts for residential and commercial use of the waterfront property. The industrial use of this area, as well as the other job-related activities proposed in the Boston Plan, will provide the necessary stimulus to the city's economy and community well-being.

III. IMPLEMENTATION

A. Affirmative Action

Equal opportunity and affirmative action provisions of the Boston Plan will insure that minorities share the benefits of the proposed projects, especially during construction. Through a combination of its current affirmative action provisions and new measures, the City of Boston will take positive steps to foster the development of minority construction interests in the areas of contracting, purchasing, and employment. A strong monitoring and enforcement component will play a crucial role in the successful implementation of this affirmative action plan.

To this end, compliance monitors will be hired with overhead money from grant projects. These monitors will work within each department responsible for carrying out the development and construction work and will report to the department head who will be ultimately responsible for compliance of work carried on under that particular department. The network of monitors will be tied to a central office of human rights where support training, and updating in laws and requirements will be ongoing. Chief among the monitors' duties will be inspection of both the contractors' office files and construction project to determine compliance with law and policies on minority contracting, purchasing, and hiring. The monitor will also assume responsibility for oral and written compliance reports.

Projects prepared under the Boston Plan will utilize minority general contracting and subcontracting firms to the greatest extent possible. Existing city policy provides very specific guidelines for this utilization. According to Executive Order, in areas of high minority concentration, such as Blue Hill Avenue and Columbia Point, a general contractor must "execute with qualified minority contractor . . . not less than fifty percent (50%) of the subcontracts which are made under this contract, to comprise no less than thirty percent (30%) of the total subcontract price." Contractors who work in areas with a low concentration of minority groups members, in addition, must "contact qualified minority contractors in any negotiations for subcontractor."

A 10 percent goal for the utilization of minority firms in the non-impacted areas will be applied city-wide. Minority concerns would then be involved in 10 to 30 percent of all construction resulting from the Boston Plan.

B. Evaluation

The Boston Plan will be evaluated in relation to a series of desired outcomes. These outcomes, or goals, represent factors necessary to preserve and enhance the city's structure and citizenry. Broadly stated, each project in the Boston plan will be measured in terms of its effectiveness in reducing the net budget deficit, increasing access to income supports and social services for eligible recipients, expanding the tax base of the city, and maintaining the capacity of the municipal government to provide basic services at an effective level.

This measurement will provide both a clear sense of priorities to the local operating departments and a framework for requests by the City of Boston for federal assistance. The goals of the various strategies will be: (i) to produce a return or investment of public funds in the economy of the city; (ii) to reverse the investment drain experienced in Boston by recapturing the city's economic advantages; and (iii) to encourage continued reinvestment of profits made in the city in opportunities to provide jobs and income and reduction in the cost of living for Boston residents.

In order to provide a framework for this evaluation, the concept of a "public balance sheet" will be used. Though far more complicated and less precise than a corporate balance sheet, this framework will provide the city with the capacity to calculate the impacts of the various projects within the Boston Plan.

The City of Boston has identified six categories of results desired from projects proposed in the Boston Plan:

1. The net disposable incomes of Boston residents should increase through creation and capture of new jobs and through increasing the amount of state and federal entitlements.

2. The amount of money necessary to maintain a decent standard of living in Boston should be reduced.

3. Private sector investment in Boston should be increased and more efficiently targeted.

4. The local tax base and the revenue it yields should be expanded while holding tax rate increases at or below the inflation rate.

5. The population and residential property market values must be stabilized.

6. Several neighborhoods within the city should be revitalized recognizing a growth in population and an increase in mortgage lending.

The prosperity in the City of Boston will follow these results because they provide for a strong private economic sector, investment in our neighborhoods, a public treasury capable of sustaining educational and social quality, and a population productively at work. These goals form the basis for projects within the Boston Plan's four target areas and also represent an overall development strategy for the city. The following table lists thirty-two specific indicators we will use to measure our progress in achieving these goals.

EVALUATION INDICATORS FOR THE BOSTON PLAN

1. An increase in the median household income of present Boston residents.

2. An increase in the median household income of residents in the Metropolitan area.

3. The rate of deviation of median incomes of residents of Boston, and Boston neighborhoods, from those of the state and the nation.

4. A decrease in the percentage of the workforce dependent on public assistance or permanent subsidized jobs in the public sector.

5. A decrease in the percentage of personal income required to meet local tax burdens.

6. Reduced costs of basic goods and services such as housing, food, clothing, and transportation.

7. Ability-to-pay calculations from net disposable income.

8. Increased municipal output measured against constant cost levels.

9. A decrease in the gap between the median income of Bostonians and the BLS minimum.

10. The relative share of municipal costs borne solely by the property tax.

11. An increase in the value of private investment, and the extent to which new, relatively labor-intensive investments are made.

12. Increased commercial sector activity, with particular attention to neighborhood strips.

13. An increase in private dollars slated for new housing construction and rehabilitation mortgages.

14. A reallocation of industrial, commercial, and institutional development dollars towards job-producing programs, as opposed to expenditures solely for plant and equipment.

15. A decrease in the share of the municipal tax burden borne by the residential sector.

16. An increased share of the jobs in the Metropolitan area held by Bostonians.

17. A decrease in the tax burden taken as a percentage of the local tax base.

18. A reduction in per capita debt.

19. An increase in the tax base as measured against other cities in the northeast region and as a share of the Metropolitan area.

20. An increase in the city's capacity to deliver demanded human services while maintaining tax rate stability.

21. An increase in the city's return on investment measured in terms of income and employment.

22. Increased productivity from the existing service sector.

DON'T GET "BOOTED"!

Denver Boot debuts as full-time part of Boston's parking scofflaw crackdown

The long-awaited "Denver Boot" automobile immobilizer has made its debut, adding still another weapon to the arsenal of sanctions Boston is marshaling for its ongoing war on illegal parking in the city.

The "Boot," also known as the "Boston Buckle," was first introduced last spring to Boston in a pilot program. Delays by the supplier of the boots, Dorothy Davies Associates of Washington, D.C., stalled the booting program from being implemented on a full-time basis until last week. Boston now possesses the necessary immobilizers.

The boot is a device weighing about 20 pounds that can be clamped and locked on the front wheel of any car in less than two minutes. Once the boot is applied, the car is effectively impounded pending full payment of all outstanding parking fines. Unpaid parking fines in Boston are projected to reach $44 million by June 30, 1978.

Mayor White said, "I have been disturbed by the delay in securing the boots. But now we have them, and we are going to employ them at every opportunity."

He added, "The boots will speed the collection of parking tickets owed the city, and hopefully deter what has become a flagrant abuse of parking regulations in Boston."

Noting that abolition of illegal parking in Boston could result in a traffic flow efficiency increase of 40 percent, Mayor White said, "Illegal parking literally chokes transportation routes. Police and fire service is hindered, and truck delivery is delayed by these traffic abuses. Residents and commuters alike are to blame for the current tangle of traffic abuses — abuses which will no longer be tolerated."

The city estimates that its investment of $15,000 in fifty boots, coupled with other legislative initiatives aimed at expediting collections, will yield $5 million in unpaid parking fines in the first year.

The average booting in Washington, D.C., where the booting program has yielded dramatic results, nets $235. That means that Boston's boots, which cost $300 apiece, would nearly pay for themselves after two applications.

The boot will be applied by a two-man boot unit consisting of one police officer and one civilian employee of the Towing Enforcement Division. The unit will be armed with lists of automobiles, both in-state and out-of-state, which owe five or more unpaid traffic tickets. Those lists alone record revenues owed the City of Boston in excess of $4.5 million.

Once the delinquent car has been immobilized, a notice indicating that the car has been booted is affixed to the windshield. That notice prescribes the steps necessary to redeem the vehicle.

The car owner must call a specified telephone number to receive the list of delinquent tickets and the courts throughout the city in which they are held. The car will be released only after the owner has paid the tickets in the appropriate courts. Those courts will issue receipt which must be presented to the booting unit before the vehicle can be released. If a booted vehicle's tickets are not paid within forty-eight hours, the vehicle is moved to the tow-and-hold lot, and an assessment is made for towing. That totals $12 for towing, plus $5 per day for storage.

The experience of Washington, D.C., authorities shows that 80 percent of the booted vehicles pay their tickets within the two-day period.

Mayor White said, "The booting program is meant to complement the existing vigorous towing program within the city. It can be effective in areas where towing is difficult because of the tight parking, or for autos which, because of their design, defy effective towing."

SCHOOL VISITS PROGRAM AT MUSEUM OF SCIENCE

A flaming handkerchief that doesn't burn, a parasite magnified 21,000 times, and a flying hovercraft are among the unusual sights greeting school children at Boston Museum of Science this fall.

As a new school year gets underway, the first several thousand of an estimated 150,000 students to come have already visited the Museum under the state-sponsored School Visits Program. In addition to the free visit all public, parochial and private school classes are allowed, a choice of fourteen special programs are also offered without charge.

Ranging from the topics of energy for elementary grades to polymers for senior high schools, these programs supplement school curriculum or introduce students to subjects their schools do not cover. The Museum's resources in exhibits and equipment make possible what one educator calls "an incredible amount of dynamism and vigor."

"The Burning Question," a program new this year, illustrates the Museum's approach. Punctuated with small explosions and flashes of re, the program traces the way fire has been made and understood from ancient times to the present. The series of experiments, like that with the flaming handkerchief, opens a vista to chemistry as enlightening to ten-year-olds as it is to those in their early teens.

Although all programs are geared to grade levels when presented, some are particularly appropriate for certain grades. The youngest elementary classes attend "Animal Worlds," an experience with small mammals, reptiles, and amphibians; "Get-Up-and-Go," a participation in activating toy cars, pinwheels, and light bulbs with diverse forms of energy. Elementary students also attend programs related to the Museum's exhibits, such as "Dinosaurs and Early Life," and "How Your Life Began." Older students attend programs focusing on aspects of biology and chemistry, as well as programs related to exhibits.

Brought back this year after refurbishing is "Wings and Things," a demonstration of the principles of flight. A jet engine, hovercraft, blimp, hot-air balloon, and other devices provide dramatic examples of humans' efforts to imitate the birds. "Wings and Things" is for grades five through twelve. A shortened version is free to weekend Museum visitors.

Programs in the Hayden Planetarium, geared to grade levels, range from "Looking Up," an introduction to the skies for the youngest students to "How High the Moon?" for students in grades seven through nine who are given an idea of the immensity of the universe. High school students generally attend the same Planetarium programs offered in the regular schedule for the public.

The Museum urges classroom teachers to attend its free workshops, held Tuesday and Saturday afternoons, for help in planning student activities that supplement and reinforce the class visit. The Education Department of the Museum at 723-2500, extension 341, should be notified in advance.

SMOKERS AND NON-SMOKERS JOIN FORCES

The overwhelming majority of both groups think separate smoking and no-smoking sections in public places are a fine idea. In a survey of more than 9,000 residents in six counties, the Christmas Seal League of Southwestern Pennsylvania — an affiliate of the American Lung Association — found that 68 percent of smokers and 78 percent of nonsmokers favored the idea. Another national survey done by the government showed that the majority of both groups across the country think smoking should be banned in more public places.

In the Christmas Seal League's survey, nonsmokers and ex-smokers also pinpointed the places — public and private — where smoking disturbs them most. The results are fascinating and, no doubt, a surprise to some smokers:

Cars, 75 percent; restaurants, 64 percent; planes, buses, 53 percent; elevators, 52 percent; friends' homes, 51 percent; waiting rooms, 51 percent; meetings, 43 percent; and hospitals, 41 percent.

To help nonsmokers express their distress firmly but politely — and to help smokers realize how much they affect those around them — the American Lung Association has issued a special publication for both groups called, "Facts and Features for Nonsmokers and Smokers." Lung Associations across the country distribute buttons, stickers, signs, and leaflets to help people create more smoke-free environments. They even make available T shirts with a stop-sign imprint, "Lungs At Work — No Smoking" for concerned nonsmokers.

Helping smokers and nonsmokers protect their own lungs and health is the aim of the American Lung Association of Boston — the "Christmas Seal" people. Because they care about every breath you take. So ask them for help. You can help them, in turn, by sending in your Christmas Seal contribution to support their efforts to help nonsmokers and smokers join forces.

NEW HEATING GUIDELINES ISSUED

Housing Inspection Commissioner John Vitagliano has announced that he is lowering minimum heating standards in Boston in response to state and federal energy conservation guidelines.

Landlords will now be required to provide heat to a temperature of at least 68° F. between 7 A.M. and 11 P.M., and at least 64° F. between 11 P.M. and 7 A.M. This is a decrease from the old standard of 70° F. during the day and 65° F. at night.

For the first time, the city will also be enforcing a maximum allowable temperature in residential buildings during the heating season from September 15 to June 15. The new maximum temperature is 78° F. and is also in conformance with state guidelines. Housing inspectors will begin enforcing the new regulations immediately.

The lower heating standard represents an attempt to reduce energy consumption in the city and meet new regulations set by the Federal Energy Administration which controls federal funds coming into Massachusetts for energy programs. The new heating standards are expected to result in a 6 percent fuel savings in Boston, and are being implemented only after having been cleared by medical authorities as being consistent with good health practices.

Commissioner Vitagliano said that the Housing Inspection Department has already received numerous complaints about landlords turning off the heat at night and on weekends. He stressed that all violators will be dealt with harshly and can be assessed stiff fines in Boston Housing Court.

Commissioner Vitagliano reminded tenants who have complaints to call the Housing Inspection Department at 725-4788 on weekdays, or the Mayor's twenty-four-hour service at 725-4000 at night or on weekends. Tenants can also register no-heat complaints at their Little City Halls.

MAYOR FILES PAY RAISE REQUEST WITH COUNCIL

Mayor Kevin H. White has filed legislation with the Boston City Council calling for a salary increase for himself from $40,000 per year to $65,000 per year.

The legislation was prompted by the difficulty the city has confronted in hiring and retaining top-level, management personnel, and by inflation which has been eating away at the salary base of top-level, public sector, management personnel.

The Mayor has not had a pay raise during his ten years in office.

Mayor White said, "No mayor is comfortable raising his own salary, but under Boston's system there is no other way. Part of the reason I seek the raise is to enable the city to more effectively compete with the private sector for talented personnel — and part of it is personal. A mayor should be paid commensurately for his duties just as anyone else."

Under existing city statutes, no mayoral raise can take effect until the year after it is approved. The mayor's salary was last approved for increase under Mayor John Collins who boosted the yearly salary from $20,000 to $40,000.

VETERANS DAY

One minute before eleven o'clock in the morning of November 11, 1918, the long battlefront in France shook with the roar of cannon. One minute later, a complete silence. Then the shouts of soldiers and a cry of joy that reechoed throughout the world. The armistice with Germany, signed at 5 A.M. that morning, had gone into effect. So ended the fighting in the First World War, which had cost more lives than any previous war in history. Ever since, the allies have commemorated November 11 as Armistice Day (now known as Veterans Day). November 11 is the date of its celebration this year. An armistice differs from a truce in that it extends to the whole or a considerable part of the armies of two or more countries, and precedes or looks toward negotiations for peace.

Advances, retreats, or the redistribution of troops in the fighting line are forbidden during an armistice, but supplies and reinforcements may be brought up. It was this kind of armistice that was concluded between the central powers on the one side and Russia on the other, December 15, 1917. The armistices which were concluded between the victorious allies on one side and defeated Bulgaria (September 29), Turkey (October 31), Austria-Hungary (November 3), and Germany (November 11, 1918) were of a different sort. They contained such severe terms that, instead of maintaining the existing military situation (status quo), they were deliberately framed so as to make it impossible for the central powers to resume the war. They amounted, therefore, to surrender on the part of Germany and her allies and forecast the peace terms to be imposed on the defeated states. It is customary in the United States, at 11 A.M. on Veterans Day, to stand for one minute in silent tribute to our fallen World War heroes, who so nobly sacrificed their lives for the cause of peace.

SPECIAL AUCTION SALE

A public auction of unclaimed and damaged merchandise will be conducted by the Boston Post Office on Thursday, November 10, 1977, at 9 A.M., South Postal Annex, 24 Dorchester Avenue, Boston, Mass., Postmaster Philip L. Sullivan has announced.

Items for sale will include books, jewelry, appliances, tools, clothing, household accessories, and numerous other items.

This merchandise may be inspected the day before the sale. Wednesday, November 9, 1977, from 10 A.M. to 2 P.M. Sale on auction day will be by lot number only and no examination of merchandise will be permitted.

All articles will be sold on an "as is" basis and no refunds will be made. Payments must be made in cash and merchandise must be removed either during the sale or immediately after the sale.

The Postmaster reminds all post customers that holiday gifts should be tightly packaged and securely closed. Parcels should be well cushioned. Shredded paper or other cushioning materials can help prevent damage to a costly package. All parcels should bear a return address and ZIP codes and a duplicate address should be enclosed inside the package.

MBTA CONTRACT AWARDED

The MBTA Board of Directors on October 26, authorized a $4,858,886 contract award to J. F. White Contracting Company of Newton, lowest of four bidders, for major construction work at Capen's Circle and Route 3 in connection with the Red Line extension into Braintree.

The contractor, in joint venture with New England Equipment Rental Company and Gateway Realty Trust, will demolish the existing highway bridge and build a new one over the Authority right-of-way; widen and modify the existing bridge over Route 3; make roadway improvements at Capen's Circle; and build retaining walls of the rapid transit right-of-way to permit the segregation of MBTA and Conrail track.

Under an agreement between the MBTA and the Massachusetts Department of Public Works, responsibility for this project was divided as follows: the MDPW advertised the contract and opened bids and will manage the contract during construction; the MBTA awarded and will fund the contract.

On a related matter, the Board authorized the expenditure of an additional $94,693.29 for extra work requested primarily by the Town of Braintree, under an existing contract for sitework structures between Washington and Union Streets being performed by Modern Continental Construction Company.

The Board also authorized the expenditure of $65,022 to cover engineering services by Parson Brinckerhoff, Quade & Douglas during construction of the extension which the firm is designing.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT

CONSULTANT SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Your permission, is requested to dispense with advertising to award a contract to the Boston Foundation, Inc., Mass., for consultant services to be furnished to the Administrative Service Department. The cost to the City of Boston for this service will not exceed $80,000, and will cover the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978.

The Foundation shall, under the contract, provide the Director of Federal Regulations with a support staff in Washington, D.C., who shall assist the City of Boston in improving the effectiveness of dealings with the federal government in the following areas:

a. monitoring legislation which affects the city; b. monitoring federal grant opportunities; c. enlarging and maximizing the city's opportunities for presentation of testimony at pertinent Congressional and administrative hearings; d. providing to the Mayor and other city officials advice, guidance, and technical assistance as pertains to legislation affecting the city's interests; e. providing liaison within city departments in the administration of federal funds.

After a thorough investigation, I have concluded the Boston Foundation, Inc., by way of the capabilities of the Director of Federal Regulations, is best suited to perform this service.

On the basis of the foregoing, it is my opinion that inviting proposals advertisements in the City Record, would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,

EDWARD T. SULLIVAN,
Director.

AUDITING DEPARTMENT

LEDGER SYSTEM

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with public advertising and award a contract to Software International, Inc., Elm Square, Andover, Mass. 01810, a Massachusetts corporation, to install a computer-based, integrated revenue ledger and general ledger system for the city. This contract will be for the period June 15, 1977, through December 31, 1977. The total cost of this contract will not exceed $45,000, including all system maintenance.

The revenue and general ledgers of the city have been maintained for a number of years on bookkeeping machines which will soon have to be replaced. It is, therefore, advantageous at this time to convert the revenue and general accounting systems to an integrated, computer-based system, utilizing the capabilities of the city's IBM 370 computer.

The system will be under the complete operational control of the Auditing Department and no additional personnel will be required. The proposed system will increase the speed and accuracy of the accounting system and will facilitate the reporting of financial information on a more timely basis. In addition, the system has the capability to perform inventory and cost accounting which will be required in the future.

Software International, Inc. will supply their MMS accounting system; provide the technical services required to modify the basic system to meet the special requirements of the City of Boston; train employees in the use of the system; and provide operational assistance during the installation period.

Since the basic MMS accounting system, with modifications, meets our special requirements, has been thoroughly tested and installed in over two hundred major companies throughout the country, and cost substantially less than the cost of developing a system from scratch, I believe that no purpose would be served by public advertising.

Respectfully yours,

W. W. MERRILL,
City Auditor.

CONSULTING SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract for consulting services to Kenneth F. Sheehan, 12 Lowell Street, North Billerica, Mass. 01862, during the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $32,000.

Mr. Sheehan has served as a consultant to the city since November 1, 1976, and has designed and installed new systems and procedures for general and revenue accounting that bring the city's accounting system into substantial conformance with the recommendations of the National Committee on Governmental Accounting and generally accepted accounting practices. During the next year, Mr. Sheehan will be engaged in the conversion of the new accounting systems from bookkeeping machine operations to an on-line, integrated, computer-based system. Mr. Sheehan will also be engaged in developing an inventory system for accounting for materials and supplies, improvements in accounts payable, and appropriation accounting which are essential to improved accounting and financial reporting, and the preparation of an accounting manual describing the accounting system and the methods and procedures for accounting for financial transactions.

In view of Mr. Sheehan's special qualifications, I believe that no public interest would be served by public advertisement for bids.

Very truly yours,

WALTER W. MERRILL,
City Auditor.

AUDITORIUM GUARD SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Your authority is hereby requested to dispense with advertising in the City Record in awarding to Excelon Security Services, Inc., a contract for furnishing guard and patrol service in the city's John B. Hynes Veterans Auditorium, at 900 Boylston Street, Boston, for the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978, at a cost to the city of $37,419.84.

In 1976, the Auditorium Commission advertised in the City Record for bids, and Excelon Security Services, Inc. was the low bidder and is now proposing to furnish guard service to the Auditorium at the same price of $2.13 which was his bid price of last year. This commission feels it would be in the best interest of the city to retain the services of this contractor for the period stated with no increase in contract price, and because of the professional nature of the work and services involved, it does not appear that any useful purpose would be achieved by advertising for bids for this contract.

Therefore, we respectfully request your permission to dispense with advertising and award a contract to Excelon Security Services, Inc., 80 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass., in the amount of $37,419.84.

Very truly yours,

ROBERT C. LINNELL,
Chairman.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT

PHOTOGRAPHIC SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to dispense with bidding and award a contract, without advertising, to Mr. Richard Murphy, of 10 Houghton Street, Dorchester, who is currently under contract for the taking and developing of photographs used in the enforcement function of this department.

Under the existing present contract, the city has found the services of Mr. Murphy to be excellent. Because of the increased cost of materials, we request permission to minimally increase the price under the new contract as follows:

1. $3.40 per 8 x 10, black and white; 6 A.M. to 8 P.M., Mondays through Fridays;
2. $3.40 per 8 x 10, black and white; Saturdays, Sundays, holidays, and other than normal working hours.

Although the charge is higher than the original contract, it is still much less than the second lowest bidder under the original contract, who had bid $5 per print.

Because I am extremely satisfied with the contractor's performance and in view of the fact that his price is lower than others proposed in last year's competitive bidding, it is my view that public advertising would serve no useful or practical purpose at this time.

The cost of photographic services under the proposed contract will not exceed $30,000, and will be paid to the contractor from Community Development Block Grant funds.

Respectfully,

FRANCIS W. GENS,
Building Commissioner.

COMMUNITY SCHOOLS

YOUTH PROGRAMS OPERATIONS

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

I respectfully request your Honor's written authorization to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to Programs for Youth, Inc., a corporation organized under M. G. L. c. 180, with a place of business at 316 Huntington Avenue, Boston.

Under the terms of the contract, Programs for Youth, Inc., will furnish during the period July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978, personnel, supplies, materials, equipment, and administration necessary to operate the Community School programs at the Agassiz, Blackstone, Cleveland/Marshall, Condon, East Boston, Henningan, Holland, Jackson/Mann, Kent/Charlestown, Lee, Mattahunt, Murphy, Ohrenberger, Quincy, Tynan, and West Roxbury Community Schools, at a cost for such services not to exceed $400,000.

In view of the professional and technical nature of the services to be performed in addition to the excellent performance of Programs for Youth under previous contracts, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,

LISA ZANKMAN,
Director.

Under the terms of the contract, the BRA will continue to supervise and carry out activities previously approved for urban renewal funding under the Housing and Development Act of 1949.

Due to the unique nature of the task to be performed and the legal status of the BRA to carry out these tasks, the useful purpose would be served by public advertising and bidding.

Very truly yours,

PETER SCARPIGNATO,
Acting Director.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

DEAR SIR:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award to Woodward Spring Shop, Inc., 111 McGrath Highway, Quincy, Mass., the task of performing extensive repairs to Ladder Company (234T) in the amount of $2,979.62, Service Order No. 6638-77.

The service order is covered under Contract No. RS 001 for repetitive services for the year 1976-1977.

On November 15, 1976, the City Auditor and the Law Department gave permission for the Fire Department to follow this procedure due to the emergency nature of the work which involves critical fire-fighting equipment and which exceeds the $2,000 limitation.

Very truly yours,

GEORGE H. PAUL,
Fire Commissioner.

HEALTH AND HOSPITALS DEPARTMENT

PREVENTIVE MAINTENANCE

DEAR SIR:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I hereby respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract to Mosler Safe Co., Bear Hill Industrial Park, 61 Hickory Drive, Waltham, Mass. 02154, for the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $3,580.

Under this contract Mosler Safe Co. will provide for service and preventive maintenance of the previously installed Mosler Telelift System utilized by the Medical Records Department at Boston City Hospital.

Mosler Safe Co. is the manufacturer and patent holder of the system equipment owned by Boston City Hospital and the only firm capable of properly servicing and maintaining it. It is furthermore city's interest to insure uninterrupted service. The equipment is in full operation on a twenty-four-hour day, seven-days-a-week basis, furnishing medical services on short notice.

Therefore, because of the unique qualifications of the Mosler Safe Co., the particular needs of the Boston City Hospital and because the cost to the city is reasonable, no benefit would inure to the city by publicly advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,

DAVID L. ROSENBLUM,
Commissioner

RESUR:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals at its meeting of December 21, 1975, I hereby request your Honor's permission to renew, without advertising, the city's contract with the Boston University School of Medicine, for the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978, to provide physician's services at Boston City Hospital.

The total cost to the city for this contract shall be a sum not to exceed $95,200.

Under the terms of this contract, the said physicians will serve under the Board of Health and Hospitals, but without direct compensation from the City of Boston. The individual assignments to the positions will be by the University with the approval of the board. The decision of this department to enter into this type of contractual engagement was made after consideration of several factors, the most significant being to make it possible for these physicians to take advantage of certain benefits which would not otherwise be available to them if they were paid directly by the City of Boston. I refer particularly to their participation in the Teachers Insurance Annuity Association, nationwide, benefit plan offering extremely generous benefits to its members which must be associated directly by a university, college, or medical school. Benefits accruing through membership in this association can be transferred if a physician when academic affiliation might be changed. However, this would not be possible if these physicians were compensated directly by the City of Boston. If they were members of the State-Boston Retirement System.

Because of the special fitness of the University to provide these services and because of the personal and professional nature of the services to be provided, my approval is respectfully requested to dispense with public advertising and to award this contract, without advertising, to Boston University School of Medicine under the terms and conditions stated above.

Very truly yours,

DAVID L. ROSENBLUM,
Commissioner

The premises are needed by this department as a local office in connection with the Housing Improvement Program, a federally subsidized program. Your approval will permit the Housing Inspection Department to exercise the renewal option clause.

The proposed lease is for a term of one year — July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978 — with an option on the part of the city to extend the term for an additional year. The proposed rental fee is $360 per month.

It is my opinion that nothing is to be gained by public advertising as this location is suitable for conducting program activities.

Very truly yours,

JOHN A. VITAGLIANO,
Commissioner

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT

STORAGE SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston respectfully requests that you approve the signing of an agreement with the New England Deposit Library for the storage of books and other library materials for the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978.

The New England Deposit Library building is located at 135 Western Avenue, Allston. The institution was created by action of the General Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts under terms of chapter 240 of the Statutes of 1911. The act names the Boston Public Library as a "Participating Institution" together with the Massachusetts State College, the Boston Athenaeum, Boston College, Boston University, Simmons College, the Massachusetts Historical Society, and other libraries, for the purpose of providing storage space for books and other library materials for which there is only occasional use and for which storage space is not available in intensively used library buildings. The "Participating Institutions" share cooperatively in the low-cost housing arrangements provided by the New England Deposit Library in accordance with a schedule of rates standard for all participating institutions.

The Trustees have set a limit of $9,145.50 on the amount to be expended for storage space for the period of the agreement and have taken the following action:

Voted, That there be entered into with the New England Deposit Library, 135 Western Avenue, Allston, Mass., an agreement for the rental during the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978, of storage space therein for books and other library materials belonging to the Boston Public Library, in accordance with the rates for storage space formally adopted by the governing board of said New England Deposit Library.

Inasmuch as the total cost of the storage space will exceed $2,000, there is respectfully requested permission of your Honor to enter into this agreement without publicly advertising for bids.

Respectfully,

PHILIP J. McNIFF,
Director and Librarian.

RADIOS, ETC.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On September 22, 1976, there was entered into with Motorola Communications and Electronics, Inc., 85 Harristown Road, Glen Rock, New Jersey, a contract for rental and maintenance of five portable, two-way radios and one multi-unit charger for the period July 1, 1976, through June 30, 1977.

Your Honor had given approval for the award of this contract following a public advertisement and public opening of bids. Bids had been invited and submitted for the above-mentioned work during the period stated, with option for renewal at the discretion of the official, as of July 1, 1977, and as of July 1, 1978.

Inasmuch as the Motorola firm has performed to the satisfaction of the Library, and believing it to be in the best interest of the city and of the Library to exercise the option to renew, the Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department, acting for and in behalf of the City of Boston, has taken the following action:

Voted, That, without public advertising, there be entered into with Motorola Communications and Electronics, Inc., 85 Harristown Road, Glen Rock, New Jersey, a contract for rental and maintenance of five portable, two-way radios and one multi-unit charger during the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $2,039.88.

The permission of your Honor is therefore requested to enter into a contract with Motorola Communications and Electronics, Inc. for the above work at the original contract price of $2,039.88 and without publicly readvertising for bids.

Respectfully,

PHILIP J. McNIFF,
Director and Librarian.

LEASING CERTAIN PREMISES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston respectfully requests that you approve the signing of a lease, without public advertising, with the Town of Andover, Mass., for the rental of premises located at 9-11 Essex Street, Andover, Mass. These premises will serve as quarters for a Bookmobile Center for the Eastern Regional Library System in the Andover area. The lease will be for the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978. The annual rate will be in the sum of $9,000. It is not possible to obtain competitive bidding by public advertising for this purpose.

Inasmuch as the total rental will exceed $2,000, there is respectfully requested permission of your Honor to enter into this lease without publicly advertising for bids. Funds for the payment of this rental are made available to the City of Boston as reimbursement from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts through the State Aid Act for support to public libraries.

Respectfully,

PHILIP J. McNIFF,
Director and Librarian.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston respectfully requests that you approve the signing of a lease, without public advertising, with Ernest M. Helides, as he is trustee of the Helides Realty Trust, for the rental of premises located at 6 Weir Street, Taunton, Mass. These premises will serve as quarters for a Bookmobile Center for the Eastern Regional Library System in the Taunton area. The lease will be for the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978. The annual rate will be in the sum of $8,910. It is not possible to obtain competitive bidding by public advertising for this purpose.

Inasmuch as the total rental will exceed $2,000, there is respectfully requested permission of your Honor to enter into this lease without publicly advertising for bids. Funds for the payment of the rental are made available to the City of Boston as reimbursement from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts through the State Aid Act for support to public libraries.

Respectfully,

PHILIP J. McNIFF,
Director and Librarian.

MANPOWER ADMINISTRATION CETA SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

The effective dates of operation for this contract will be from June 1, 1977 through February 28, 1978, inclusive, at a total cost not to exceed $320,000.

Under the terms of the proposed contract, the Commonwealth will be responsible for disbursing funds to training agencies; submitting required reports to the Manpower Administration; auditing programs; resolving fiscal problems; requesting modifications where appropriate and monitoring and evaluation of program performance.

In view of the Commonwealth's capability of providing these much-needed services to the Manpower Administration, it is my opinion that no useful purpose will be served by publicly advertising for bids.

Sincerely,

WALTER E. WILLIAMS,
Administrator.

YOUTH PROGRAM SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I respectfully request your permission to dispense with advertising in the City Record, and to award a contract to the Urban League of Eastern Massachusetts, 236 Huntington Avenue, Boston, MA 02115, for the operation of a youth, vocational, exploration program at a cost not to exceed $70,000.

Funds for this contract will be provided from a federal government grant to the City of Boston through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of

Under the terms of the proposed contract, the Urban League will operate a youth vocational, exploration program, which links industry and educational institutions of the disadvantaged Boston youth with a world-of-work orientation.

The Urban League has developed a nationwide reputation for working with the disadvantaged and as such, it is my opinion that no useful purpose will be served by publicly advertising for bids.

Sincerely,

WALTER E. WILLIAMS,
Administrator.

BILINGUAL TRAINING

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I respectfully request your permission to dispense with advertising in the City Record, and to award a contract to Alianza Hispana, Inc., located at 615 Dudley Street, Roxbury, Mass. The contract will be in an amount not to exceed $53,000, for the period August 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978. Funds for this contract will be provided from a federal government grant to the City of Boston through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973.

Under the terms of the proposal contract, Alianza will offer bilingual vocational training to approximately ninety Hispanic Boston residents. The areas of training will be clerical, electronics, and typing, with instructions in each area tailored to include: skill development, language acquisition, and job placement counseling.

In view of the fact that Alianza is one of the few agencies capable of providing manpower services to Hispanic residents of Boston, it is my opinion that no purpose will be served by publicly advertising for bids.

Sincerely,

WALTER E. WILLIAMS,
Administrator.

MAYOR'S OFFICE

TRIPLE-DECKER STUDY

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I hereby request your permission to dispense with bidding and to award a contract in an amount not to exceed $600, to the Boston Redevelopment Authority, Boston, Mass. Payment for this contract will be made from the Community Development Innovative Project Program, Fiscal Year 1976 Grant No. 3-51-25-0002.

Under the terms of the agreement, the Boston Redevelopment Authority will undertake a survey and analysis of the triple-decker building form as it exists in the designated study area of Dorchester-Matapan. This analysis will serve as a comparative base when studying other neighborhood's triple-decker stock and in projecting this building form as irreplaceable components of Boston's housing stock. The period of performance of this agreement will be from July 1, 1977, through November 30, 1977.

In conformance with the federal rules and regulations under which these services will be delivered, the Boston Redevelopment Authority is the proper public agency to perform this contract. Therefore, it is my view that public advertising would not serve any useful or practical purpose.

Sincerely,
KATHARINE D. KANE,
Deputy Mayor.

HOMEOWNERSHIP SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I hereby request permission to dispense with bidding and to award a contract to La Alianza Hispana, located at 409 Dudley Street, Boston, in an amount not to exceed $25,000. Payment for this contract will come from the third-year, community development block grant.

Under the terms of this agreement, La Alianza Hispana will provide:

1. Assistance and counseling for Hispanic homeowners wishing to participate in the Housing Improvement Program and other housing programs;

2. Spanish-speaking homeownership service, to identify an Hispanic clientele interested in becoming homeowners; to provide assistance in locating a home and securing financing;

3. Spanish-speaking homeownership orientation, to explain the implications and responsibilities of homeownership.

The period of performance will be from July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978. This is to continue services currently being provided by La Alianza Hispana under the community development program.

Because of the expertise and reputation of La Alianza Hispana, and the professional nature of services to be provided, it is my view that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Sincerely,
ANDREW M. OLINS,
Special Assistant.

HOUSING IMPROVEMENTS

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I hereby request permission to dispense with bidding and to award a contract to the Boston Housing Authority, located at 53 State Street, Boston, in an amount not to exceed $1,627,500. Payment for this contract will come from the Third-Year Community Development Block Grant.

Under the terms of the agreement, the Authority will perform capital improvements at the following housing projects:

Archdale, Charlestown, Fairmount, Franklin Field, Franklin Hill, Gallivan, Mary Ellen McCormack, Maverick, Orient Heights, Pond Street, Washington/Beech.

The term of the contract will be July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1979.

Because the Authority is the only entity authorized to perform work on Authority property, it is my view that public advertising would be inappropriate and would serve no purpose.

Sincerely,
ANDREW M. OLINS,
Special Assistant.

APPRAISAL SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I hereby request your permission to dispense with bidding and to award a contract in an amount to exceed $9,000, to Vincent R. Giordano for professional real estate appraisal services. Payment for this contract will be made from the Community Development Block Grant. Period of performance shall be from July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978.

Under the terms of the agreement, Mr. Giordano will appraise the properties of approximately 200 applicants for home improvement loans, funded by the federal government's section 312 Rehabilitation Loan Program. In accordance with federal requirements, each loan application must be accompanied by an appraisal of the applicant's property, using Federal Housing Administration appraisal guidelines.

There are four FHA-approved appraisers responsible for cases in the Boston area; only two of these appraisers reside and have business concerns in the City of Boston — Vincent R. Giordano and Leo Sullivan. Because the city's section 3 Affirmative Action Plan calls for hiring persons residing in the city or with business concerns located in the city, it was necessary to contact both appraisers meeting these requirements for an estimate of the fee to be charged for appraisal services relative to the section 312 program.

HUD establishes appraisal fees at $50 for one- and two-family properties and $55 for three- and four-family properties. Mr. Giordano quoted a fee of $45 per case and Mr. Sullivan quoted the HUD-established fees and said that he was not interested in contracting to provide these services.

Therefore, for the reasons cited above, public advertising would not serve any useful or practical purpose.

Sincerely,
ANDREW M. OLINS,
Special Assistant.

YOUTH PROGRAMS

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I hereby request your permission to dispense with bidding and to award a contract in an amount not to exceed $55,364, to the Programs for Youth, Inc., d/b/a Tynan Community School, located at 650 East Fourth Street, South Boston, Mass. Payment for this contract shall be made from the Community Development Block Grant.

Under the terms of the agreement, Programs for Youth, Inc., d/b/a Tynan Community School Program, will conduct three recreational and educational programs for the South Boston area. The three programs are a summer day camp, a reading program, and an educational and vocational resource program. The summer day camp will operate for eight weeks and include field trips, recreation, and transportation. The reading program will operate in conjunction with the Urban Learning Center of Boston State College and will include remedial reading services to elementary school children. The reading program will also include a parent's workshop to assist parents in helping their children to read. The educational and vocational resource program will include recreation and educational counseling to teens to enable them to pursue higher education goals. The period of performance shall be from July 1, 1977, through July 31, 1978.

The Programs for Youth, Inc., d/b/a Tynan Community School, has had past experience and demonstrated expertise in delivering similar services in the community. In the interest of continuity of service delivery, I recommend that a contractual relationship be established between the city and Programs for Youth, Inc. at this time.

Therefore, for the reasons cited above, it is my view that public advertising would not serve any useful or practical purpose.

Sincerely,
KATHARINE D. KANE,
Deputy Mayor.

TYPESETTING SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to Wrightson Typographers, a corporation, located at 90 Bridge Street, Newton, Mass. 02158, for comprehensive typographic services.

Under the terms of the contract, Wrightson Typographers will perform all typesetting services within their capabilities, requested by the Design Unit of the Mayor's Office of Communications.

The scope of regularly requested work will include camera work (photo conversions), linefilm setting, phototype setting, and copyfitting.

Occasionally, other required work will include preparation of 35mm color slide work, color keys, photostats in conjunction with typesetting, and supplying of Geotype (press type).

Wrightson's unique qualification is the comprehensiveness of the services they can provide. They offer the broadest range of typographic and camera services of anyone in the city. Their typesetting is of the highest quality and their prompt delivery is necessary to this office. Their services have been used by this office and found extremely reliable.

Compensation under this contract shall not exceed $5,000. The term of this contract shall be from July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be performed, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,
LYNN D. YUDELL,
Head of Design Unit.

PARKS AND RECREATION DEPARTMENT

RESEARCH AND CONSULTANT SERVICES
DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

The Department of Parks and Recreation is the recipient of a grant from the National Science Foundation to develop better strategies for curbing vandalism in public recreational facilities. The grant will support a professional research staff with necessary consultant and other contractual services for a one-year period.

The project will investigate abusive behavior in the recreational facilities in Boston in order to develop cost-effective responses to such actions. If the study's results can be successfully implemented, significant increases in parks maintenance productivity will be achieved. Substantial negative factors affecting utilization by citizens would then either be alleviated or eliminated. The project will examine each of many factors related to abusive behavior in recreational facilities. The type and level of abuse which occurred will be determined for the city's recreational facilities for the past eight years. Attitudes about such behavior and parks usage will also be measured on a city-wide basis. In addition, sample cases will be drawn from the total of over two hundred city parks and playgrounds for an in-depth analysis of situational and attitudinal variables related to abusive behavior, as well as an assessment of how successful past responses to such actions have been. From this information, the researchers expect to develop a series of recommendations which suggest response tactics and strategies dependent on the type and circumstances of particular instances of abusive behavior.

I hereby request your permission to dispense with public advertisement and to award a contract, in an amount not to exceed $10,000, to The Boston Foundation, Inc., One City Hall Square, Boston, Mass. Payment for this contract shall be made from the National Science Foundation study grant.

Under the terms of the agreement, The Boston Foundation, Inc. shall be responsible for utilization and dissemination activities of the study; arranging a series of conferences, seminars, and meetings and preparing a report on the findings of the study. The period of performance shall be from July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978.

On the basis of the experience and expertise of The Boston Foundation, Inc. in conducting similar activities, I recommend that a contractual relationship between the study and The Boston Foundation, Inc. be established at this time. Due to the specialty of the services required, it is my view that public advertising would not serve any useful or practical purpose.

Sincerely,
PETER G. MEADE,
Commissioner.

CRUISES FOR CHILDREN

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I respectfully request your permission to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and award a contract to Bay State-Spr Provincetown Steamship Co., 201 Wharf, Boston, Mass., for providing windjammer excursion cruises to groups of children from various playground recreation centers within the City of Boston. The cost to the city will exceed $1,990, which will be taken from the Randidge Trust Fund Income, 67-81-45. The contract will be for the period of July 27, 1977, to August 31, 1977.

As the proposed contract is to be for the performance of services of a special and unique nature, there is no other windjammer cruises available in the City of Boston, a public solicitation for bids would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,
PETER G. MEADE,
Commissioner.

PENAL INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT

PSYCHIATRIC SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Your permission is respectfully requested to dispense with public advertising in order that this department may award a contract for psychiatric services to Trustees of Health and Hospitals of the City of Boston, in an amount not to exceed $67,145, for the period of July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978.

This contract is for the benefit of the inmate population of the Suffolk County House of Correction and will provide the services of a psychologist, a psychiatric nurse, psychiatrist, and a mental health secretary.

Because the inmate population has rapidly expanded over the past several years, we have found that in order to insure safety and security of the institution, as well as those employed at the institution, it is imperative that we have the in-house capacity to screen and treat those individuals with psychiatric disfunctions. The Trustees of Health and Hospitals are able to supply the medical expertise and professional personnel which we so critically require.

Because of the unique services required in this contract, and Trustees demonstrated ability to perform these services, I would respectfully suggest that there would be no public benefit in submitting such a contract for public bidding.

Respectfully,
WILLIAM W. NICKERSON,
Commissioner.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

PSYCHOLOGICAL SCREENING

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I respectfully request your Honor's written authorization to dispense with public bidding in the award of a contract to Russell Boxley, Ph.D., professor of psychology at Boston University, not to exceed the amount of $7,500, for a period of time commencing July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978.

The purpose of this contract is to provide for the psychological screening of olice applicants. It is expected that approximately 500 candidates will be psychologically tested and evaluated, with follow-up interviews in selected cases, in order to select approximately 200 police recruits over the life of the eligible list. This psychological examination will afford more accurate evaluation of potential police officers.

Dr. Boxley developed and performed the psychological testing of candidates for the recruit classes appointed in 1971 and 1975. His procedure represented a great improvement over previous attempts. From this experience he has formulated a process which is both job-related and empirically valid through demonstrable evidence, an essential element in dealing with challenges from applicants, of which we expect many.

Dr. Boxley has had broad experience dealing with similar situations. His work with diverse cultural, racial, and ethnic backgrounds provides him with the needed skills and insight to handle this important step in the selection process. Further, he has unique experience in the police appointment process, having worked on appointment lists such as those decided by the federal court in the Castro Beecher case. Lists will continue to be certified under the authority of this decree in the same manner as in the past, making his experience unique.

Numerous psychologists were interviewed at the time Dr. Boxley was originally selected. He was chosen from a large number of qualified candidates. Therefore, because of the unique services required to perform this contract, in light of the qualifications and prior service of Russell Boxley, Ph.D., it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSEPH M. JORDAN,
Police Commissioner.

CONSULTANT SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I respectfully request your written approval to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and award to Lawrence J. Ball of 3 Center Plaza, Boston, a contract in the amount not to exceed $8,000, commencing July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978.

During the last fiscal year this department has made numerous changes in personnel and disciplinary procedures. Department rules have been rewritten and personnel have been recently appointed to the divisions charged with implementing the new rules and executing the new disciplinary and personnel procedures.

As a result there is a need to have available to this department a consultant and advisor who can assist the newly appointed division chiefs and who can take part in a program of instruction on the new rules and procedures.

I propose that Mr. Ball serve as that consultant. Mr. Ball has considerable knowledge and experience with respect to the problems faced by police administrators in imposing discipline upon employees in a large, urban police department. Mr.

Ball is an expert in public employee disciplinary procedures and the Massachusetts Civil Service Laws. Mr. Ball has advised and assisted the Commissioner of the Department of Youth Services of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Mr. Ball has a knowledge of the new rules and procedures of this department because he has drafted the rules establishing the new procedures and reviewed numerous complex internal affairs investigations. He has lectured private security guards and is presently an instructor in the Law Enforcement Program at Boston State College. The skills and knowledge possessed by Mr. Ball make him uniquely capable of advising and assisting me in resolving the problems I face during this current fiscal year.

In view of Mr. Ball's experience and expertise and the unique service required to perform the various functions of this contract, it is believed that the public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,

JOSEPH M. JORDAN,
Police Commissioner.

COMPUTER DISPATCH SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

Your Honor's written authorization is respectfully requested to award a contract without public advertising, to Arthur D. Little Systems, Inc., for the third phase of our Computer-Aided Dispatch System.

Arthur D. Little Systems received the contract for the first phase of this system only after approximately fifty vendors were sent requests for proposals and the ten vendors who did respond had their proposals evaluated by a team composed of individuals from our Data Processing Department and Administrative Services Data Processing Division. This evaluation team recommended A.D.L. Systems, Inc.

The first two phases have been completed and are a huge success in the goal of enhancing our ability to deliver emergency services to the community swiftly and accurately. With the loss of LEAA funding it became necessary to divide phase two into two projects. A.D.L. is currently performing phase two with the same vigor and professionalism as they have always demonstrated in the past.

A.D.L., since it has performed phase one and two so exceptionally, is the logical choice for further enhancements to the system. The learning curve and understanding required of another company, plus the confidence and capability of this vendor, would be difficult if not impossible to duplicate at this juncture.

Therefore, I believe no useful purpose would be served by public advertisement which in the long run would prove more costly to the city. Your Honor's permission is hereby respectfully requested to award a contract to the Arthur D. Little Systems, Inc., in an amount not to exceed $153,625, for the period commencing July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSEPH M. JORDAN,
Police Commissioner.

DATA PROCESSING SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

Your Honor's approval is hereby respectfully requested to dispense with public advertising and to enter into a contract with the International Business Machines Corporation for the leasing and servicing of the following equipment for the period commencing July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978.

Various card punches, recorders, display stations, printer, and converter, the total amount for the above-listed equipment not to exceed the sum of $50,508 for the twelve-month period.

In view of the following:

1. The technical nature of this equipment, the design of which fulfills our particular needs at this time;

2. The constantly changing state of data processing technology;

3. The fact that the purchase or rental of other manufacturers' equipment would not be economically feasible inasmuch as the department has already invested considerable manpower and expense in programming, software, and systems work which is usable only on this IBM equipment.

I believe that publicly inviting bids would not serve a useful purpose nor be of any avail to the City of Boston.

Respectfully,

JOSEPH M. JORDAN,
Police Commissioner.

LEASING CERTAIN SPACE

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I respectfully request your Honor's authorization to dispense with public advertising in the award of a contract to the Prudential Insurance Company of America, for the leasing of space in the top level of the Prudential Building, Boylston Street, Boston, for the period July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978, at a cost of $3,280.

The purpose of leasing this space is to place Police Department radio transmitters, receivers, and antennas on the top of the Prudential Building. This equipment has been in place there since 1966 and has afforded the best possible location for Police Department communications equipment. A high, centralized location with few other tall buildings around the equipment is necessary for the proper operation of the radio communications equipment and the location of the Prudential Building meets these needs to a much better extent than older locations.

The lease also contains an option whereby the city may extend the lease, at a slightly higher price, for a period of three more years.

Because of the unique nature of the location required for the radio communications equipment mentioned above and because of the satisfactory service provided by this location for the past ten years, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,

JOSEPH M. JORDAN,
Police Commissioner.

PUBLIC FACILITIES DEPARTMENT

LEASING OF FURNISHINGS

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

I hereby respectfully request your Honor's written authority to dispense with public advertising in leasing certain personal property deemed necessary and convenient for School Department purposes. Your Honor will recall that shortly after substantial completion and School Department occupation of the new Blackstone School, 380 Shawmut Avenue, there was an extensive fire requiring a second construction project to repair the damage. This fire damage repair was accomplished for school opening in September, but certain items of furnishings including desks, chairs, and tables were not available because they were still in the purchase procedure without a fixed delivery date.

The exigency of the situation was such that to meet the needs of pupils and teachers it was expeditious to obtain, on a rental basis, 200 chairs, 100 tables, and 12 sets of instructors' desks and chairs. It is my belief, the lease sum total was based upon various individual item rental rates which were completely reasonable and competitive with the prevailing market rates at the time. The lease period would start for all items on September 7, 1976, and continue as needed, but for some items no later than February 19, 1977.

In view of the fact the period of rental could not be predetermined and this leasing cost exceeds that amount allowed for a service order under Directive No. 20, dated November 20, 1970, your Honor's written approval is further requested to approve the action of the Director of Public Facilities Department in leasing the subject personal property from Jackson Business Furniture, 231 Lowell Street, Somerville, Mass., for a total amount not to exceed $6,380.

Respectfully,

VICTOR E. HAGAN,
Acting Director.

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

Under a delegation of its power from the Public Facilities Commission to the Director of Public Facilities, I hereby respectfully request your Honor's written authority to dispense with public advertising in extending the lease of certain premises deemed necessary and convenient by the Director for the Mayor's Office of Public Service purposes. There is a further delegation of power from the Commission to the Director to execute such lease, or extension thereof, upon receipt of said written authority from the Mayor of Boston.

The demised premises consist of approximately 2,400 square feet on the street floor of the building at 11-29 Roxbury Street, Roxbury.

The term of the lease will be six and one half months, from December 15, 1976, through June 30, 1977.

The rental for the term will be based on a monthly rent of $748.75.

Since these facilities are both adequate and convenient, it is not felt by the writer that public advertising would be useful in this instance.

Very truly yours,

VICTOR E. HAGAN.

Acting Director.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT

RUBBISH CONTAINERS

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The contract for furnishing and servicing rubbish containers at various locations in the city will expire June 30, 1977. This contract includes the option renewal provision under which the city may elect to continue the present contract for the period July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978.

The services provided by the present contractor have been very satisfactory and there would be no advantage to be gained in not exercising our option for renewal and by inviting bids for doing this work.

Inasmuch as this contract was a first of a kind with regards to the service provided, the amount of collections was underestimated and should be increased from the present 500 collections to 750 collections with no increase in unit price of $40.90 per collection.

Therefore, I respectfully request your authorization to dispense with public advertising and enter into a contract for furnishing and servicing rubbish containers at various locations in the city for the period July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978, with S.C.A. Disposal Services of New England, Inc., 140 Brookline Avenue, Boston, Mass., with an increase in the number of collections provided at the current price, the total amount to be paid under this contract not to exceed $30,675.

Very truly yours,

JOSEPH F. CASAZZA,

Commissioner.

VISITOR SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Since 1966, yearly contracts have been executed between this Commission and the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce and more recently its successor, the Greater Boston Convention and Tourist Bureau, Inc., for furnishing information service at a booth on Boston Common promoting places of historic value in Boston, particularly all historic places along the Freedom Trail.

Your permission is respectfully requested to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisements in the City Record, in awarding to the Greater Boston Convention and Tourist Bureau, Inc., 900 Boylston Street, Boston, a contract for an amount not to exceed $55,000 under which the bureau shall provide the following visitor services during the period commencing July 1, 1977, and ending June 30, 1978.

I. Security alarm system, $193; pairs, $400; water, $192; telephone (43115), $900; supplies, cleaning, oil equipment, $200; insurance (personnel), $1,443; insurance (property), $144; salaries (two staff at $7,800), $15,600; (director), $15,000, subtotal, $34,072.

II. Warehouse and delivery, one, rental, $2,616; gasoline and tolls, $1, repairs, maintenance, parking, $400, total, $4,556.

VI. Publications, "Boston ByWeekend" calendar of events, special issues to promote major city-wide events and celebrations, $3,322, total, $55,000.

LEGAL SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with the usual form of advertisement and to award a contract to Charles R. Levin, attorney at law, 185 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass. 02110. The amount of the contract will not exceed $1,500, for the period from April 15, 1977, through June 30, 1977.

The work to be performed under the proposed contract will involve the searching and drafting on legal memorandum on theories of trustee and beneficiary liability for unpaid municipal taxes.

We have been dealing with Mr. Levin over the last few months, and have been pleased with the work performed by him. Because of the professional nature of the services involved, it is my opinion that no purpose would be served by advertising for bids for this contract. His charges will not exceed $50 per hour.

Respectfully,
JAMES V. YOUNG,
Collector-Treasurer.

YOUTH ACTIVITIES COMMISSION

CAMPERSHIP PROGRAM

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

As Executive Director of the Youth Activities Commission, I hereby request your permission to dispense with public advertising in connection with the award of a contract to the Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare. The total cost to the City of Boston under this contract will be $4,600. The contract will begin August 1, 1977, and continue in force through a date no later than September 2, 1977.

The purpose of the contract is to provide a mechanism whereby the city can contribute one-fourth the cost of a campership program for individuals following the eligibility requirements established by the Department of Public Welfare. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, through the Department of Public Welfare, will contribute three-fourths of the cost of the program. The city is required, however, to make payment to the Commonwealth our donation before the Commonwealth makes available the entire amount for the program which will be operated city-wide. This is a donated funds grant under Title XX of the Social Security Act.

Public advertising for this contract would serve no useful purpose since the Commonwealth, through the Department of Public Welfare, is the sole administrator of Title XX funds.

No formal bids have been received since the bidding process does not apply.

Sincerely yours,
DONALD B. MANSON,
Executive Director.

SUFFOLK COUNTY District Attorney's Office LEASING OF VEHICLES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

As District Attorney for Suffolk County, I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising in the award of a contract to Bonded Leasing Company, Inc., 955 Turnpike Street, Canton, Mass. 02121, in an amount not to exceed $17,500 for an eight-month period, May 1, 1977, through December 31, 1977.

Award of the contract is made pursuant to a grant received by the City of Boston from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration through the Governor's Public Safety Committee under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 (P.L. 90-351), as amended by the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1970 (P.L. 91-644).

The purpose of the grant is to allow the Suffolk County District Attorney's Office to continue an intensive investigation and prosecution unit.

Bonded Leasing Company, Inc. is an automobile leasor which has provided leased vehicles to the above-named project for the past three years at a highly competitive rate per vehicle. The per-month cost for each vehicle is the same as it was during the past year. In addition, six of the nine vehicles to be leased this year were also leased by this staff in the past year. They have already been equipped with devices necessary to allow this office to perform the tasks specified in the grant.

The six vehicles that were leased last year, will be leased this year at a greatly reduced rate. The cost of each vehicle will be approximately $1,700 for the eight-month period.

Three automobiles will be leased at the first-year rate. The cost of each vehicle will be approximately $2,100 for the eight-month period. Also $1,000 has been allocated to pay contingency expenses, i.e. extra tires, some maintenance, and accident insurance deductible expenses.

It is my conclusion, based on (a) the low cost of these vehicles; (b) the unique manner in which these vehicles will assist this office; and (c) the need for preservation of confidentiality with respect to the leasing of these vehicles, that public advertising will serve no useful or practical purpose.

Respectfully,
GARRETT H. BYRNE,
District Attorney.

No bid for the award of the project will be considered acceptable unless the contractor complies fully with the following requirements for Minority Business Enterprise Utilization.

Pursuant to the Public Work Employment Act of 1976, as amended (P.L. 94-369), the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least $80,300 of his bid price shall be expended for minority business enterprise. For purposes of this paragraph, the term minority business enterprise means a business at least 50 per centum of which is owned and controlled by minority group members or, in the case of a publicly owned business, at least 51 per centum of the stock of which is owned by minority group members. For the purposes of the preceding sentence minority group members are citizens of the United States who are Negroes, Spanish-speaking, Oriental, Indians, Eskimos, or Aleuts.

Included with the contract documents are copies of the "Contractor's Minority Business Enterprise Utilization Report" form (Exhibit E), the "Certification of Minority Status" (Exhibit F), and the "Information on Minority Business" (Exhibit G), page 18-22 of bid proposal, respectively.

Each bidder must complete, sign and file with his bid the "Contractor's Minority Business Utilization Report." The three lowest responsive bidders will also be required to submit a "Certification of Minority Status" form for each subcontractor, supplier or vendor the bidder proposes to use to provide services or supplies under this contract. The certification shall be completed and signed by the Minority Business Enterprise by the bidder within five (5) days after the time set for receiving bids. At the City's request, one or more of the three (3) lowest responsive bidders may also be required to submit the "Information on Minority Business" form (Exhibit G). Sufficient time will be allowed to complete this form if necessary.

Contractors shall also avail themselves of the "List of Minority Businesses" to be provided by the City through this department, to facilitate compliance with these requirements.

THE BOSTON PLAN: ITS PURPOSE

PART 4

I. OVERVIEW

This proposal represents the first phase of a plan to revitalize Blue Hill Avenue and its abutting commercial and residential areas. It is a plan requiring the commitment of federal, state, and local resources in an action-oriented redevelopment scheme designed to produce tangible results within the next two years. What differentiates this proposal from past efforts is its comprehensiveness, level of community involvement, and, most importantly, presence of firm, private industry commitments. This strategy for Blue Hill Avenue will increase job opportunities and improve the economic environment for the community through the influx of private investment.

While this strategy attempts to tackle many problems of Blue Hill Avenue, we must be aware of not unduly raising the expectations of area residents. Blue Hill Avenue is today probably the most striking physical personification of the many economic ills besetting Boston's low-to-moderate-income population; it is a four-mile stretch of roadway characterized by boarded storefronts, abandoned multi-family housing, and all-too-visible expanses of vacant land.

Although the problems currently affecting the area are substantial, there are clear indications that Blue Hill Avenue may very well be at a turning point. Through selective public and private investment, Mattapan Square, on the southern end of the avenue, has again become a prosperous commercial district. Further north along the avenue, on Wellington Hill, the housing stock is being successfully upgraded. At Franklin Field and Franklin Park recreational facilities are being improved and promoted as metropolitan resources. In the Grove Hall business district mixed-use buildings are to be rehabilitated with the help of a local development group.

A. Selection of Target Area

Yet these isolated improvements are only limited measures. While they provide evidence of what can be accomplished, the continuing condition of the avenue documents that these efforts by themselves will not resolve the economic, social, and physical problems that plague the area. Only by concentrating on one section of the avenue initially, and developing a comprehensive plan that coordinates the many interrelated public and private activities can the avenue be rejuvenated.

The following plan is primarily concerned with that section of Blue Hill Avenue from Grove Hall north to the proposed, crosstown, industrial parcel. This portion of the avenue has been selected as the first phase of the Blue Hill Avenue redevelopment because of its microcosmic similarity to the rest of the avenue, the likelihood of firm private commitments for industrial development in the area within our self-imposed two- to three-year time frame, and the existence of some inherent strengths in the residential and commercial districts that would bolster further private investment.

A similar revitalization plan will be developed for the Mattapan and Franklin Field sections of the avenue. Map 1 delineates the Phase I and II project areas. Map 2 displays the proposed Blue Hill Avenue rehabilitation area.

B. Summary of Program Components

The Blue Hill Avenue proposal includes five major components:

1. Industrial development in parcels adjacent to the soon-to-be constructed Crosstown arterial street. Development activities will provide increased job opportunities for local residents and create an improved standard of living for what is now an economically depressed area.

2. Strengthening of the Grove Hall and, to a lesser extent, Dudley Station commercial nodes.

3. Upgrading of the residential neighborhoods abutting Blue Hill Avenue through programs that would rehabilitate occupied housing, restore abandoned properties, reuse vacant lots, reduce crime, and highlight several energy-related concerns.

4. Restoration of the Orchard Park Housing Project through a number of quite realizable new programs and policies.

5. Improvement in the transportation linkages within the area that will provide better access to the commercial districts and to the improved job locations.

What separates this proposal from most other proposals dealing with economically distraught areas is that this plan is fully integrated, realistic, doable within a relatively short time span, and based almost totally upon identified funding sources. Furthermore, the proposal offers some imaginative approaches to common urban concerns, approaches that might very well be applicable in other cities. For example, we are proposing:

1. A rehabilitation program for abandoned buildings that could potentially restore an unprecedented number of dilapidated properties in a one- to two-year time frame, while at the same time providing jobs and on-the-job training for unemployed local youths.

2. Development of a joint elderly development and service center that would include congregate facilities for the elderly requiring periodic care, and apartment-type housing for those elderly who are more self-reliant. The project would minimize operating costs by including a solar energy, demonstration unit, and joint center/housing custodial care.

3. Rejuvenation of the Grove Hall commercial district to include encouragement of storeowner self-help, Small Business Administration (SBA) loans, exterior cosmetic improvements to storefronts, and revolving loans to improve inventory and cash flow problems.

4. Creation of an "energy Community Development Corporation" (CDC) that would provide a relatively inexpensive labor force (manpower-trained energy conservation technicians) to perform weatherizing improvements, and the production capacity for cellulose insulation — a growing and relatively inexpensive method of retrofitting older homes.

5. An Orchard Park Housing Project vacant unit rehabilitation project that would include substantial economies through creative use of manpower programs. Union laborers presently unemployed would be funded by Title VI Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds, and local youths, many from the project, would be hired as trainees from Title III of CETA.

C. Blue Hill Avenue Commission

Without negating the importance of the many physical, social, and economic improvements proposed for the Blue Hill Avenue corridor, the plan's success will ultimately hinge on our ability to solicit the active support and participation of community residents. Every effort will be made to encourage individual involvement — both in the planning process and in the day-to-day implementation of the program.

A Blue Hill Avenue Commission, comprised of spokespersons representing public, private, and, especially, community interests along the entire length of the avenue has already been formed to work with the city in further developing this proposal. The Commission, to be comprised of thirty-five members, will also work with the city on development of the Phase II proposal for the Mattapan-Franklin Field sections of the avenue.

The area is bounded on the north by the proposed Crosstown arterial street, on the east by Blue Hill Avenue, on the south by Grove Hall and on the west by Warren Street. The South End, Campus High, and Washington Park Urban Renewal Areas bound the proposed revitalization area on the north and west and the Brunswick-King Urban Renewal and Columbia-Savin Hill Neighborhood Housing Service areas are located to the east of the area.

B. Population Characteristics

In 1970 11,200 persons lived in the proposed rehabilitation area. Of these 70 percent were black, 20 percent were of Spanish descent, and 10 percent were white. Today the area's population is about 80 percent black and 12 percent Spanish speaking, with the remainder being white. Since 1960, the total population has been declining as a result of housing disinvestment and subsequent abandonment throughout the area.

Approximately 39 percent of the area's population is under eighteen years-old, a much higher percentage than the city-wide youth population figure of 28 percent. Elderly comprise approximately 12 percent of the population in the area. The mean family size is 3.9 persons with approximately 35 percent of households being female-headed.

In 1970, the area-wide median family income was $5,800, well below the city-wide median of $9,100. Median incomes in the area are now approximately $7,500 per family, still significantly lower than the city-wide median of $11,500. In 1970 8.9 percent of the area's labor force was unemployed and 10 percent of its population was considered to be below the poverty level. Today approximately 18 percent of the labor force is unemployed compared to the city-wide rate of 11 percent. In addition over 50 percent of all households are receiving some form of public assistance.

A large concentration of poor families exist in the 774-unit Orchard Park Public Housing Project where 85 percent of all households

II. DESCRIPTION OF THE AREA

A. Area Location

The proposed Blue Hill Avenue revitalization area is the section of Roxbury located along Blue Hill Avenue from the proposed Crosstown arterial street to the Grove Hall Business District.

e single-parent families; 85 percent of all families have no employed family member; and 60 percent of all families are receiving F.D.C. 20 percent of the households move out of the Orchard Park development annually, and the time rate is the second highest in the city.

C. Housing Market Conditions

Except for the 774-unit public housing project, most of the area's 300 units are located in two- or three-family wood frame structures that are predominantly owner-occupied (76 percent). Over 70 percent of these owners either purchased the homes from their savings or have paid off their first mortgages, which provides them with major motivation to preserve the neighborhood. In 1970, the median market value of residential properties in the area was $8,800, substantially lower than the city-wide median value of $9,600. Although properties are now worth $10,000 to $14,000 per structure, area property values are significantly lower than city-wide values.

A 1976 survey indicated that 37 percent of the properties within the South-Mor area were in need of minor repairs; 28 percent in need of major repairs; and 11 percent had deteriorated to a point where they were beyond repair. The absentee-owned properties were in significantly poorer condition than the owner-occupied properties, with almost 21 percent of the absentee-owned properties having deteriorated to a point where it was judged that they had to be demolished. Many of the long-time homeowners are beginning to discard plans for undertaking major home repairs, due to the trends towards disinvestment and abandonment in the area.

Widespread disinvestment since the mid 1960s has left 360 vacant lots and 117 vacant buildings, representing 9 percent of all structures. Most of the vacant lots are privately owned (70 percent) or owned by the city through the tax foreclosure process (30 percent). These littered lots are havens for rodents that often lead to further neighborhood disinvestment. The city owns seventeen vacant and thirty-six partially occupied buildings, which are often in a state of disrepair; 100 other properties are owned by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) or are privately owned. The existence of these problem buildings represents a major security, fire, and safety hazard to the abutting properties.

The Housing Improvement Program (HIP), the city's major rehabilitation program, has not figured prominently in this area despite the availability of 40 percent rebates. Although 19 percent of all eligible homeowners have applied for the program, over 42 percent of them have been unable to complete the work due to financing or other problems.

D. Commercial and Industrial Activities

Retail centers are located primarily at Dudley Station and Grove Hall, with smaller stores scattered along Warren Street, Blue Hill Avenue, and Dudley Street. The small, obsolete, streetcar-oriented stores along Dudley Street and Blue Hill Avenue are unable to compete with newer, auto-oriented shopping facilities recently constructed along major streets in Roxbury and Dorchester. Over 60 percent of the stores along these streets have been demolished, leaving major vacant and littered parcels. Abandonment, commercial disinvestment, and ensuing problems along these major streets have been major causes of residential disinvestment. Larger commercial nodes at Dudley Terminal and Grove Hall have been more successful in competing with the newer shopping centers due to the existence of better parking, a larger variety of stores, and accessibility by public transportation.

SPEAKERS BUREAU ESTABLISHED

The United Cerebral Palsy Association of Metropolitan Boston has established a no-cost speakers bureau for use by area groups and organizations.

Dr. Sylvia Sheinkopf, psychologist, vice president, and chairperson of the bureau states, "The main purpose of the Speakers Bureau is to increase community awareness of the United Cerebral Palsy Association, its goals and programs. The Speakers Bureau recognizes that many community members are searching for a better understanding of the complexity of cerebral palsy as a condition. We are prepared to offer speakers who are qualified to discuss the ongoing development of cerebral palsied children and adults, as well as recent developments in the area of research.

Community organization leaders and association program chairmen are urged to write to the U.C.P. Development Office, 358 Chestnut Hill Avenue, Boston, MA. 02146, or to call Al Kulbok, director of development at 232-9850 for more information regarding the United Cerebral Palsy Speakers Bureau.

POLICE RECRUITS: WELCOME ABOARD

Mayor White welcomes police recruits to city's service — highest minority representation in Boston police history.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on November 3, welcomed sixty new recruits, including thirty minority officers, to service in the nation's oldest police force, the Boston Police Department.

The recruits sworn in at an induction ceremony at Faneuil Hall by Police Commissioner Joseph M. Jordan, included sixteen black males and six black females, three Hispanic males, and a Hispanic female, four Chinese males, twenty-three white males, and seven white females.

They are the first appointments to the force since February of 1975. The recruits now enter a one-year training period at the Boston Police Academy.

Mayor White called the recruits "the most diverse group in the history of the Police Department. You have already undergone a rigorous selection process, and you are about to begin an even more demanding training program," the Mayor told the officers.

"In January, you will be joined by sixty more recruits as part of our continuing effort to increase the security of our neighborhoods," Mayor White said.

"This morning each of you assumes an enormous responsibility. You will be charged with learning not only about the criminal process, but about a wide range of social and psychological problems affecting the health of our city — and you will face physical peril in the line of duty.

"We recognize the personal courage required to make this commitment to Boston," the Mayor said. "And we have confidence in your ability to meet these responsibilities. Indeed, you are a group uniquely qualified for this service.

"Your diversity, with the greatest minority representation ever, reflects the diversity of our city. Most of you grew up in Boston neighborhoods, gaining valuable understanding and experience.

"Today you join the oldest and finest police department in the country. You will become a part of the neighborhoods, and it is to you that residents will entrust their safety.

"May the career you begin today be long and gratifying. On behalf of all of Boston's citizens, I extend deepest appreciation for your dedication to a demanding profession and for your service to the city."

HUB QUALIFIES FOR FEDERAL GRANT

Mayor White says Committee for Boston to focus on jobs — announces city is finalist for Federal Youth Jobs Grant

Mayor Kevin H. White today announced two developments vital to his administration's push for jobs for Boston, a reconstituted Committee For Boston, focusing on employment, and the city's designation as a finalist for high-level, federal funding for youth jobs.

The Mayor said the new committee will advise the administration on employment and economic concerns and provide "real expertise and input" into program planning and implementation by the city's Employment and Economic Policy Administration, headed by Charles Atkins.

Mayor White said the committee will "channel its energies and experience into helping us create meaningful, productive jobs in Boston — especially for youth."

The committee had its roots as the Committee Against Violence in the mid-1970s, then evolved into a civic unity committee to ease racial tensions in the city. Last October it provided a detailed report to the Mayor urging more jobs for the city's youth.

The Mayor said former state Attorney General Edward McCormack would again serve as chairman of the new committee, and that Muriel Snowden, co-director of Freedom House in Roxbury, will serve as the committee's vice-chairman. EPA Staffer George Franklin will be executive director.

Mayor White characterized the city's qualifying for final consideration for a $24 million "tier one" federal grant as "quite possibly the first big dividend from our investment in the Boston Plan." The city's application for the federal youth jobs grant is the first formal proposal to be submitted as part of the Boston Plan. The Mayor called EEPA's application "very comprehensive and very convincing." EEPA estimates about 5,000 jobs would be available under the grant.

Boston is one of eighteen finalists for funding out of forty-eight applications from major cities. About six cities are expected to be selected by the United States Department of Labor for funding. Boston has also been accepted as a finalist for "tier two" federal grants, a scaled-down youth jobs program, and has received $45,000 in planning funds for both programs. Boston and Philadelphia are the only cities qualifying in both categories. Final grant selections are expected to be announced in January.

EEPA Director Charles Atkins said the youth jobs program is "designed to meet a national crisis in youth unemployment. We have a very severe problem in Boston with 15 percent youth unemployment, and the minority youth unemployment figure is more than twice that.

"The federal money is available to the cities on a competitive basis," Mr. Atkins said, "and Boston is in an excellent position to qualify for top-level funding, on the strength of its application and because of its glaring need for youth jobs."

HEALTH FACILITY RENOVATIONS NEARING COMPLETION

The city Public Facilities Department has announced that the major refurbishing project begun at the North End Community Health Center, 332 Hanover Street, in December, will be completed within the next few weeks.

Among the renovations to the health facility were these: the conversion from a one-floor facility to a four-floor one; the installation of an elevator; and the replacement of the heating and air-conditioning systems.

"We almost had to start from scratch," said Health Center Director Elaine Wilson. "The building is just about gutted."

Mayor Kevin H. White said, "This Community Health Center has proven the success and necessity of the city's neighborhood health center program. It has provided medical, dental, and mental health services to the North End for the past six and a half years. This renovation will insure the continued effective delivery of modern health services to the community." The North End Community Health Center was one of the first health centers under Mayor White's program. In its brief history, this health center, through its dedicated staff, has gained the respect of the neighborhood residents. This past year, while the renovations were taking place, the center received 3,000 visits.

Director Wilson called the prior health center conditions, "very cramped." She added, "Now there is a sample room, and the neighborhood people are delighted. They now feel they have something they deserve."

The reconstruction cost close to $50,000. Because of the city's commitment of $190,384 of Community Development Block Grant funds, the health center was able to get a matching grant of $468,880 from the Hill-Burton Fund, a division of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. The remaining money came from private contributions.

MOTOR VEHICLE INSPECTION RESULTS

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Alan McKay has announced the results of the semiannual motor vehicle inspection. The registrar stated that, during the past inspection period, sixty-five inspection stations were suspended for failure to comply with registry inspection procedures and 280 warnings were given to other stations to upgrade their inspections. During the week of October 16-23, 2,000 citations were issued by law-enforcement agencies to motorists failing to display the current inspection sticker. These citations are resulting in court action. Registry inspectors issued 742 of these citations.

"I am extremely pleased at the results of this inspection," the registrar added. "The relatively small number of violators indicates the public and inspection stations made a sincere effort to comply with the law." He also gave credit to the news media for its inspection campaign and to the audit system of inspection stations where registry enforcement personnel conducted spot checks of the motor vehicle inspection stations.

"T" EXTENDS RAIL SERVICE

Mayor Kevin H. White on November 4, lauded the extension of MBTA commuter rail service to Hyde Park as an "important step in making Hyde Park an even better place to live."

Mayor White, who had announced the commuter rail service on October 31, hailed the Boston-bound runs from Hyde Park as "an idea whose time was long overdue."

Prior to the service extension, only three inbound and two outbound runs stopped in Hyde Park. Now, hourly runs will whisk Hyde Park commuters to Back Bay station in nine minutes and to South Station in fifteen minutes.

Mayor White, observing the dramatic swiftness of the new service, said that currently, the bus ride to Forest Hills station and the exchange to an Orange Line train for a trip downtown takes Hyde Park commuters an average of one hour.

Completing a walking tour of the River Street business district at the Cleary Square Station, the home of the extended service, Mayor White said, "We chose the Cleary Square Station for the stops on this new service because it demonstrated three qualities: a parking lot adjacent to the station, a nearby commercial business center, and genuine community interest. If the Cleary Square stop proves successful, we will attempt to extend the rail service to more stops in the area."

The MBTA-contracted Boston and Maine Railroad trains which provide the extended commuter service simply have added Cleary Square as a stop on regularly scheduled runs, making the expense of the service extension minimal.

Sharing the podium with David Gunn, director of operations for the MBTA, Mayor White complimented the "T" on its extended service to the community.

"We have seen," he added, "the Cleary Square area make great strides forward in the past year. Business here has improved. The people here seem far more optimistic about the city and themselves. This is an area with a future — a future which looks all the brighter as the city works to make the Boston Plan a reality."

Mayor White said, "That plan, coupled with the initiative and hard work Hyde Park residents have so graphically demonstrated here in Cleary Square, can only make this community, and ultimately the city, prosper."

The MBTA regards the Cleary Square Station as a prime location for off-peak, hourly service because of its residential density, high commuter volume, and eight and one-half mile distance from downtown. Figures indicate that commuter volume has doubled since the extension of hourly service on October 31. MBTA figures indicate that the daily average number of commuters utilizing the commuter service was approximately ninety-five in 1976.

Each year, a private school presents a classical play such as "Hamlet," "Macbeth," or "Romeo and Juliet." A few days before this annual performance was to take place, the fifth-grade teacher decided to prepare her class for it. "Does anyone know who Shakespeare is?" she asked.

One child raised his hand. "Sure," he answered, "he's the guy who writes the eighth-grade plays every year."

Said contract was approved by your Honor on April 22, 1976, and an amendment extending the term of the contract to March 12, 1977, was approved by your Honor on December 17, 1976.

I respectfully request permission to amend, without advertising, this contract, No. 5098, by (1) further extending the time of completion of the work from March 12, 1977, to June 30, 1977; and by (2) increasing the amount of the contract from $18,520, to an amount not to exceed $28,520.

This amendment is required because of changes in the scope of the work to be performed by the consultant. Specifically, these changes are necessary because of (1) the department's intention to adopt a nine-alarm assignment card in place of the existing five alarm card; (2) the incorporation of an eight-color intelligent terminal in conjunction with a "distributed processing" concept; and (3) the development of a master plan for the data derived from the system. These are modifications of the department's original assignment format and significantly increase the consultant's responsibilities under the contract.

Because of the professional and technical nature of the services to be provided and Firecomm's intimate knowledge of the system design, I believe it to be in the city's best interests to amend the contract under the terms and conditions stated above.

Respectfully submitted,
GEORGE H. PAUL,
Fire Commissioner.

MANPOWER ADMINISTRATION EMPLOYMENT SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I respectfully request your permission to dispense with inviting proposals by public advertising in the City Record, and amend a contract with the United Auto Workers Manpower Development and Training Department, with offices in Detroit, Michigan 48214, to place CETA participants in permanent, unsubsidized employment in the private sector by increasing the contract amount from $58,455, to $68,579.85.

Funds for this amended contract will be provided from a federal government grant to the City of Boston through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 PL 93-203. The effective dates of operation for this contract are from March 1, 1977, through September 30, 1977, inclusive.

Under the terms of the proposed amendment, the U.A.W. will hire an additional job developer to assist them in reaching their contract goal by placing ninety-eight participants in U.A.W. affiliated companies.

Given their exclusive relationship with over fifteen corporate employers in the greater Boston area and occupation training capabilities, it is my opinion that no useful purpose will be served by publicly advertising for bids.

Sincerely,
WALTER E. WILLIAMS,
Manpower Administrator.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT REFUSE DISPOSAL

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On July 22, 1976, your Honor approved the award of a contract to S.C.A. Disposal Services of New England, Inc., 140 Brookline Avenue, Boston, Mass., for the disposal of refuse from various districts of Boston, from July 1, 1976, to June 30, 1977. The contract provides for the disposal of refuse from District 1A, Charlestown; District 1B, Boston Proper; and District 5, South Boston, at the cost of $14.40 per ton at a total cost of $1,328,100. Your Honor has approved a letter on June 16, 1977, amending said contract by increasing the total amount to be paid by $18,000. However, the amount has been determined to be insufficient.

The total amount of this contract was based on the estimated amount of tonnage of refuse generated from the aforementioned three districts which, of course, can fluctuate. Therefore, because of the increase in tonnage over the estimate amount, your approval is respectfully requested to amend the present contract by increasing the amount by $8,700, and increasing the total amount to be expended under this contract not to exceed $1,354,800.

Respectfully,
JOSEPH F. CASAZZA,
Commissioner of Public Works.

RUBBISH CONTAINERS

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On June 8, 1976, your Honor authorized a contract to S.C.A. Disposal Services of New England, Inc., 140 Brookline Avenue, Boston, Mass., to provide for furnishing and servicing rubbish containers at various locations in the city.

Inasmuch as this contract was a first of its kind with regards to the service provided, the amount of collections was underestimated. We were required to utilize many collections for the many tons of sand that was spread on the city feets during the past winter. We were able to curtail collections and store the rubbish and debris in the Highway District yards due to the health and sanitation implications brought on by this stage.

Therefore, because of the unforeseen extra workload produced by the aforementioned incidents, your authorization respectfully requested to amend the contract by increasing the amount of the contract from $20,450, to $31,002.20.

Very truly yours,

JOSEPH F. CASAZZA,

Commissioner of Public Works.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

DIRECTOR'S SERVICES

MR. MAYOR WHITE:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston, I request your written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement, and to award to Dr. Ernest A. McNeill, the following amendments to a contract for services as Director, Special Schools and Programs, Department of Special Services, Boston Public Schools:

Extend contracted period from January 1, 1977, to June 30, 1977, to January 1, 1977 to September 30, 1977, and change contracted amount from $11,000, to an amount not to exceed $17,903.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be provided under this contract and the expertise of the contractor in providing such services, it is the determination of the Board of Superintendents, and has been approved by the School Committee, that the public interest could not be served by public advertisement for bids.

Yours truly,

EDWARD WINTER,

Secretary.

SPECIAL EDUCATION SERVICES

MR. MAYOR:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston and upon the recommendation of its Board of Superintendents, I request your authorization for a change in contract, without public advertising, with the Academy of Physical and Social Development, Newton Centre. The change is the addition of a rate of $15 a session, inadvertently omitted in the original contract.

Because of the unique nature of the service offered to certain children in need of special education services, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertising of the change. The additional rate has been approved by the Rate Setting Commission of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Very truly yours,

EDWARD J. WINTER,

Secretary.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT

MR. MAYOR WHITE:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston, I request your written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement and to award to UMass Amherst, the following amendments to a contract for participation in the development of educational programs at English High School.

Change termination date from June 30, 1977, to August 31, 1977.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be provided under this contract and the expertise of the contractor in providing such services, it is the determination of the Board of Superintendents, and has been approved by the School Committee, that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

Yours truly,

EDWARD WINTER,

Secretary.

MODERNIZATION OF SCIENCE ROOMS

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

I request your approval of my action to amend the contract with the R & L Construction Co., Inc., 1849 Dorchester Avenue, Dorchester, Mass., for modernization of science rooms at Boston Latin School, 78 Avenue Louis Pasteur, Boston, Mass., from $93,244, to $87,744. You did approve of my action in awarding the contract on June 13, 1977.

This amendment becomes necessary because on May 27, 1977, subbids were received for modernization of science rooms at Boston Latin School. No subbid was received for laboratory equipment and an allowance of $20,000, was carried by all general contractors for this item. Invited subbids were sent out to six contractors and the prices received were as follows:

Specialty Installations, Inc., $14,500; Kewaunee Scientific Equipment Corp., $20,423; Laboratory Equipment, Inc., no bid; The Jarmak Company, no bid; R. W. Johnson Co., Inc., no bid; Educational Installations, Inc., no bid.

The lowest acceptable bidder was submitted by Specialty Installations, Inc., P. O. Box 1015, Taunton, Mass., in the amount of $14,500. The price of the general contractor was amended from $93,244, to $87,744, which reflects a difference of $5,500.

Respectfully yours,

ANTHONY L. GALEOTA,

Chief Structural Engineer.

SUFFOLK COUNTY

Juvenile Court

EDUCATIONAL SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On August 20, 1976, this department awarded a contract by your Honor, without public advertising, to C.A.P. Special Education Projects, Inc., a non-profit corporation located at 418-420 Geneva Avenue, Dorchester, Mass., during the period July 1, 1976, through June 30, 1977, at a cost not to exceed $40,000.

Your authorization is requested to amend this contract by $7,000 because of increased utilization of educational services to children by the Boston Juvenile Court under St. 1973, c. 1073, the Children in Need of Services Act. The cost of the contract, as amended, shall not exceed $47,000.

Because of the unique nature of the services to be provided, the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bid.

Very truly yours,

FRANCIS G. POITRAST,

Presiding Justice.

"DEAR COMMISSIONER PAUL:

I wish to thank and to commend to you the firemen from the Boylston Street/Back Bay Group 3 who responded to the dawn fire at 6 Gloucester Street in early August. The men performed their duties efficiently and capably, and went far beyond the minimum level of service required to perform their duties. One fireman rescued me and my roommate from a potentially hazardous situation by helping us evacuate our building, ordering us to descend a smokey stairwell that to the ordinary person appeared unsafe. The fireman, through his training and experience, was able to make a judgment that we were not qualified to make in determining that the level of smoke was not dangerous, and made it possible for us to vacate an apartment that was rapidly filling with dangerous levels of smoke.

The team of firemen who covered our building, which is adjacent to the building that burned, managed to open all doors and windows, to keep smoke damage to a minimum, to prevent all other forms of structural damage, and to prevent all units from vandalism and theft while they were wide open for a period of time.

I understand that two firemen sustained injuries as a result of this fire, and was pleased to learn that they recovered rapidly. I should very much appreciate it if you would relate to them my appreciation for their efforts. I should like to add that several other residents of 4 Gloucester Street expressed sentiments similar to mine regarding the fine service provided by these men.

MARGARET LEE BLAND."

All of these members leave the department with the best wishes of their associates.

I. HAZARDOUS CONDITIONS

The external conditions of Lincoln Wharf, which is the area located at the rear of the discontinued MBTA electrical power plant on Commercial Street, is in hazardous condition. In the event of another fire involving the coal pocket located on this wharf, it is recommended that land company members use extreme caution with regards to the following:

Many holes and loose and rotted planking were noted on all sides of the coal pocket, particularly on the side at the extreme end of the pier and on the side adjacent to Union Wharf. Caution should be used by members not to walk along the two passageways which run under and along the entire length of the coal pocket. There are also many heavy metal hoppers or chutes built into the overhead along these passages which are in poor condition and could break loose. The roof and stairway (outside), located at the head of the structure leading to the roof, are also in very poor condition. Please note that the oil has been removed from the tanks located at the rear of the power plant. This building has been posted.

As a result of an agreement with the Boston Police Patrolmen's Association, the Superior Officers Federation, and the Boston Police Department, the present system of submitting overtime slips (BPD Form No. 16) for rock concerts conducted at the Boston Garden will be discontinued.

Effective immediately, whenever a rock concert is conducted at the Boston Garden, a regular detail card will be submitted, and the detail will be performed on an overtime basis, in the same

In addition to the regular procedure of filling out the detail card, the officer involved will indicate on the upper-right portion of the detail card that the detail is on an overtime basis. The cards will then be delivered to the Private Detail Service Unit in the regular manner.

In order for the computer to record the overtime rate, the job order number will always begin with number nine (9).

Commissioner's Memorandum No. 77-107

To: All Bureaus, Divisions, Districts, Offices, Sections, and Units.

Copies to: All Superintendents, Deputy Superintendents, and Directors.

The following communication has been received by the Police Commissioner from the Mayor's Office, City Hall, Boston, and is published for the information of all department personnel.

"The City of Boston will continue to participate in the MBTA's discount pass program. However, we are changing the system to make it easier for you to buy your monthly MBTA pass card.

The payroll deduction plan has been discontinued as of the end of this month. That means your October pass is the last payroll deduction you will be involved with.

Starting October 25, you can buy your MBTA pass over the counter:

The passes will be sold in City Hall, Room 243. The window will be open the last five working days of each month, and the first working day of each month. For example: for November passes, the window will be open October 25, 26, 27, 28, 31, and November 1.

During those six days, the window will be open from 11 A.M. to 2 P.M.

Checks or money orders only. No cash will be accepted. However, the Credit Union is just around the corner where you can buy a money order for 30¢.

Proof of employment by the City of Boston is necessary. An Id. card or payroll stub will do.

The exact same passes will be available!

We hope this will make it more convenient for you to get your pass each month and hopefully we can encourage more and more employees to use our new system.

If you have any questions, please call Elaine Jones at 725-3360."

Sufficient time will be allowed to complete this form if necessary.

Contractors shall also avail themselves of the "List of Minority Businesses" to be provided by the City through this department, to facilitate compliance with these requirements.

Executive Director.

REDEVELOPMENT SET FOR HISTORIC SHIPYARD

Mayor White hails transfer of former Charlestown Navy Yard — predicts "Faneuil-Hall" scale success for its development.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on November 7, hailed the transfer of fifty acres of the former Charlestown Navy Yard from United States surplus to the City of Boston as "another step in Boston's emergence as a national waterfront and port city."

Speaking at a transfer ceremony at the historic shipyard, Mayor White said the development of the yard "could parallel or even exceed" the success of Faneuil Hall and the adjoining Downtown-Waterfront Park revivals.

"Once again Boston stands to give the nation a model for incorporating historical significance into contemporary development plans," the Mayor said.

Mayor White accepted a certificate of conveyance for thirty acres from Richard J. Myshak of the United States Department of the Interior. The acreage is part of a 100-acre tract in the former shipyard declared government surplus after the yard closed in 1974 and is being developed by the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA). Eleven acres were conveyed to the BRA last spring and will be devoted to waterfront park. The remaining acreage will be purchased soon by the BRA from the United States General Services Administration.

The historical monument area conveyed yesterday contains thirty buildings of historic and architectural significance, including the Roewalk, where rope was produced for the entire United States Navy.

The $100 million BRA development program at the yard includes the waterfront park, cultural and educational facilities, a 1,100-unit residential complex, and supporting commercial facilities. A major aim is to return tax revenues to the city from a property which paid no taxes from 1800 on.

BRA Director Robert Walsh said the site preparation for the $2.6-million "Shipyards" park was nearing completion and construction would begin in the spring.

Mr. Walsh also disclosed the BRA and prospective developer of the residential complex, Immobilicare Canada, Limited, were close to signing an agreement expediting the start of construction on a 396-unit, apartment building.

He said the BRA has received $3.7 million from the United States Economic Development Administration for site preparation work in other areas of the 100-acre tract.

Mayor White cited the efforts of United States Speaker Thomas P. ("Tip") O'Neill in leading the move to convert the Navy Yard to new and more productive uses. The Mayor lauded the BRA development plans as "both practical and visionary" and thanked a number of federal agencies and departments instrumental in transferring portions of the yard to the BRA and in providing funds to encourage new development.

The Mayor concluded by saying: "This project means the city will obtain taxes from an area which was always tax-exempt. It will also allow Boston residents to enjoy another stretch of the waterfront which was once closed to the public. By redeveloping this historic area, we are demonstrating that in Boston we have the skill and sense to blend old and new to retain what's best from our past to serve the needs of this generation and generations to come."

ATTENDANCE INCREASES AT SCIENCE MUSEUM

With last year's attendance totaling 869,000, Boston's Museum of Science outdrew all recreational resources in the city except the Red Sox.

The figure is among several record-breaking statistics announced in the just-published Annual Report for 1976-77.

The report also comments on a number of community services in which the Museum is engaged, including its Project Eye-Opener, which last year gave free visits to 5,000 inner-city children, and its series of special programs for students from the McKay School of East Boston, a science magnet school. In addition, the Museum was able to augment the number of Roxbury and Charlestown Boys' Clubs members attending Saturday courses because of financial assistance provided by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Last year the Museum began offering teachers free workshops on Tuesday and Saturday afternoons to prepare for the Museum visits

THE BOSTON PLAN: ITS PURPOSE

Part 5

Many small, industrial uses are scattered throughout the northern portion of the proposed rehabilitation area. On Massachusetts Avenue in Roxbury are major meat processors such as Nepco (360 employees) and Colonial Provision Meats (650 employees), Mr. Boston Distiller, Inc. (550 employees), and the Massachusetts Wholesale Food Terminal at the New Market Square. Stride Rite Shoe Corporation (3,400 employees) is located on Harrison Avenue. Smaller industrial and distribution firms are scattered throughout northern sections of the area within a few blocks of the proposed Crosstown industrial park. With the construction of the Crosstown arterial street, several major industrial firms have expressed interest in locating within the area in order to capitalize on its proximity to expressways and a large, unemployed, labor force.

E. Transportation

The Blue Hill Avenue corridor, once a major component of the "streetcar suburbs" of Dorchester and Mattapan, presently contains little, quality transportation service for residential and business use. The corridor lies between the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) "Red Line" to the east and "Orange Line" to the west. Between these rapid transit lines, bus service is provided on Blue Hill Avenue and Warren Street in a north-south direction and is provided on the major east-west arterials in the corridor — Morton Street, Talbot Avenue, Washington Street, Seaver Street, Geneva Avenue, and Dudley Street.

Within approximately five years the Orange Line, which currently travels along Washington Street to the west of Blue Hill Avenue and passes through Dudley station to the north on its way downtown and beyond, will be moved further to the west. This change in alignment will further remove transit service from the Blue Hill Avenue corridor, and accordingly the MBTA has commissioned a feasibility study for replacement service on three major rights-of-way: Blue Hill Avenue, Blue Hill Avenue/Warren Street, and the Midlands Division rail right-of-way. All modes of transit are being considered for these routes, including bus service, surface trolleys, and rapid transit. The decisions based upon the feasibility study could result in up to $200 million in additional transit facilities in the area.

A major project at the northern end of the corridor that will be under construction next year is the Crosstown arterial street, connecting the southeast expressway to Columbus Avenue and Tremont Street to the west of the corridor.

Presently Blue Hill Avenue south of Grove Hall has excess off-peak capacity because of the removal of the trolley line many years ago. It is a major auto commuter route during peak rush-hour periods and acts as a distributor to the various neighborhoods and commercial centers along its route. North of Grove Hall Blue Hill Avenue is essentially a through-traffic route due to the deterioration of commercial and residential land uses in this section.

Its heavy use by commuters has caused major physical breakdown of the roadway and commensurate loss of pedestrian amenities and sidewalks.

The combined rights-of-way provided by Blue Hill Avenue and Warren Street thus are at a stage where they can be developed to provide improved transportation service to the various possible development nodes along their north-south route.

F. Active Area Organizations and Institutions

Twenty organizations and institutions provide multiple services to the target area, most offering programs to assist the predominantly low-income population, especially the youth.

Organizations servicing the area include: Roxbury Multi-Service Center, Alianza Hispana, Cape Verdean House, Freedom House, Women's Improvement League, Council of Elders, Elma Lewis School of Fine Arts, Roxbury Community Development Corporation, and Greater Roxbury Development Corporation. A list of the agencies serving the area is included in Appendix A.

G. Recent Public Investments

Since 1965, $80 million in public improvements were made in the Washington Park Urban Renewal Area, immediately to the west of the Blue Hill Avenue rehabilitation area. Fewer improvements have been made in the rehabilitation area and the neighborhoods to the east. The city spent $8,998,000 in capital funds within the area since 1970, constructing and renovating community facilities, parks, and streets. Most of the funds, $7,471,000, were spent on public facilities in the Dudley Station and Grove Hall areas. The remainder was spent on five parks ($1,023,000) and street improvements ($504,000).

H. Changing Character of Blue Hill Avenue

A brief history of Blue Hill Avenue suggests the significance of this area and the changes the neighborhood has witnessed.

The introduction of earlier forms of public transportation, such as trolley service (1854) and electric streetcar service (1889), brought Roxbury residents within easy commuting distance of downtown Boston. As a result, increasing numbers of working-class families built their expensive triple-deckers and tenements on vacant land between older single-family homes. By 1914, little open space remained for additional construction, and those who could afford new housing moved to Mattapan and Milton.

Thus, the Roxbury area became a way station in the movement of low-income groups up the economic ladder. The Irish were replaced by the Canadians and Jews, and they in turn were replaced by blacks and the Spanish-speaking. The removal of railroad commuter and streetcar service from the area after World War II and the availability of Federal Housing Authority (FHA) financing for new suburban homes further accelerated the flight of middle-income families from Roxbury.

Ethnic and racial transition along Blue Hill Avenue was gradual until the late 1960s, when the Boston Banks Urban Renewal Group (B-BURG) program was initiated in an effort to provide private capital and expertise, government coordination and planning, and self-directed economic development by the poor.

The B-BURG program accelerated the out-migration of a large segment of the remaining middle-class Irish and Jewish residents. The availability of low, down-payment mortgages to black families moving into the area was abused by unscrupulous real estate brokers who engaged in extensive blockbusting. New black homeowners, often inexperienced and unaware of the responsibilities involved in homeownership, purchased homes for exorbitant amounts and failed to anticipate the effect of monthly payments on their disposable income.

The principal impact of the B-BURG program, therefore, was an accelerated racial transition based on economic and racial fears. This racial change created a vacuum, as white families, principally Jewish, moved to other neighborhoods taking their social, educational, and cultural institutions with them.

III. BLUE HILL AVENUE PROPOSAL

As stated earlier, the very nature and extent of the problems besetting Blue Hill Avenue require an ambitious and comprehensive programming approach. But the unifying objective of this plan, that underscores all of the physical and social projects, is the encouragement of an economic revitalization in the area centered upon major, private, industrial development, access to more and better jobs for low-income residents and the eventual increase in spendable income for all area residents.

This plan for the Roxbury portion of Blue Hill Avenue consists of the following components:

1. Industrial Development
2. Commercial Nodes
3. Residential Preservation
4. Public Housing Project
5. Transportation

It should be noted that this draft is only a collection of ideas — some new, some old — that if implemented in concert could revitalize the areas abutting the avenue in Roxbury. Additional recommendation from the Blue Hill Avenue Commission and interested public and private agencies will undoubtedly be included in the final plan.

their classes make under the state-sponsored school Visits Program. Some 192,000 students from both in and out of the state visited the Museum during the year. Of these 80,300 — 5,000 more than the year before — attended programs prepared especially by the Museum's Education Department to supplement or complement their curricula.

Teachers have long been invited, with their students, to attend free Science Frontiers lectures. Given by nationally known scientists to introduce outstanding students to careers in science, the lectures were supported last year for the second season by the Lowell Institute.

The Lowell Institute also made possible two, free, lecture series conducted in the fall and winter-spring months.

A record enrollment of 629 in Saturday classes, a new high of 780 in volunteers, and gains in income from family and business memberships are also recorded. Museum Director Bradford Washburn notes that income from individual and family memberships has increased almost 600 percent in a ten-year period.

In calling attention to the Museum's $10 million, one-hundred-fiftieth Anniversary Fund Campaign to be completed in 1980, Mr. Washburn reveals that gifts received for the year 1976-77 carried the campaign total to just past the halfway point in 40 percent of the time allotted.

THANKSGIVING DAY

In the first year of his office, President George Washington issued a proclamation recommending that November 26, 1789, be kept as a day of "national thanksgiving" for the establishment of a form of government that made for safety and happiness. For years the festival was almost exclusively a New England institution, celebrated by religious services in the churches, the sermon often a political address, and by the gathering at the old home of the scattered members of the family. The day gradually became a custom in the western and some of the southern states, each appointing its own day. In 1863 President Lincoln issued a proclamation in which he "appointed and set aside" the last Thursday in November as a day of national thanksgiving "for the defense against unfriendly designs without and signal victories over the enemy who is of our own household." Until 1939 each president followed Lincoln's example in proclaiming the last Thursday in November a national day of thanksgiving. In that year Franklin D. Roosevelt, desiring to lengthen the interval between Thanksgiving and Christmas, named the next to the last Thursday as the date of celebration. But in December, 1941, Congress passed a resolution making the fourth Thursday a legal holiday. Governors in the various states usually issue proclamations to this effect. The day is also celebrated in all the territories and possessions.

NEW APPOINTMENTS

Mayor White appoints Helen Rees as Director of Cultural Affairs, reaffirms city's commitment to improve theater district.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on November 9, announced the appointment of Helen Rees as director of the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs and reaffirmed his commitment to revitalizing the city's theater district in a ceremony at the Wilbur Theatre.

The Mayor said the appointment of Ms. Rees "establishes that the city will continue to bring quality programs of cultural interest to the people of Boston, not only downtown, but in our neighborhoods as well."

Ms. Rees, forty, will be the third Cultural Affairs director since the Mayor established the office as an offshoot of Summerthing in 1970. She will succeed Elizabeth Cook, who resigned in September to begin work with H. P. Hood. Deputy Mayor Katharine Kane was the first director.

Mayor White praised Ms. Rees as "a dynamic, experienced leader who has the organization and management capabilities essential to an arts administrator of today, along with a real sensitivity to Boston's diverse cultural life."

Ms. Rees, who will begin work on November 28, currently directs fund-raising efforts for the Combined Jewish Philanthropies in Boston. She was formerly director of promotions for the Cambridge-based Real Paper.

She worked as consultant program director of the Boston 200 Women's Festival sponsored by Jordan Marsh in 1975 and as program director for the summer repertory theatre at Boston University's School of Theatre Arts.

She has substantial administrative experience, including a two-year stint as executive director of the Massachusetts Children's Lobby, which worked for passage of the chapter 766 special needs legislation.

Mayor White said Ms. Rees "has outstanding credentials and an aggressive, enthusiastic approach that assures that our Cultural Affairs Office will maintain its nationally recognized status as one of the most innovative arts councils in the country."

Mayor White said one of her priority assignments will be to work with the Boston Redevelopment Authority in upgrading the city's downtown theater district. He cited developments and plans in several areas, including:

—Increased lighting and mounted patrols downtown

—MBTA and street improvements, including the proposed reconstruction and widening of Stuart Street —Renovation of the Music Hall and new construction, such as the Tufts-New England Medical Center expansion.

"Over the past few years," the Mayor said, "this administration has worked with the theater community to improve conditions and enhance the district's image—with extraordinary results. Downtown theaters are filled to capacity and the area is once again bustling. Boston has reestablished itself as a city in which the theater is not only alive and well, but prospering."

Director Rees said, "I look forward to the challenge of directing the Office of Cultural Affairs and working for Mayor White, who considers the arts a priority in his administration."

"We will work for quality programming in Summerthing and other activities, continue support of the performing and visual arts communities, and we will work closely with Boston's host of cultural institutions."

Ms. Rees said Jo-Del Gaeth, thirty-four, who served as assistant to former director Betty Cook, will serve as her deputy director. Ms. Gaeth headed last summer's promotion of the worldwide premiere "A Bridge Too Far," and directed City Hall gallery presentations and events. She is a resident of Beacon Hill and vice-president of the Beacon Hill Civic Association.

ALSEN-MAPES INDUSTRIAL PARK READY FOR DEVELOPERS

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced the completion of the first phase in the development of the Alsen-Mapes Industrial Park Project.

The project, under the direction of the city's Economic Development and Industrial Corporation (EDIC), required the clearing of approximately 8.5 acres of blighted land near the Fields Corner section of Dorchester.

The city undertook site improvements and utilities installation to induce private development of the site.

Mayor White said, "Promoting the economic development of our communities promotes the welfare of all of Boston's citizens. When you make industrial locations available in a community, you bring valuable jobs to a neighborhood. This improves the quality of life in the area."

EDIC's Executive Director, Michael Westgate, said, "Before the city took over the site, no private investors would have touched this property."

EDIC, through its redevelopment, wanted to make the park a readily marketable piece of land. Lost manufacturing enterprises require sufficient space to operate.

Boston possesses few competitive locations with expansion potential for growing manufacturers.

By committing public funds for the enhancement of an area, Boston hopes to attract more manufacturing to the city, thereby creating additional jobs.

Prior to the Alsen-Mapes Industrial Park Project, the property was in serious decline. Victor Hagan, director of the city's Public Facilities Department, called the park, "a difficult piece of land to develop." Now, Mr. Hagan feels the property has attractive incentives for industry.

Part of EDIC's role is to rekindle private capital investments for industrially zoned sections of the city. Mr. Westgate said, "With the completion of our site preparations phase of development, we are able to offer a manufacturer an excellent site as a prospective location."

Half the redevelopment cost of $23,000 was financed by the city and the remainder by a matching grant from the Economic Development Administration. Project costs included land acquisition, relocation assistance, architectural and engineering services, demolition and clearance services, site improvements, administration, and marketing services.

EDIC is currently working with interested real estate agents and developers to construct one of more buildings at the park. Several companies have expressed interest in the site.

MAYOR LAUDS METROPOLITAN CENTER PROJECT

This administration has always been strongly committed to the preservation and growth of Boston's rich cultural heritage. Through the creation of the Office of Cultural Affairs and "Summerthing," with solid support from the business community and cooperation by the cultural institutions, the performing arts have become a living, joyful reality for every neighborhood of this city.

Our efforts have been directed toward both maintaining the established cultural organizations, and nurturing the many fledgling artists and groups who have chosen to work in Boston. We have recently formulated a comprehensive plan for the revitalization of our downtown theater district, including, of course, the Metropolitan Center site.

Today's official beginning of the Metropolitan Center project inaugurates a new era in Boston's cultural history. When operational in 1981, the center will be the most complete institution for the performing arts in the city. It will erase forever the strange irony of Boston as a renowned, cultural mecca not having adequate facilities for many of the world's top-rated, performing arts groups.

Perhaps the most important point to be made about this project is that it represents a spirit of hope, pride, enthusiasm, and new life which abounds in Boston today. Undertaken by local performing arts organizations committed to using the center as their home, it is yet another exciting step in the resurgence of our entire downtown area.

The Metropolitan Center project has the full support of my administration. Equally important, however, is strong participation by private sector interests — and I urge that. In dedicating the old Metropolitan Theater, Mayor James Michael Curley remarked in 1925, "It required great courage to attempt such an enterprise, but the people back of the enterprise had faith in Boston."

We have that same faith in Boston but we have reached a point when projects like the Metropolitan Center do require the combined expertise and resources of public and private sectors working together. Now more than ever, responsibility for our city's economic health and quality of life belongs to us all.

MAYOR TO RETAIN LIMITED RENT CONTROL

Mayor White announces rent control to stay — but in modified form.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on November 12, announced that he will not abolish rent control in Boston.

The Mayor said he has formulated a "modified version of rent control" that will:

- relieve tenants who feared major rent increases if controls were lifted.

- update the formula used for profit margin increases for landlords whose buildings will still be under control;

- exempt owner-occupied buildings from rent control.

Mayor White said the majority of the tenants living in the city's 75,000 rent-controlled units will still be under control.

He said he exempted small owner-occupied buildings — generally between four and ten units — "because the presence of the landlord in a building usually means better relations with tenants and better upkeep, and less prospect of unfair rent increases if controls are lifted." He added that small landlords do not have the legal and accounting resources that major landlords have in applying to the city's Rent Control Administration. He said this is the only element of his plan that will require City Council approval.

He said there were no immediate figures on how many units in Boston would be decontrolled under the plan, but that the figure will be available after January 1, when landlords of owner-occupied buildings file for exemption.

The Mayor also announced that Carol Corcoran, executive director of the Rent Control Administration, will work with the city's Office of Management and Budget to simplify procedures and speed responses to both landlords and tenants.

Mayor White said he made the decision to retain a modified rent control ordinance after consultations with landlords and tenants.

He said he also relied heavily on research from a report by the Mayor's Committee on Rent Control, headed by his housing advisor, Andrew Olins, but disagreed with its conclusion that rent control be abolished except for elderly over sixty-two currently living in rent-controlled units.

The Mayor said there would be no formal exemption for the elderly living in owner-occupied units that will be exempted, but that the percentage of elderly tenants affected would be small.

The Mayor said the modified ordinance would provide:

- financial relief for tenants who feared wholesale rent increases, but only partial relief in that rent increases caused by inflation would continue to be granted;

- stability, in that rents would increase proportionately in relation to proven costs demonstrated by landlords;

- accountability, in that landlords whose buildings are found to have building code violations are still subject to tenant rent reductions as supervised by the Rent Control Administration.

He explained that the plan will also provide relief for landlords by providing for rents incorporating profit-margin increases on a case-by-case basis. The new margin range will be worked out by the Rent Control Administration and a formula established by January 1. He said that "existing margins were no longer applicable in today's economy."

The new range will be liberal enough to encourage landlords still under rent control to maintain their investment in Boston's housing and to make improvements on their housing stock.

Mayor White said the plan "seeks to find that balance between the interest of the city's tenants and its landlords, both of which have suffered real hardships during the economic downfall of the mid-1970s."

"This ordinance is the closest we can come to satisfying all parties involved," the Mayor said, "and I fully expect it will be a workable document for improving housing in Boston while protecting the rights of tenants and the investment of landlords."

Mayor White said he announced the decision "to end the speculation about rent control," even though the full plan will not be worked out until the end of the year.

THE BOSTON PLAN: ITS PURPOSE

Part 4

a. Rationale: Levering Private Investment

The key to any effort at neighborhood revitalization is an increase in existing levels of income within the area. This objective can be achieved in part by effecting a closer relationship between the residential community and the commercial and service activities in immediate geographic proximity. With this closer relationship the circulation of the limited income within the neighborhood will increase, as will the capacity of the neighborhood to support and attract job-producing industry.

As the industrial base of most urban neighborhoods has suffered continuous decline over the last thirty years, the first step in any strategy to promote urban industrial development must be to stop further economic erosion and preserve existing jobs. A public commitment must be made to support existing businesses in the Blue Hill Avenue area and encourage private investment in additional plant and equipment. The city must also identify the locational advantages of the areas and determine how these might be capitalized on to attract new industry.

b. Crosstown Industrial Site

For several years Boston has recognized the industrial potential of an area located just west of the Southeast Expressway and north of Blue Hill Avenue. Already the home of several major employers, this area could be expanded to become a major industrial complex.

The site, which borders the Roxbury and South End communities, is located at the intersection of Massachusetts Avenue and the Southeast Expressway ramp (see Map 4, page 18). It is bounded on the north by Albany Street and on the south by the proposed Crosstown arterial street. This location provides immediate access to the regional and interstate expressway systems and to rail, air, and sea transportation networks. The airport, harbor, and downtown business districts are within fifteen minutes by truck.

The Community Development Corporation of Boston, Inc. (CDC) and the Economic Development and Industrial Corporation of Boston (EDIC), recognizing the locational advantages of this area, are co-developing a forty-acre Crosstown Industrial Park (CTIP) on the site. The CDC's goals in developing the CTIP are: (1) to revitalize the vacant and blighted land within the communities for economic development; (2) to retain and attract light-manufacturing employers; and (3) to create permanent jobs for local residents.

The Economic Development Plan (EDP) for the industrial park has received broad-based support. It was approved by Boston's Overall Economic Development Planning Council and the Board of EDIC. At a public hearing held in December, 1976, public agencies and private citizens expressed enormous support for the development plan. In May, 1977, the Boston City Council unanimously approved the EDP and authorized the expenditure of city funds for land acquisition and public site improvements.

The CDC-EDIC development of Parcels 1, 2, 4, and 5 within the CTIP will proceed immediately and concurrently with the construction of the abutting Crosstown arterial street (see Map 4, page 18). The arterial street, a $10-million, Federal Highway Administration, and Massachusetts Department of Public Works (MDPW) project scheduled for completion in late 1978, will provide efficient crosstown vehicular traffic to the interstate expressway system.

The annual economic impact of parcel development will be:

- $2 million to $3 million of facility construction;
- One job annually per $40,000 of construction costs;
- One permanent employee per 500 to 1,000 square feet of facility;
- $0.70 per square feet of facility space per year in property tax revenues.

The arterial street and the public improvements for the parcels will complete the site's accessibility and preparation for immediate development. The land acquisition for the parcels is in final negotiation. Several companies have expressed serious interest in locating facilities in the CTIP.

Parcels 1 and 4

Parcels 1 and 4 total approximately five acres.

The CDC is negotiating with a major corporation to locate a new facility on these parcels. The corporation is interested in establishing an initial 58,000 square-foot, light-manufacturing facility on Parcel 1 within this year; upon completion of the arterial street, the corporation plans to construct on Parcels 1 and 4 additional 67,000 square-foot structure. Private capital investment for the initial structure will total $2 million, and the planned expansion will create an additional $2.5 million of private investment. The total development will generate 155 temporary construction and approximately 1,000 permanent jobs. The major tenant will also provide a stimulus and stability to the development of the remaining parcels within the CTIP.

The land acquisition and assembly for Parcels 1 and 4 is in final negotiation with the two public landowners, the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA) and the MDPW. Land assembly for Parcel 1 is expected to be completed in 1977, and assembly for Parcel 4 in 1978.

In order to permit expansion of the facility, public improvements are required for Southampton and Hampden Streets, which will be closed upon construction of the arterial street. Necessary public improvements for Southampton Street include removal of the street, relocation of the water and sewer lines, and relocation of an MBTA power line, and for Hampden Street they include removal of the street and construction of a relocated street. Landscaping, lighting, and sidewalks are other improvements required for Parcels 1 and 4. The cost estimate for the public improvement and site preparation activities, not including the cost of engineering fees, is $800,000.

Parcel 5

Parcel 5 contains the vacant, 50,000 square foot multi-story Baltimore Brushes, Inc. (BBI) building. The CDC has negotiated a lease with BBI with option to purchase the building at a below-market price. The CDC's intention is to develop the building as economical "incubator" space for small and minority start-up manufacturing firms; several such firms have expressed strong interest in leasing the space. Currently, the CDC is subleasing spaces in the facility to three small, minority businesses at below-market rent.

Site improvements needed for Parcel 5 include landscaping, lighting, and sidewalks. The building is structurally sound, but needs substantial modernization; a new building will also be constructed. The estimated cost of the project, including architectural and engineering fees, is $1.5 million. Building modernization and construction activities will generate fifty temporary jobs, and the manufacturing firms occupying the structure will create 160 permanent jobs.

Parcel 2

Parcel 2 contains approximately seven acres of land, three acres of which are privately owned, four of which are owned by the MDPW. The CDC has been negotiating with the owners over the past year to assemble the site.

Several companies have expressed interest in locating a facility on the site upon completion of the Crosstown arterial street. Public improvements and site preparation are needed for removing and relocating city streets and utilities, landscaping, lighting, and sidewalks. The cost estimate for these activities, not including engineering fees, is $200,000. Approximately 80,000 square feet of facilities, which will provide about 600 permanent jobs, are proposed for construction, at an estimated cost of $2.7 million.

Parcel 3

Parcel 3 contains approximately twenty acres of privately owned land located south across the arterial street from Parcels 1 and 4. The multiple, private-ownership of the land makes land acquisition and assembly complicated. As a result, Parcel 3 development will take three to four years to complete and should not be considered a direct cost of this proposal.

Planning for Parcel 3 will begin when other developments within the CTIP have demonstrated sufficient stability and attraction to support its development. The land will be acquired and assembled from the MDPW, city streets, and several private owners at an estimated cost of $4.5 million. Public and site improvements necessary for the parcel include streets, sidewalks, public utilities, lighting, and landscaping. These activities will cost about $3.5 million. Approximately 400,000 square feet of facilities, which will provide about 1,400 jobs, are proposed for Parcel 3, at a construction cost of $1.5 million.

c. Crosstown Employment Assistance Project

The investment of private capital in the Crosstown industrial site will bring jobs and income into an economically depressed area; however matching low-income, area residents with these job opportunities will require definitive public action.

Phase I building of a 58,000 square-foot facility for a Triple A bonded, light-manufacturing firm on the Crosstown industrial site will begin this summer. This project will generate approximately 300 jobs for Boston residents beginning next spring. Phase II of the development, involving expansion of the facility to 125,000 square feet, will create another 650 jobs. Thus, an estimated 1,000 jobs will become available to community residents within an estimated three-year period. The firm to be located on the site will offer a range of employment opportunities, i.e., clerical, administrative, assembly/bench worker, technicians, and maintenance positions.

It is the policy of this administration to urge companies locating or expanding within the city to hire Boston residents. The light-manufacturing firm has indicated that the hiring of local residents is consistent with company policy. In order to effectuate maximum hiring of community residents at all job levels, the city will use CETA and other federal discretionary grants to reimburse the firm or compensate in other ways for the extraordinary cost that may be associated with the hiring of unemployed and unskilled area residents.

To be responsive and flexible to the needs of this employer and others in the Crosstown industrial site area, the City of Boston will require $750,000 additional employment-training funds. This budget requirement is based on the projection that a minimum of 500 employment opportunities will be made available through employers in the Crosstown industrial site area for low-income, minority residents during the 1978 calendar year. A $1,500 support cost per worker will enable employment-training agreements with the employers in this area. Special projects geared to the needs of industrial employers will be established, e.g., at the industrial site, in-house, vestibule, and on-the-job training will be initiated; in existing training facilities, custom-tailored training to fit needs of hiring employers.

In order to coordinate the activities of the city, Crosstown industrial area employers, and the training agencies funded within the CETA delivery system, the administration will create an industrial relations capability operating within the Mayor's Office. Industrial relations specialists will engage in marketing and informational clearinghouse functions. In addition, they will coordinate and cooperate with Massachusetts State Employment Service personnel in the development of on-the-job training and other job placement activities. The unit will work closely with the major industrial organizations, the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, and the Metropolitan Office of the National Alliance of Businessmen to promote the Crosstown industrial employment assistance project.

EXCESS RENT CHARGES INVESTIGATED

Findings of probe into doctoring of Rental Control files ordered turned over to District Attorney by Mayor White.

The findings of an internal investigation into the doctoring of rent control registration files have been ordered sent to the Suffolk County District Attorney's Office by Mayor Kevin H. White.

Corporation Counsel Herbert Gleason has referred documents detailing insertions into files of the city's Rent Control Administration resulting in landlords charging rents higher than they were entitled to.

Carol Corcoran, acting executive director of the Rent Control Administration, said the alterations may have resulted in eight landlords holding 111 buildings charging as much as $263,000 per year in excess rents.

The total rent overcharge to tenants in those buildings is not known, Miss Corcoran said. Many of the units affected by the overcharges are in the Allston-Brighton area.

The city's investigation began last January seeking to trace culpability for the doctoring of the registration forms.

If criminal charges are not brought, the city could file a civil suit against the landlords involved to obtain refunds for tenants who were overcharged.

The excess rents were charged possibly as far back as 1973, when the forms were first required for landlords affected by rent control.

HAS YOUR LICENSE EXPIRED!

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Alan Mackey has expressed concern over the fact that many people who change their address neglect to inform the Registry of the change.

"Licenses expire every four years and some registrations expire every two years," he says. "At expiration time, the Registry sends renewal forms to the name and address of record. Unfortunately, many of these renewals are returned to the Registry by the Post Office because the address is wrong. Thus, these people never receive their license or registration renewals."

The ensuing problem is one where a person is driving with an expired license or registration may be stopped by the police. Time and again, the officers hear the same thing from the driver . . . "I was never notified."

"In many cases," explained Registrar Mackey, "forgetting to notify the Registry of a change of address is an honest mistake. However," he continues, "driving on an expired license or registration is punishable by a fine of up to twenty-five dollars. Also, it is within the right of the police to impound the vehicle in question or arrest the operator with an expired license, and," he warns, "they often do." The law requires a licensee or registrant to notify the Registrar within thirty days after a change of address.

NORTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY LEASES THE BOSTON ARENA

The Metropolitan District Commission has negotiated a lease with Northeastern University whereby the university will take over operation of the Boston Arena on St. Botolph Street, MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker announced on November 9.

Commissioner Snedeker, in making his announcement, noted the lease which is now in effect, "offers a happy solution to a long-standing problem involving what to do with the arena, which was the site of political conventions, sports contests, musical concerts, and other events over a period of many years. I am glad," he concluded, "that the Boston Arena will still be put to good use in the future."

Previously it had been arranged that the City of Boston would purchase the arena from the MDC, but the city eventually decided otherwise. Thus the MDC was faced with either sealing the building or simply boarding it up if there were no buyers. The lease agreement with Northeastern University calls for the university to handle all costs of operation and maintenance of the arena while at the same time making it available to residents of the MDC's Parks District. The lease is an annual one, with automatic renewal each year.

MASSACHUSETTS FIRST IN TRAFFIC SAFETY

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Alan Mackey reports the declining highway fatality rate has returned Massachusetts to first place in the nation, based on a population death rate.

According to the latest release from the National Safety Council, Chicago, Illinois, Massachusetts reported a total of 455 motor vehicle traffic deaths for the first eight months of 1977; this is 12 percent less than the corresponding period in 1976 and 21 percent less than 1975. The Massachusetts rate was 11.7 deaths per 100,000 population (first place nationally) and 2.3 deaths per 100,000,000 motor vehicle miles traveled (third place nationally). The national death rate was 31.520 or 21.1 deaths per 100,000 population (an increase of 2 percent over 1976).

The Registrar stated that voluntary compliance with the motor vehicle laws by the public and increased enforcement by state and local police departments has helped keep the Massachusetts highway fatality rate nearly 50 percent below the national average.

"T" ENFORCES NO SMOKING LAW

MBTA Police Chief Richard E. Kenney has announced that the MBTA has begun a new campaign to enforce the 1968 law banning smoking in MBTA vehicles and stations. Violation of the law can lead to a jail term of up to ten days and a fine of up to $50.

"We are responding to numerous requests from the public who have been nearly overwhelmed by the smoking of a few passengers on our trains, trolleys, buses, and trackless trolleys," said Chief Kenney.

"I have instructed the MBTA's sixty-man police force to request smokers to put out their cigarettes, cigars, and pipes. If the person refuses to do so, he or she is to be arrested."

Mr. Kenney said, "I am pleased to say that we can spare some of our police resources for this because our campaign to reduce purse-snatching has resulted in a 45 percent drop in that crime over the past two years.

"Obviously, more serious crime than smoking has to continue to be our top priority. But we are going to have a continuing campaign to reduce smoking — because it's the law, because it's safer, because of consideration for other passengers," Mr. Kenney said.

In conjunction with Chief Kenney's announcement, Director of Operations David L. Gunn announced a campaign to enforce MBTA regulations against employees smoking in stations and vehicles.

ASTRONOMY IN PLAIN ENGLISH TAUGHT AT SCIENCE MUSEUM

A new Planetarium course at Boston's Museum of Science is tailor-made for anyone who may have been put off by the classical nomenclature and the mathematics involved in a study of astronomy.

Starting Tuesday, December 6, the course is "The Stars and Planets in Plain English." It uses a light touch and a nontechnical approach in presenting the most recent information about the nature of stars and planets, comets, and asteroids.

"If you enjoy a guided tour of a strange country," the Planetarium staff says, "you will enjoy this tour of our galaxy."

That stars are not all the same, that stars and planets may be more closely related than was believed in the past, and that space contains dust and debris often too thick to ignore are among the facts that will be considered.

The course will be taught by Norman Sperling, assistant editor of Sky and Telescope Magazine, who has had twenty years' experience in astronomy. He was formerly director of the Duncan Planetarium in Princeton, New Jersey.

Planned for those aged sixteen and older, the course will meet eight successive Tuesdays from 7:30 to 9:30. The fee is $40 with a five-dollar discount for family and contributing members. To register, call 723-2500, extension 274.

MAYOR ANNOUNCES SIG- NIFICANT ACCORD WITH MCAD

Mayor Kevin H. White on November 17, announced the City of Boston has reached agreement with the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination establishing a review role in city hiring and housing programs for MCAD.

Mayor White said the agreement is "the first of its kind signed by any big city mayor in the nation. It confirms my commitment to providing equal opportunity and improving the quality of life for all Bostonians."

He called the agreement "a means of setting specific goals for minority employment and housing opportunities."

"The recent election of the city's first black School Committee member in this century is a clear sign that the city is moving forward from racial divisions of the past," the Mayor said. "Now is the time to accelerate our efforts and provide leadership, and this agreement is a significant step in that direction."

The city agreed to provide MCAD with a comprehensive description of its equal opportunity program. It will also insert language into city contracts encouraging contractors to hire at least 10 percent minority help and at least 30 percent on jobs in minority areas.

In the area of housing, the city agreed to set up a centralized fair housing unit to implement fair housing programs and to establish a public safety unit dealing with incidents of racial harassment in city neighborhoods.

Mayor White said the agreement "will bring Boston into the forefront of the national effort to stabilize our cities by providing minorities with better jobs and housing."

ANOTHER BOSTON FIRST

Mayor White announces new police unit to enforce environmental and dog control ordinances.

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced the formation of a new civilian unit within the Boston Police Department to enforce the city's environmental and dog control ordinances.

The Environmental Ordinance Enforcement unit, comprised of twenty-two CETA employees supervised by Police Captain Francis Devin, was sworn in at a ceremony in the Public Garden by Police Commissioner Joseph M. Jordan, on November 18.

In welcoming remarks, Mayor White said the unit "will work to make Boston a cleaner, healthier, and safer place to live and work."

The new squad will enforce litter and trash regulations, supervise snow removal for pedestrian safety in winter, and serve as dog control officers.

Mayor White called controlling the city's growing dog population "an underestimated problem that warrants our serious attention."

The unit will work to increase licensing efforts (only about 10,000 of the city's 75,000 dogs are licensed), reducing the growing vagrant dog population and generating much-needed revenues for humane animal treatment programs in Boston.

The Mayor said snow removal ordinances requiring private property owners to clear sidewalks promptly after snowfall "will greatly reduce the safety hazards created by snow, especially for the elderly."

The unit will have four, radio-equipped vehicles and all officers will carry walkie-talkies. Citizens with complaints or information for the unit should call its dispatch center at 247-4211.

The environmental officers are empowered to issue warnings to violators and to file criminal complaints against chronic offenders.

"I want to make it clear that citizen requests for action will meet with a great response," Mayor White added. "The duties of these officers are to be taken seriously, because the violations themselves are serious affronts to the image and livability of the city."

V. LETTERS OF THANKS

"DEAR COMMISSIONER PAUL:

On Tuesday, October 11, 1977, at about two in the morning, I discovered a fire burning my front entrance way.

My wife gathered up our two children and we went out the back door to await the Fire Department.

In the space of two to three minutes, I heard the fire equipment coming up Main Street. The first engine reached the front door, the man in charge sized up the situation, and the fire was contained in a short period. Then other firemen began a careful and methodical check of all areas of the building.

You, as a fire fighter, must know of my relief that no one in my family was injured. But I also wish to express my gratitude and admiration for the way the men in this group, Group 4, handled the entire situation.

After removing the threat of the fire, your men checked all the electrical circuits, the gas fixtures to the furnace and to the hot water heater. Meanwhile, somebody had gone up and opened every window on the second and third floor so that the smoke and smell would disappear. Soon after, one of the men asked myself and possible witnesses for information about the fire.

Throughout the whole fire mess, it was a great comfort to be able to depend on professional fire fighters who cared for my family as they would their own.

Please pass on my words of very real thanks.

Sincerely yours,
KEVIN ROCHE."

"DEAR COMMISSIONER PAUL:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the men of Engine Company 18 in Dorchester.

On July 25, 1977, I was unfortunate in having a very serious fire in my home. The fire took place at approximately 3 A.M. I placed a call to the Fire Department and within minutes they responded to my call.

The men were kind and compassionate to my children and myself. I am very grateful.

Sincerely,
GERALDINE F. DONOVAN."

"DEAR COMMISSIONER PAUL:

Just a few words to inform you of the wonderful job the fire fighters from Ladder Company 29, Blue Hill Avenue, did for my husband on the night of October 10th.

My husband was detailed that night on Group 4 with Lieut. Steve McLaughlin, Bob Kilduff, and Paul Hynes. They encountered a fire and he was stricken with a heart attack. I'm sure his life was saved by their prompt action, in speeding him to the Carney Hospital and administering oxygen on the way.

I'm proud to be the wife of a fire fighter in this wonderful organization.

Sincerely,
PEG CURRAN."

I. OVERVIEW: HYDE PARK

A. Selection of Target Area

Hyde Park can be viewed as a strong residential area with active commercial and manufacturing sections, precisely the kind of resource which city and federal government officials have agreed should be preserved. An alternative view of this area, held by many closest to it, is that Hyde Park is a community in a delicate state of balance, with evident decline in its commercial center and steady erosion of the industrial job base, as well as a potential for housing deterioration. Complicating any assessment of the area are two additional factors: its deep and often bitter involvement in controversy over court-ordered school desegregation and, in one section, recent racial transition.

To say that such an area must slide into physical decay before it receives help would be irrational, yet the present impact of public policies might prompt the conclusion that this is the case. Hyde Park feels the secondary effects of a range of federal policies, from road building to education, without being a focus for federal investment. Apart from limited Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds, almost no federal money has been spent in Hyde Park in the past decade. A city-financed neighborhood preservation program, increasingly constrained by fiscal problems and competing needs, has fallen far short of perceived need. City efforts have not addressed underlying economic issues or permitted detailed focus on a community at early signs of decline, nor have they addressed the need to build community-level capacity for change or provided opportunities to ameliorate racial antagonism and fear.

Without questioning the priority need of more distressed or disadvantaged areas, a case must be made for the Hyde Parks of urban America. This proposal makes such a case, offering a preventive approach to neighborhood deterioration. The proposal argues that a public strategy responsive to early signs of distress is a vital part of an approach to this city's problems. The plan seeks to develop a capacity to manage the impacts of changes natural to the life of a neighborhood, while keeping residents' confidence in the area strong. It argues that a successful neighborhood approach must be linked to regional economic development and job creation efforts, but it also identifies small steps which can be taken by community-based city agencies and neighborhood groups to strengthen Hyde Park.

The proposal builds on Boston's experience with and commitment to its neighborhoods, manifested through such efforts as Little City Halls, Community Schools, and the Housing Improvement Program. Extending these resources, this plan for Hyde Park seeks to create local capacity to integrate and manage substantial, new, federal funding. The mesh of federal investment with many small investments of local attention and care is key to this preventive strategy.

B. Summary of Program Components.

The problems which have been identified as the appropriate focus of new public action in Hyde Park are:

1. Commercial Area Decline

A decline in business and physical activity has been evident in the neighborhood's key commercial area, Cleary Square. An increasing number of vacant structures, incidences of fire and vandalism, and demolition activities have been added to the square's chronic problems of traffic congestion and lack of parking space. The competitive position of the Cleary Square shopping area as compared with suburban malls appears to be weakening. As the general condition of the square is viewed as a symbol of the health of the community as a whole, its revitalization is key to Hyde Park's future.

2. Loss of Residential Confidence

A loss of residential confidence in the area, coupled with a decreased capacity of owners to invest in home repairs, threatens the neighborhood housing stock. Coordinated public policy is needed to assure a future for the residential area.

3. Youth Movement

Youth problems are agreed to be a serious issue in Hyde Park, both in terms of the limited opportunities for young people and in the impact that youth misbehavior has on the neighborhood's stability. The source of these problems lies with the quality of the educational (particularly vocational education) opportunities, the impact of school desegregation on the community, and the limited job opportunities for youth in a depressed economy. Responses to these problems must involve community groups and institutions, the business community, the educational system, and the city in working toward shared goals.

1. Job Base Decline

A steady erosion of jobs in the manufacturing sector has been paralleled by an increase in vacant, industrial buildings. Several major closings or transfers have highlighted this long-term trend, and over 900 jobs have been lost within the past five years. Major investments in streets and bridges are needed to provide access to existing industrial activities, and vigorous public action is required to create conditions suitable for expansion or to attract new development.

The Hyde Park proposal attempts to resolve these pressing neighborhood problems. The plan aims at retaining the economic life of the community, its commercial activities, and industrial base; it also deals with the future of its youth, focusing on their earning power, which is key to their own and the city's future.

Projects proposed in the plan include capital investment and siting of new facilities, and management of changes and addition of services to revitalize Cleary Square. Other recommended projects include: investments to aid existing manufacturing firms; physical improvements to roads and bridges, and site preparation to secure new manufacturing activities; and the aggressive use of a variety of financing mechanisms to aid both existing and new businesses. The youth development section outlines programs to better prepare youths for jobs and to link them to opportunities in expanding sectors of the economy, as well as a variety of activities to broaden the choices available to them. Finally, the Hyde Park plan proposes a series of services which will help stabilize the condition of the housing stock and restore confidence in residential neighborhoods.

II. DESCRIPTION OF THE AREA

A. Area Location

Hyde Park, located in the southwest quadrant of Boston, is abutted by three of the city's neighborhoods, Roslindale, West Roxbury, and Mattapan, and by two of its suburbs, Milton and Dedham (see Map 1, page 7). Hyde Park is a relatively low-density, residential community, laid out on hilly terrain. Thirty percent of the neighborhood's total acreage consists of natural wooded, recreational, or underdeveloped land, while twenty percent of the acreage is devoted to industrial use (see Map 2, page 8).

B. Population Characteristics

Hyde Park was one of the few sections of the city to gain in population between 1960 and 1970; during that period the neighborhood's number of inhabitants increased by 28 percent, to 36,509. The area's population resembles the city as a whole in its ethnic and religious makeup and is dominated by no one group. The number of black and Spanish-speaking persons is small. According to 1970 census, approximately 13 percent of the population was under the age of twenty-four and 12 percent was over the age of sixty-five, both of these figures being close to city-wide averages. Mid-decade population examination from a variety of sources indicates an increasing percentage in both these groups.

The 1970 median income of Hyde Park residents was $10,693, about $1,500 above the city median. The inhabitants' occupational skills are similar to the city-wide profile, with a slightly higher level of tradesmen (13.8 percent), and a slightly lower percentage of managerial/professional/technical and service workers than city averages.

C. Housing Characteristics

The housing types found in Hyde Park vary from late Victorian homes to the much more evident small, Cape-style homes constructed in the 1950s and 1960s. Single- and two-family housing and wooden three-deckers built during 1920-1940 are located along arterial streets. The median market value of all Hyde Park housing is $28,000, substantially lower than comparable structures in nearby suburbs. A 1973 survey indicated that 11 percent of the housing stock was in need of repairs costing more than $1,000, as compared with the city-wide percentage of 30 percent.

Of the 10,375 dwelling units in Hyde Park, 58 percent are owner-occupied. Many residents are long-term, with 65 percent having lived in the same house more than five years. The average age of heads of households and the number of single-person households has increased significantly in the last several years.

Large new apartment structures are concentrated on Cummins Highway on the northeast edge of the neighborhood, while a complex of 800 townhouse-style units, built in 1968, is located on the western boundary of the area. The 302-unit Fairmount public housing project was built in 1952.

D. Commercial and Industrial Activities

Located near the geographical center of Hyde Park is the neighneighborhood's commercial core, Cleary Square. While it appears in one sense to be busy and active, with a variety of private services and public uses, many stores are vacant, and there are evidences of vandalism, fire, and recent demolition. Traffic congestion is chronic, a sign of its central location and of its physical design problems.

A large industrial sector extends from the southernmost part of Hyde Park almost to Cleary Square. Other pockets of manufacturing activity are found off River Street, to the east of Cleary Square. A concentration of industrial activity is found near the intersection of the rail lines, the former Penn Central Mainline and Midlands Branch, near two major water sources, Mother Brook and the Neponset River. Major manufacturers located in the Readville area, including Westinghouse International's Sturtevant Division and Diamond International's Tileston-Hollingsworth plant, provide approximately 7,000 jobs for area residents. Large, vacant, industrial structures and empty land, presently owned by Amtrak, contribute to a mixed visual impression of the Readville area of active manufacturing set against industrial deterioration.

E. Transportation

Hyde Park Avenue (which connects with the MBTA Orange Line at Forest Hills), Cummins Highway, Truman Highway, and River Street provide commuter access to the city's core by auto or by bus. The Neponset Valley Parkway and Route 138 provide connections with the circumferential Highway 128.

F. Active Area Organizations and Institutions

The institutional structure of the community is characteristic of an area where there has been little external threat or major investment to stimulate the creation of new organizations. While schools, churches, and social and fraternal groups dominate, six or more resident associations are variously active. Social service agencies have low visibility, and a Community Development Corporation, ROAR (Restore Our Alienated Rights) drew both leadership and popular support from this area.

G. Recent Public Investments

Hyde Park is a tax-exporting area, supporting more city activities through its taxes than it consumes. In 1976, it yielded $23 million in property tax payments from its businesses, industries, and residences.

City capital investments over the past eight years have totalled over $2 million, including a new fire station and parking lot in Cleary Square, and a variety of street and playground improvements. State and metropolitan agency investments have included sewer reconstruction, park renovation, and bridge improvements. The area will receive $1.1 million from recently released Local Public Works money, approximately 5 percent of the city's total; it received 2.5 percent of the city's Community Development Block Grant funds used for housing and business improvements.

City services are generally perceived as good, with chronic complaints focusing on problems with young people and on deficient water pressure. A Little City Hall, established in Cleary Square in 1969, provided 12,500 direct services during 1976, such as voter registration and tax abatement processing, and handled 15,000 other transactions. The Ohrenberger Community School built by the city in 1973, serves West Roxbury and the adjacent section of Hyde Park.

H. Changing Character of Hyde Park

Hyde Park, Boston's last community to be annexed (1912), can be viewed in terms of its similarity to other New England manufacturing towns. Its early growth centered around local industry and paper and textile manufacturing. Connected to the larger world by rail, it merged physically with the expanding central city and grew rapidly at the turn of the century. A period of growth followed the Second World War, when new housing construction and a shift in job location to outside the area led it to be characterized as a suburb within the city.

On the basis of 1970 census data, Hyde Park appears to have remained a relatively well-off community. According to this data, the neighborhood's residents have medium income and average education levels that are slightly above city averages, and an incidence of poverty and unemployment below city averages. Yet such an analysis is contradicted by the problems visible to the outside observer and those spoken of by residents. The widespread loss of confidence in the area might be explained by the history of school desegregation and the impact of rising taxes; however, conversations with storeowners, social service agency personnel, and community leaders suggest other factors at work.

While certainly not the universal picture, unemployment and underemployment have taken a disproportionate toll on Hyde Park. Employment has dropped from a high of 15.4 percent, in the spring of 1975, to a present level of around 9 percent; levels above 10 percent were sustained over a three-year period. While 19 percent of the unemployed were under twenty-one, underemployment and dropping out of the labor market were widespread in this age group.

The community has still not recovered from this period of unemployment. There are evidences of a decline in the money being spent in local businesses, of an increase in use of public assistance, and of owners deferring home improvements. The 1970 data, in fact, were quite misleading in predicting 1977 income levels. Profiles in Change, a Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD)-sponsored data compilation, indicates a drop of four index points against a city-wide average for income during this period.

While available indicators are fragmentary and not conclusive, they appear to support the conclusion that "something has happened to income" in Hyde Park, and that this change lies beneath many of the feelings and signs of negative trends. Even if Hyde Park remained closer to city averages than these bits of evidence might suggest, its skill base and socio-economic makeup would suggest that it has shared in both city-wide failure to recover fully from recent recession and the structural unemployment problems affecting trades and construction workers.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL: BEST EVER

On Tuesday, December 6, Mayor Kevin White will throw the switch on the biggest and brightest Christmas Festival ever held on Boston Common.

According to Parks and Recreation Commissioner Peter Meade, "We have expanded the concept of the Christmas Festival to embrace the multitude of cultures present in the Boston area. Rather than merely being a display of lights, the 1977 Festival will be a celebration of Boston's diversity."

This year's festivities, said the Commissioner, will center around the Parkman Bandstand which will be enclosed and heated to house local musicians and performers who will appear throughout the duration of the festival.

The month-long celebration opens at 5 p.m. with "A Flourish for a Festive Occasion," an original trumpet fanfare written especially for the lighting ceremony by Daniel Pinkham, director of the historic King's Chapel Choir. Conducting will be Roger Voisin, former first trumpet for the Boston Symphony Orchestra and presently associated with Boston University's Music Department.

Also appearing on the opening night program is the Boston Archdiocesan Boys' Choir of St. Paul, Cambridge, under the direction of Theodore Marier. The choir will arrive directly from their final rehearsal of "The Nutcracker" which they will be performing with the Boston Ballet.

Other holiday selections that evening will include performances by the Cantabrigia Brass Quintet, directed by Robert Pettipaw, former director of the Cambridge Brass Quintet for eleven years, and Demetri Haitas, distinguished Boston tenor.

Explained Commissioner Meade, "The opening night program is the culmination of months of planning by The Friends of the Public Garden's Committee for the Common and their Music Committee, as well as the Parks and Recreation Department. The depth of musical knowledge demonstrated by the committee will set the tone for a distinctive and memorable festival."

Serving on the Music Committee are: Mrs. Donald McKay, Chairman, Committee for the Common; Daniel Pinkham; Roger Voisin; Steven Fassett, distinguished recording expert; and Thomas Dunn of the Handel and Haydn Society.

Live entertainment will be featured at the bandstand every day throughout December from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 1:30 to 6 p.m. on weekends. Close to 400 hours of taped music, selected by the Music Committee, will be heard over a new sound system, beginning at approximately 7:30 a.m. and continuing until 9 p.m. every day.

A second focal point of festival activity will be the Frog Pond. "In planning the celebration, we tried to incorporate the best-loved features of the Boston Common and certainly the Frog Pond would rate high on that list," said the Commissioner. The lighting of the pond area will include illuminated cubes featuring Santa's nine reindeer. Also on display will be Santa's sleigh where special activities will be held throughout the season.

Boston's many ethnic groups will be highlighted in a unique manner as over forty lampposts will be decorated with wreaths and fir boughs, centered by medallions representing specific cultures. These will remain permanent fixtures at subsequent festivals. The traditional creche scene will also be a part of the city's holiday observance.

A very special part of the celebration will be Children's Day on December 10. All entertainment and activities will be geared to the young and the young-at-heart. Featured will be appearances by Santa Claus, Mrs. Claus, dozens of storybook and cartoon characters, puppet shows, tree-trimming, and —weather permitting— sleigh rides! Even if it doesn't snow, children can circle the Common with their favorite costumed "friend" in a pony-drawn carriage.

"Each and every day of the holiday season will be very special for Bostonians and our visitors. The festival is a way for the city to say 'Happy Holidays' to one and all," said Commissioner Meade.

MAYOR CREATES NEW OFFICE OF HOUSING

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced the creation of a new Office of Housing to oversee and coordinate the wide variety of city housing programs under one agency.

Touring the Leyden Street area in East Boston recently, Mayor White, accompanied by New York City Mayor-Elect Edward I. Koch, focused on the importance of a unified approach to home improvements programs.

"I fully realize the increasing cost of homeownership facing the people of Boston, and I will continue to support programs which attempt to ease their burden in making necessary home repairs. The creation of this office firmly commits the city to future improvement programs."

During the past two-and-a-half years, 15,000 Boston property owners have taken advantage of the variety of housing programs available from the city. More than 25 percent of the eligible housing stock in the city has been improved through city housing programs, making Boston's housing program one of the leading in the nation. Those repair programs have generated about $40 million in private investment.

Said Mayor White, "The dollar impact of these various housing programs is obviously significant, but you don't realize the human return on that investment until you walk down streets like Leyden Street and Breed Street. Fifty percent of the houses here have been improved in some way under a city program, generating an average private investment here of $4,000 per structure. That's what the Hart Poll means when it makes the link between strong neighborhoods and a healthy housing stock. It's a significant point. That's the kind of commitment and partnership between the city and its neighborhoods that keeps the city strong. This new office will help maintain that relationship."

Programs which now fall under the auspices of the new Office of Housing are:

- Operation of the Housing Improvement Program which offers 20 percent rebates to non-elderly homeowners and 50 percent rebates to elderly homeowners throughout most of the city's neighborhoods.

Since its inception in June, 1975, this program has awarded $12 million in grants to homeowners.

- Operation of section 312 Rehabilitation Loan Program which offers low-interest, long-term loans in several designated neighborhoods. Last year, that program issued $1½ million in loans.

- Operation of the Urban Homesteading Program which restores abandoned residential property to the tax roles and provides new homeownership opportunities to eligible families. That program has restored more than $1 million in property during its two year existence.

- Monitoring $300,000 in non-profit, housing programs currently funded through the Mayor's Office including Neighborhood Housing Services.

- Monitoring of all public housing improvements under the auspices of the Mayor's Office from the roughly $4 million annually in federal and state monies.

The new Office for Housing will be directed by Craig S. Nickerson, thirty, of Hyde Park. Mr. Nickerson will report to Mayor White's housing advisor, Andrew Olins. He has worked in housing programs for the city for the past six years. A Vietnam War veteran, he holds a B.S. in business administration from Marietta College, and an M.A. in urban affairs from Boston University. Mr. Nickerson lives on Farwell Avenue, Hyde Park, with his wife and two children.

DRIVERS: TAKE HEED

Although last winter may seem far-gone to many, Registrar of Motor Vehicles Alan Mackey advises car owners and operators that "now is the time to prepare for winter driving." He said, "Don't be fooled by thinking it's still early and there is plenty of time left before winter sets in."

Undoubtedly having read the almanac prediction that this winter is going to be more severe than last, Registrar Mackey issued a schedule of foul weather precautions.

"Get a tune-up," he said, "and be sure the battery will survive the worst conditions."

"Make sure there is plenty of antifreeze in the cooling system. Also, check the windshield washers and wipers, the heater, and the defroster to see that they are in proper working order. Remember, if the heater and defroster aren't blowing very hot air, they are insufficient and need to be fixed. Most likely, a minor adjustment, like having the heater coil cleaned, will be all that is needed."

He also said to "expect a lot of snow, and equip the vehicle with deep-tread, snow tires." He listed some items that should be carried in the car, the most important ones being windshield de-icer and scraper, road flares, booster cables, and sand or salt.

"Never drive with the vehicle tightly closed," he warned, "because exhaust that cannot be detected by taste or smell may enter the vehicle and cause dizziness, or worse."

Mr. Mackey continued saying that commonsense driving adjustments must be made.

"Among other things, it is important to increase the distance between your vehicle and the one you are following," he said. "Also, always keep a sharp eye out for when you may have to slow down or stop. On icy streets especially, brakes must be applied gently and smoothly in order to maintain steering control."

Finally, Registrar Mackey urged motorists not to drive except "when essential" if snow warnings are in effect or when adverse weather conditions prevail.

MAYOR KICKS OFF HOLIDAY SEASON AT QUINCY MARKET

Mayor Kevin H. White, on November 25, kicked off Boston's holiday season celebration by lighting the 24-foot-high "Twelve Days of Christmas" tree in the rotunda of the Quincy Market.

Accompanied by James McLean, general manager of the Faneuil Hall Marketplace and vice-president of Rouse Company, Mayor White ushered in the Christmas shopping season.

"As the rush toward Christmas begins officially today, I admit to a reflective mood. We have come a long way in this city over the past year. Part of that progress we have made is embodied by the South Market Building opened for business across the way there; and part of that progress is all of you being here today to browse and shop and enjoy a shopping area which a short time ago lay fallow."

"Standing in front of this marvelous piece of art with its combination of music, light, and tinsel makes us all keenly aware of how fortunate we are to live in Boston during the Christmas season — perhaps this season more than at any other time of the year," said Mayor White.

"We are richly blessed with such a wide variety of shops, particularly here — where we are doubly blessed by a fine restoration project coupled with a thriving commercial enterprise," he said.

The tree was designed by Jack Pentes of Charlotte, North Carolina. It is the second Christmas the tree has been Quincy Market's symbol of celebration.

REPAIRS SET FOR BAY BRIDGE

Major repairs to the Dorchester Bay Bridge on Morrissey Boulevard will require revision of traffic flow in the area from now until May 15, 1978, the Metropolitan District Commission has announced.

Work will be done in three stages with one-third of the bridge closed during each stage.

Repairs will be made to structural components of the drawspan, including rehabilitation of the bridge deck and electrical distribution system. Total cost of the program will be approximately $755,000.

MDC officials said the traffic pattern during the first stage will be three lanes inbound and one lane outbound between the hours of 6 A.M. to 12 noon, and three lanes outbound and one lane inbound from 12 noon to 6 A.M.

The second and third stages will require a change in this traffic pattern. Completion of the first stage will be announced to the public.

During the repair period the bridge drawspan, which normally can be opened to accommodate operators of water craft in the area, will be closed at all times.

"T" AUGMENTS SERVICE FOR SUNDAY SHOPPERS

The MBTA will put on added train and bus service for the next three Sundays, when stores will be open for shoppers between noon and 6 P.M.

The Red Line will have a train from Ashmont and Quincy every twelve minutes, instead of the usual fifteen-minute frequency on Sundays. Service between Harvard Square and Andrew Square, Dorchester, where the Quincy and Ashmont trains split off to their separate terminals, will be every six minutes.

The Orange Line service between Oak Grove and Forest Hills, normally every fifteen minutes on Sunday, will be every eleven to twelve minutes.

Green Line service will be every ten minutes from Riverside, Cleveland Circle, and Boston College, and extra cars will be added if necessary. Green Line service from Arborway will be every eight minutes. Green Line subway service will be supplemented by four new Light Rail Vehicles shuttling between the Commonwealth Avenue portal at Blandford Street and Lechmere.

Blue Line service will run every seven and one-half minutes.

Extra buses will be put on key Sunday routes if needed. Individual bus route schedules are available at the Park Street Station information booth on the Green Line level.

MAYOR'S GOAL: ACCELERATED ECONOMY

Mayor White announces initiatives to open door for increased business development in Boston.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on November 21, pledged to provide Boston's business community with the tools to accelerate the city's economic revival in a speech to business leaders at City Hall.

The Mayor announced three major initiatives designed to bring Boston into "a new period of economic development," including:

— Broadening city bidding procedures to give preference to Boston-based firms, or firms employing a majority of city residents.

— The resumption after a one-year moratorium of 121A tax agreements to expedite about $324 million in development, providing about 10,000 jobs and $10 million in tax revenues for Boston.

— An expansion of the city Economic Development Industrial Corporation's commitment to stimulate the downtown commercial district.

"I believe we are on the verge of a new period in the life of this city," Mayor White said, "and that it can be successful if government and the private sector set the course now."

"Today we are a city which over the past few years has with strict economy and almost no outside help in the tax rate, gained almost 3,000 new manufacturing jobs, opened the most successful urban shopping center in the country in Faneuil Hall, and brought about 1,000 jobs back in ship construction under EDIC at the army base," Mayor White said.

"We have also signed up a developer for 1,500 units of housing in the Charlestown Navy Yard — which has the promise of having twice the economic potential of the waterfront."

Mayor White told the business leaders that new and tighter conditions will be imposed on the granting of 121A tax agreements, which permit developers to make a negotiated payment in lieu of taxes based on assessed valuation. For instance, 121A agreements will be granted for a shorter time than the previous forty-year agreements. The new term will be about thirteen to fifteen years.

He said that the city in turn will establish a rate of payment which will fluctuate between established parameters, giving developers approximate tax levies to help them in securing financing, and allowing the city latitude in adjusting to future changes in development demands.

Mayor White warned, however, that what the city needs most is property tax reform from the state government. He said he imposed the moratorium on 121A projects last year to "focus attention on the property tax crisis in Massachusetts."

"The state stupidly and steadfastly turned its back on the single, most serious, economic problem in Massachusetts," the Mayor said.

"But even though the state could afford to take the gamble of losing business and jobs, we in Boston could not."

"After listening to numbers of my administrators and talking to various businessmen, I have made the decisions and commitments announced today," he said. "The bottom line is that I intend to use all the tools available to this administration to encourage economic activity and to create jobs for Boston residents," the Mayor concluded.

Money may not bring happiness, but it puts your creditors in a better frame of mind.

YOUNGSTERS CAN MAKE HOLIDAY GIFTS

Children visiting the Children's Museum in Jamaica Plain during December weekends will find a special surprise — in several exhibit areas, they can make holiday gifts.

The staff of Grownups & Kids will be showing children how to make tie-dyed and potato-stamp, gift wrap, simple holiday decorations, decorated pendants, and small books.

Grandmother's Attic will be featuring sachets and old-fashioned picture frames.

Children visiting the Japanese Home will be able to make such things as packaged paper fans, stationery printed with Japanese designs, kakemono (hanging scrolls with pictures and holiday greetings), and kusadama (thread balls) for use as hanging ornaments.

The Children's Museum is open Tuesday through Friday, from 2 to 5; Friday night, 6 to 9; Saturday and Sunday, 10 to 5. December 23 and January 2, the museum is open daily, 10 to 5; closed December 25 and January 1.

For more information about the museum's exhibits and programs, call the What's Up Line at 522-5451.

MAYOR ENDORSES "GLOBE" SANTA PROGRAM

Mayor Kevin H. White on November 23, opened the holiday season, encouraging all Bostonians to contribute to the Boston Globe Santa, a yearly, holiday drive to supply needy youngsters with toys.

"Since 1956, when the Globe took on the Santa job from the defunct Boston Post, the Globe Santa Program has made Christmas a very special day for a number of Greater Boston children," said Mayor White.

"Last year, this noble endeavor supplied 17,500 households with boxes of toys — toys that otherwise would not have been in the home at Christmas," said Mayor White.

Calling the Globe readership's response to the articles outlining the plight of the needy families "a heartening display of compassion,"

Mayor White urged Bostonians to "remember that the holidays mean brotherhood, and what better way to bring happiness to your less fortunate neighbors, than to contribute to such a worthy cause."

MAYOR COMMENTS ON NORTH END REDEVELOPMENT

Mayor Kevin H. White, on November 27, congratulated the North End's San Marco Society of Sacred Heart Church for a "unique and resourceful housing coup" as he toured buildings on Fulton and Richmond Streets to be developed by the society.

The society acquired financing on its own to purchase nine buildings from the Boston Redevelopment Authority and rehabilitate them.

The society's nonprofit status enabled it to offer condominium units in the $30,000 to $45,000 range, substantially lower than the prevailing rates for the North End-Waterfront area.

Sixty units in the buildings, former nineteenth century, warehouse structures once slated for demolition, will be available next year, and to date, about thirty "firm offers" have been made, primarily by North End residents.

"The very fact that this development will become a reality in the next year is a tribute to the hard work and gumption of the members of the San Marco Society," Mayor White told the group.

"You have a right to be proud of the success of this venture. This project will be a big boost to the North End and help ease the fears of residents who were concerned that they were being edged out of their own neighborhood by affluent professionals. This project will not only improve the neighborhood's housing stock, but it will go a long way toward improving community relations as well," the Mayor said.

Glasses have an amazing effect on a person's vision — especially after they have been filled and emptied several times.

Part 2 — Hyde Park

1. Commercial Revitalization of Cleary Square

a. Major Issues

Revitalization of Cleary Square as the area's social and commercial center is crucial to the enhancement of residents' confidence in Hyde Park as a desirable place to live.

The concentration of retail activity and the location of major, social institutions in Cleary Square, e.g., churches, municipal building, library, police and fire stations, YMCA, post office, and middle school, caused it to become a focal point for most Hyde Park residents. Yet, since 1970, the square has witnessed a sudden and dramatic commercial decline; the total commercial area has decreased by 50,000 feet. The equivalent of almost four, standard, city blocks of once viable, retail activity structures are now vacant, and much of what was once a bustling, congested business district has given way to open, empty space (see Map 3, page 16). The city's present CDBG-funded, neighborhood business district program, which provides one staff person for business districts in the southwest sections of the city, has received inadequate funds to have more than a limited impact in Cleary Square; however, the business specialist's efforts at coordinating the storefront rehabilitation rebate program (RESTORE), capital investments, and increased police protection do provide an excellent starting point for a more comprehensive approach to resolution of the area's problems.

The deterioration in commercial activity in Cleary Square can be attributed to:

(1) Competition from Suburban Malls

Both shopping patterns and quality stores have shifted from local business districts, even strong ones such as Cleary Square, to the newer, accessible-by-auto, suburban malls. Recent studies of Cleary Square shoppers indicated that nearly one-half had walked to the square; its primary market, which at one time consisted of much of southwest Boston, has shrunk to an area within one-half mile of the square. Cleary Square, once serving a regional market, is now more a "neighborhood business district," whose future is closely tied to that of its immediate surroundings.

(2) Declining Purchasing Power of Area Residents

The combination of a sustained, high unemployment level and underemployment among segments of the population normally most inclined to spend (i.e., young adults, heads of families) has had a negative impact on demand in Cleary Square. In addition, a shift of homeowners from the mid- to older-age group suggests more dependence on fixed income and less family spending, reducing the effective demand for goods and services.

(3) Traffic Congestion

Congestion is particularly acute in Cleary Square since suitable bypass routes for long distance travel are not available. The several traffic signals on major thoroughfares, while necessary, further impede the flow of traffic through the square.

(4) Lack of Diversity in Goods

In a recent survey of Cleary Square shoppers, 44 percent of the respondents mentioned the lack of diversity in the goods marketed in the square. The area is characterized by a concentration of drug and personal goods stores and a lack of men's and children's clothing stores.

(5) Physical Deterioration

Vacant stores, demolished buildings, and open spaces reduce the attractiveness of the square as a place to shop, further decreasing its market. Condition and layout of existing retail space has not been consistently modernized and hence, while individual stores may carry sought-after merchandise, stores do not appeal to the aesthetic taste of the modern shopper.

In addition to the problems of physical and marketing decline, the media's coverage and overdramatization of disturbances during school desegregation has led to commercial decline of the square. One national retail chain was ready to enter into a leasing agreement for occupancy in Cleary Square in October, 1976, when a national newscast portrayed violence at the Hyde Park High School; subsequently, the marketing manager canceled the firm's intention to locate in the area.

It is noteworthy that intervention in Cleary Square alone cannot solve its major structural problems — the declining purchasing power of area residents and the competition from suburban malls. The first issue, the decline in residents' purchasing power, will be addressed in other sections of this proposal. The latter, competition from suburban malls, will be addressed in a national context by the impact of ever-increasing energy costs. It is possible that the trends which led to the development of suburban competition may well slow or reverse themselves, thus providing the necessary climate, through market pressure alone, for revitalization of Cleary Square. Yet it is also possible that prior to such changes deterioration will put the square beyond the reach of assistance. To prevent this occurrence, regardless of national trend, this proposal recommends a three-phased, coordinated plan for the revitalization of Cleary Square. Its strategy aims to develop a more favorable climate for commercial enterprises through emphasis upon physical improvements and upon effective generators of area activity (see Map 4, page 19).

Boston Plan . . .

b. Phase I — Existing and Short-Term Physical Improvements

Goal: To arrest the most immediate and obvious signs of deterioration and to provide public incentives for the maintenance of the private commercial base.

Time frame: Existing — July 1, 1978.

(1) Investments

(a) Parking Lots

The city has already constructed one major parking lot in Cleary Square, on the former Top Dollar site.

This proposal recommends that, in conjunction with the area's major developer, the city consolidate the municipal parking lot on Winthrop Street with the privately owned lot across the street. These reconstruction activities, which would be completed by spring, 1978, will increase this site's parking capacity to 140 cars.

The former Top Dollar site and expanded Winthrop Street lots together will provide adequate parking for Cleary Square shoppers.

Cost: Winthrop Street Lot, $361,000.

(b) Exterior Improvements

The city has undertaken a major initiative in implementation of its CDBG-funded RESTORE program, which offers 20 percent cash rebates for the cost of exterior improvements made with appropriate design controls. A major property owner in the area has agreed to utilize the RESTORE program in renovating the exterior of his Cleary Square structures; other businessmen are expected to take similar action.

Cost: $15,000.

Source: HUD, CDBG funds.

In addition, the placement of extensive street furniture/amenities, e.g., benches, trees, and lighting, will begin in spring, 1978. These efforts will be assisted by the city's current "Birthday Book" program, which works with local groups to design and place improvements, matching private donations toward specific activities with an allocation of "Birthday Book" funds. The public amenities program can be coordinated with an overall "image" campaign for the square, which draws on design professionals and artists for development and assistance in implementation. Sources such as the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) City Spirit grants will be explored to support this activity.

Cost: $15,000.

(c) Maintenance Activities

The unsightly vacant lots and debris in Cleary Square, as well as the presence of numerous empty structures, severely impact the potential and actual shopper's perception of the square. These conditions, taken with the upkeep required for the two parking lots, will strain the city's maintenance capabilities. Consequently, a maintenance crew, consisting of ten workers and two supervisors, will be formed. This crew will be supervised and coordinated with other neighborhoods' maintenance needs by the Hyde Park Little City Hall.

Cost: $175,000.

Source: Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), Title VI monies; City of Boston funds.

In addition, a separate maintenance project consisting of twenty-five part-time, high school students and two supervisors will operate out of the Hyde Park Youth Resource Center; its activities will be scheduled out of the Hyde Park Little City Hall.

Cost: $150,000.

Source: Federal New Youth Stimulus Legislation funds.

(2) Actions

A Neighborhood Cabinet, chaired by the Little City Hall manager and composed of the local supervisory personnel of the city's line departments operating in Hyde Park, will be created in the fall of 1978. This body will coordinate and improve city services to area residents and strengthen local-level communication and accountability. The

MAYOR SUBMITS 1978 TAX PACKAGE

Mayor White releases urban tax relief proposals to state — calls for 1978 passage of property tax reform to aid cities.

Boston Mayor Kevin H. White said he expects 1978 will be the "Year of the City" as the state Legislature considers his 1978 tax package to be submitted this month.

The Mayor described the tax proposals to be submitted by his administration as "an opportunity for the state to raise its consciousness about its obligations to Boston and other Massachusetts cities."

Mayor White called on city officials and state Legislators to "go public with every available resource to persuade the state leadership the property tax reform must come in 1978."

He said his administration stands ready to work with interested groups such as the League of Women Voters, the Massachusetts League of Cities and Towns, and Fair Share to get property tax reform passed in 1978.

The Mayor cited Boston as having the "most urgent" need for tax reform, but said he will seek to assemble a "statewide constituency" to fight for tax reform.

Boston's plight is this:

— Of the nation's thirty largest cities, Boston is the only one with just one source of taxing power (the property tax).

— Boston's percentage of reliance on the property tax (61 percent) is higher than any other city and more than twice that of New York City.

— Boston proper is small, compared to its suburbs. It has only 18 percent of metropolitan land area, less than any other major city.

— Fifty-eight percent of that available area's assessed valuation is tax-exempt.

Mayor White is seeking alternative sources to supplement the property tax after inaction or rejection of some elements of his 1977 tax package. Out of $140 million sought from the state in alternative tax revenues in 1977, Boston received only $750,000. Many of the proposals from last year's package will be resubmitted for 1978.

Two proposals advanced by the White Administration are:

— To have the state government pick up 100 percent of all MBTA express (read "commuter") line-operating costs, saving cities and towns in the MBTA district $50 million. Boston's savings would be $21 million.

— To take one percent of the state's meal tax revenues and return those revenues to the state's cities and towns.

Mayor White's tax package for 1978 seeks $81.5 million in tax relief for Boston, including:

— A revenue collection package which would give the required state approval for local, revenue-collection, improvement programs.

A Revenue Diversification Program which would give local governments alternative revenue sources to the property tax.

A State Fiscal Responsibility Package which would provide for the state to repay the cities for state-mandated costs.

Under Revenue Collection, the White administration seeks to:

Expedite collection of taxes on delinquent properties by enabling cities to acquire cash payments instead of going through lengthy foreclosure processes.

— Make foreclosure procedures less burdensome.

Give the city tax collector the power to put liens on all assets of a tax delinquent, not just the delinquent property.

Withhold certificates of occupancy on commercial properties until taxes have been paid.

— Rescind a law passed last year which exempts individuals in a trust from tax liability claims against the trust.

— Establish a Parking Violations Bureau to centralize the functions of handling parking violations now shared by fourteen agencies.

Under Revenue Diversification, the city seeks to:

— Levy a parking excise on downtown parking garages.

— Raise the state excise tax on hotel and motel rooms by 1 percent, with funds to be channeled to cities and towns.

Under State Fiscal Responsibility legislation, the city seeks to:

— Channel half of tax revenue surpluses realized by the state government to the cities and towns, starting in 1979. Mayor White stressed that state revenues have increased 33 percent since 1975, about $700 million.

— Tax non-public facilities of MassPort, such as motels and restaurants at Logan Airport, which do not now pay taxes like their counterparts elsewhere in Boston.

— Have the state repay Boston $8.7 million in overdue state assistance for urban renewal projects.

VACATION LEAVE - 1976

To: Department Heads.

From: John E. Murphy, Jr.

Because of the fiscal situation during FY1976-77, managerial employees were not allowed to select the vacation leave buy-back option for that year. The Management Development Council has called to my attention several inequities resulting from this decision.

Therefore, in accordance with Article V, section 6 of the Management Development and Compensation Plan, approval will be granted for the unused vacation carried over and still unused for 1976.

Effective immediately, employees may submit the attached form with department heads' approval, to the Personnel Division, Frank Holbrook, Room 612, City Hall, prior to payment. No employee shall receive vacation buy-back until these forms have been reviewed and approved by the Supervisor of Personnel.

If you have any questions concerning this matter, please call Frank Holbrook at 725-3366.

JOHN E. MURPHY, JR.,
Supervisor of Personnel.

Boston Plan . . .

Cost: One Little City Hall Person, $12,000.

Source: City of Boston funds.

In addition the cabinet may receive a budget of $50,000 to $100,000 of city, operating funds to use for cooperative ventures between departments or to augment normal city services. Better management of changes (e.g., vacant lot maintenance following demolition) and quick response to problems (e.g., vandalism) will be facilitated by this neighborhood-level, decision-making group.

c. Phase II Marketing Mainline

Goal: To strengthen the existing market for Cleary Square businesses, while laying the groundwork for eventual market expansion.

Time frame: January 1, 1978, to July 1, 1979.

(a) Traffic Improvements

Bypass routes will be constructed to separate local Cleary Square traffic from long-distance traffic and to provide an additional east-west connection over the Penn Central Mainline. Before the exact locations for these routes can be determined, a traffic engineering feasibility study must be conducted.

Cost: Study, $20,000.

Bridge, $2 million.

Source: Federal Highway Administration (FHA) bridge replacement funds

(b) Enhancement of Walking Market

(i) Elderly Housing Projects

Currently, one elderly housing project is planned for construction within walking distance of Cleary Square, at the Summer Street site, located across the railroad tracks from the square. This proposal recommends that an additional project consisting of 125 units be constructed on the site of the former Allis-Chalmers factory, just south of Cleary Square. These two projects would significantly increase the walking market that is Cleary Square's current mainstay.

Cost: Summer Street Project, $4.5 million. Allis-Chalmers Project, $4.5 million.

MERRY CHRISTMONTH FROM BOSTON

Mayor White boosts holiday commerce with relaxed parking rules: urges Hub shopping.

In an attempt to more effectively compete with suburban malls for the holiday shopping dollar, Mayor Kevin H. White has announced a program designed to bring Christmas shoppers into Boston.

The program, whose theme is "Merry Christmonth from Boston," calls for a concerted, promotion program utilizing newspaper advertising of the city's virtues and the relaxation of parking regulations.

Through January 1, 1978, metered parking in Boston's retail districts will be free on Saturdays and Sundays, as well as from 6:30 p.m. daily. The only areas exempt from this easement of parking rules will be Commonwealth Avenue, Beacon Street, and Marlborough Street.

Mayor White, flanked by Boston Pops Conductor Arthur Fiedler and Red Sox pitching ace Luis Tiant, at the Quincy Marketplace, said, "We are attempting to boost our local merchants, particularly to the suburban areas. Many of the commuters from the suburbs earn their living in our city, but spend their money in suburban shopping malls. We are initiating this program in an attempt to lure some of that city-earned, suburban-spent money back into the city."

The promotional side of the program is a series of newspaper advertisements which began November 28, 1977, with full-page spreads in the Boston Globe and the Boston Herald American.

Sponsored by the city's Economic Development and Industrial Corporation, the ads promote the theme "Merry Christmonth from Boston." The ads, which will continue to appear in the dailies on a smaller scale every Friday through December 23, 1977, will highlight the special advantages of shopping in the unique holiday spirit of downtown Boston.

During the week of December 16, 1977, the excellent holiday shopping resources of the city's many neighneighborhood retail areas will be promoted in the weekly community newspapers.

Mayor White said, "Our efforts on behalf of the local merchants during this holiday season are evidence of our commitment to local businesses: they are vital to the future economic strength of the city. Boston's future, through the Boston Plan and other programs, rests squarely upon public and private sector interests planning and working together for common goals."

NEWBURYPORT HOSTS BOSTON BUSINESSMEN

Newburyport business district revitalization used as model for Boston businessmen.

Vice-Mayor Edward T. Sullivan, on November 28, led a contingent of bankers and businessmen from every Boston neighborhood business district to Newburyport, Massachusetts, as guests of Newburyport Mayor Byran Mathews. The businessmen viewed the results of a major revitalization effort of the Newburyport business area.

Vice-Mayor Sullivan said, "We hope that the ideas generated by today's visit will show Boston neighborhood business merchants what can be done when private industry and the city work closely together."

The tour was sponsored by Boston's Neighborhood Business District Program as part of an educational process for Boston's business community.

The Neighborhood Business District Program (NBDP) was formed in the Spring of 1976 by Mayor Kevin H. White to revitalize the City's Neighborhood Commercial areas. "This is part of an overall effort to stabilize and preserve each neighborhood," said Mayor White. "An interdependent relationship exists between the shopping areas and the residential areas surrounding them."

Since its creation NBDP has been working closely with local merchants to identify and prioritize the problems faced by the neighborhood businesses.

NBDP Director Richard Hogan said, "One of our main goals in the program is to inform businessmen of what can be done to revitalize an area."

The Boston contingent viewed a film depicting the condition of the old Newburyport business district prior to the tour, which dramatically projected the results of the major revitalization.

AMTRAK DECISION: MAJOR DISAPPOINTMENT

Mayor Kevin H. White has expressed grave disappointment at Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams' recent announcement that the government has shelved the $35-million, Amtrak locomotive repair shop Boston had sought for the Readville Yards.

"Our disappointment is twofold," Mayor White said. "Not only do we mourn the loss of some 500 to 750 badly needed, blue-collar jobs, but we have grave doubts about the future of efficient rail service in the Northeast Corridor with Mr. Adams' decision to build small repair facilities at various points along the line rather than one equipped to fully service the fleet," he said.

"Obviously, however, the decision was his to make, and was made on the basis of economic factors beyond our control," Mayor White added. "We remain convinced that we made the best presentation possible and I would like to thank the Massachusetts Congressional delegation, Governor Dukakis, Secretary of Transportation Fred Salvucci, and all those who worked to buttress our case and bring the facility to Boston."

The Mayor wished to reassure the Hyde Park and Readville communities that Secretary Adams' decision would not mean shunting aside all plans for development of the Readville Yards site.

John Drew, director of the Mayor's Office of Federal Relations, supported the Mayor and said that his staff would begin work immediately on alternative plans for the area.

"The Readville Yards lay in an area already zoned for industrial use," Mr. Drew said. "Transportation links to and from the site are excellent and the area is ripe for industrial development," he added.

"Our goal for the site has not changed," Director Drew continued. "We will work to attract industry and jobs to the site over the next five years, as part of the Boston Plan. Mr. Adams' decision is a disappointment, but far from a major setback," he concluded.

NEW TOUR PROGRAM AT CITY HALL

The focal point of a new and free educational tour program of Boston's architecturally acclaimed City Hall includes its departments and systems which make government work, according to Mayor White's Office of Cultural Affairs, the sponsoring organization.

Since the building was dedicated in February, 1969, architectural tours concerned with the dramatic and unique aspects of the massive concrete and brick building have been conducted.

Now, however, to accommodate an audience with more diversified interest—especially school students—a new program has been created which highlights many of the departments and other aspects of city government which contribute to the management of Boston. These include:

- a visit to the Election Department to learn how to register to vote and the operation of a voting machine;

- a student-run, mock Council session held in the City Hall Council Chamber which will allow students to discuss and pass their own laws;

- a visit to the Weights and Measures Division where students can view and weigh themselves on the huge warehouse scale;

- visits to some other city departments including the City Clerk's Office, Traffic and Parking, and the Boston Redevelopment Authority with an emphasis on how to use the offered services;

- a tour of Back Bay-Beacon Hill Little City Hall;

- a brief visit (for small groups only) to the City Hall Control Room with an explanation of the computerization of the building;

- and on Wednesday, a visit to the Council Chamber while the nine-member council is in session.

Additionally, on the third Friday of each month at noon, there will be poetry reading and a musical performance in the Main Gallery. Included in the tour also is a brief history of many of the surrounding buildings, including the Old State House, Faneuil Hall, Quincy Market, and the Old North Church.

Tours will be conducted on the hour from 10 A.M., through 3 P.M., Mondays through Fridays. While reservations are not mandatory, it is recommended that interested groups contact Ms. Deborah Burke, tour director of the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs, at 742-4528.

PWD PREPARED FOR WINTER EMERGENCIES

Public Works Commissioner Joseph F. Casazza has announced that the city's snow emergency center, which coordinates the activities of several municipal departments, is ready to move into operation with the first major snowfall of the season.

Mr. Casazza urged residents who require assistance or want to register a complaint during a snow emergency not to call the district offices of the Public Works Department. Those telephones will be answered by a recording and the caller will be advised to dial the snow emergency center at 725-3050.

The center, located in Room 113 on the first floor of City Hall, goes into operation when conditions warrant.

Telephone calls to the center for assistance or complaint will be channeled to the proper municipal department or public utility. The center operates around-the-clock for the duration of a snow emergency. The central number, 725-3050, serves to prevent plugging of switchboards of the operating departments, which on occasion, have been unable to function properly because of the flood of incoming calls, the commissioner said.

Under the immediate direction of Administrative Assistant Joseph P. Sances, the center is staffed by a minimum of twenty-three persons on two, twelve-hour shifts. The staff includes representatives of the Traffic and Parking, Fire, Police, and Public Works Departments, and MBTA. In addition, representatives of other city departments, as well as the utility companies, are on call.

As calls are received in the center, requests for emergency assistance or complaints are relayed to the appropriate department representative or Public Works Department yard by teletypewriter, short-wave radio, or telephone hot line.

The Public Works Department has ready eighty salt spreaders and 447 heavy-duty trucks (78 city-owned and 369 contractor-owned), for plowing. Each plow will be assigned a specific route. If an emergency arises, such as need for an ambulance, a call to the center will get immediate action.

IMPROVEMENTS SET FOR INDEPENDENCE SQUARE

Mayor Kevin H. White today announced that the city's Parks and Recreation Department has begun to make improvements to Independence Square Park in South Boston.

Mayor White said, "Independence Square is an important part of South Boston. It is the only centrally located park in the neighborhood. The improvements to the park will insure the residents in the area of a good, easily accessible, recreation area."

The design calls for the planting of twenty-five new trees, installation of a flagpole, new walk pavements, and other miscellaneous improvements.

When the improvements are complete, twenty-nine new Boston light poles will be installed in the park. The Boston light pole is a historic replica from colonial Boston.

The area around Independence Square is one of the oldest in Boston. The park itself was beginning to show the signs of age. Neighborhood residents had expressed a strong interest in seeing the park restored.

The final design for the improvements to the park represents a joint effort of city and neighborhood people working together. Meetings were held between the designers, Schoen Field Associates of Boston, and community residents.

Thomas Irwin, manager of South Boston Little City Hall, said, "The two groups reached compromise."

The total cost of the improvements are $129,360. That will be paid for from the Local Public Works Program's Economic Development Administration Grant Project.

The contractor is Solimando Construction Company, Inc., 1094 Blue Hill Avenue, Milton, Mass.

1978 TAX PACKAGE SPECIFICS DETAILED

Citing the steps Boston has taken over the past year to improve its financial standing, Deputy Mayor for Fiscal Affairs James V. Young detailed the specifics of the city's $80-million, legislative, tax package which was filed with the Legislature last week.

Deputy Mayor Young noted that Boston, over the past year, has cut personnel, tightened budget controls, increased tax collections, and reorganized the sewer and water tax collection system to improve the city's financial rating.

"Those initiatives have succeeded in holding the tax rate steady this year and improving our standing in the bond markets as reflected by the response to our latest offering," he said.

But, Mr. Young said that the property tax, the only taxing authority the city has, is regressive and inadequate to pay for state-mandated programs without higher levels of state aid. He said that the city's tax package seeks to increase levels of state aid to the city while asking the state to share more of the costs of mandated programs.

Last year, Mayor White's legislative package sought alternative revenue resources totaling $140 million. Boston won only $750,000 of that proposal. Many of last year's proposals will be resubmitted to the Legislature this year because, according to Deputy Mayor Young, "the state has more money this year."

This year, Mayor White's legislative tax package seeks $81.5 million in tax relief for Boston, including:

— State assumption of 100 percent of all MBTA express line, operating costs, saving Boston $21 million.

— A Revenue Collection Package which would give the city state approval for local revenue collection improvement programs. That package would, among other things, expedite the collection of delinquent property tax.

— A Revenue Diversification Program which would give local governments alternative revenue sources to the property tax. That program, among other things, seeks parking excise tax on downtown parking garages.

— A State Fiscal Responsibility Package which would provide the state to repay cities for state-mandated costs. That would require the state, among other things, to repay Boston $8.7 million in overdue state assistance for urban renewal projects.

The City of Boston provides 22 percent of the yearly gross product of Massachusetts. The Hub is home to 11 percent of the state's population, but boasts only 6 percent of the state's taxable land to support that population and product.

Of the nation's thirty largest cities, Boston is the only one with just one source of taxing power (the property tax), and the city's reliance on that tax (61 percent) is higher than any other city.

Boston, which has only 18 percent of metropolitan land area, is saddled with a whopping 58 percent of its available assessed valuation area as tax exempt.

HUB IMPRESSES WASHINGTON: WE'RE HAPPY

Washington is impressed, Jimmy is impressed, and the New York Daily News is impressed. In its December 5 feature, "Boston: Hub of City Revival, Lesson for N.Y.," the Daily News writes, "New York may be the Big Apple, but Boston these days is the apple of federal eyes in Washington." Kevin White's Boston Plan is the center of attention not only in Washington but all over the country. "Look at the Boston Plan," says Altman, a New Yorker who presides over the federal loan program for New York. "It tells everything.

"Impressed means money — who will get what Uncle Jimmy has for economic development, jobs, and housing. Federal officials point to Boston and Detroit more than they do to New York or even the menacing Sun Belt because these two cities, as one top official puts it, 'have their act together.'" The Daily News goes on to say, "Here in Beantown the act has been together for some time under an energetic mayor, Kevin White. Another federal official says New York hasn't reached this stage because it hasn't got its act together. It's one of several lessons New York can draw from the new hurrah of Boston."

Some of the positive revitalizations which have grown out of the Mayor's Boston Plan and focused by the Daily News include the Quincy Market, described by the News as "an urban phenomenon . . . that booms with customers and yields more than $2 million a year in revenue to government;" the old Prince macaroni factory which has been turned into condominiums; warehouses rehabilitated into housing and restaurants, and a "trellis-covered, 'walk to the sea' which attracts visitors, and the Boston waterfront has been recycled. At night, suburbanites flock in. So do tourists, and something called the back-to-the-city movement is under way."

The News describes the Boston Plan and its objectives, "It involves uplifting four crucial neighborhoods, further recycling downtown and in the process, creating more jobs. Heavy tax abatements are already luring some new industry." "These cities," says Assistant Treasury Secretary Roger Altman speaking of Boston and several others told the Daily News, "have come in with specific plans. Specific, not a series of statements. They've got the local, private sector involved. They say, 'We are going to do this, and here are the projects.' The federal government would be a true partner." According to the News, "What impresses Washington is that the business community is involved. Business, notably up to $800 million in redoing Boston, with Uncle Jimmy coming in with $200 million — Boston's rating is four parts private money to one part federal."

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S DAY HOLIDAYS

To All Department Heads.

Collective bargaining agreements between the city and unions representing a majority of city employees provide that if an employee, in the course of his/her regular service, is required to work on a holiday, or if a holiday falls on an employee's regular day off, the employee "shall receive, in addition to his/her regular compensation, either an additional day off or an additional day's pay on a straight-time basis."

Both Christmas Day (December 25, 1977) and New Year's Day (January 1, 1978) fall on Sunday. For this reason the Hall will be officially closed on Monday, December 26, 1977, and Monday, January 2, 1978.

If the department is unable to allow above-mentioned employees time off during the holiday weeks due to staffing needs, nature of work — "continuous operation," etc., time off must be given within thirty (30) days of the holiday.

VICTORY GARDENS EXPANSION SET FOR '78

At a meeting recently in Roslindale of the Southwest Garden Club, Susan Child, project director, of the Mayor's REVIVAL program of Victory Garden site improvements, announced that the club's Cummins Highway acreage is to be doubled during 1978. A decision made by the Mayor's Office of Community Development to fund improvements to adjacent land will expand the present garden site to 1½ acres, making Southwest the largest of the thirty-five city-funded REVIVAL Victory Gardens now situated in ten of Boston's neighborhoods.

According to Susan Child, a factor in the decision to double the size of the Southwest Garden was its successful operation. "Good organization and coordination are vital to a project of this type," says Ms. Child. "Under the administration of Club President Forrest Hallet there has been tangible evidence of the careful planning and direction that lead to maximum usage of space, increased food production for local residents, and the creation of a visually attractive area. These are pluses for everybody: the neighborhood, its residents, and the city as a whole. It is the Mayor's goal to encourage and support such beneficial activity."

Lawrence Perry also received praise from Project Director Child for his help in initially organizing the Roslindale community to participate in the REVIVAL program. Perry is director of Massachusetts Transition, a drug counseling center adjoining the Southwest Garden's original acreage.

The Southwest Garden Club was organized in 1976 and is one of the largest and most active of the Mayor's citywide REVIVAL program, which funds improvements to vacant city-owned land for useful social and economic purposes. Typical city-funded Victory Garden improvements are site excavation, grading, loaming, fencing, and water.

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED FOR NUT ISLAND PLANT

MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker, on November 25, announced that after months of negotiations, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has granted the MDC permission to begin Step One, facilities planning for the upgrading of primary treatment at Nut Island Sewerage Treatment Plant as well as a review of the first-step planning for the entire southern MDC sewerage district. The Step One, planning process entails the detailing of alternatives, the preparation of environmental assessments, and the establishing of design criteria.

In making the announcement, Commissioner Snedeker said, "This is an important and dramatic breakthrough and its impact should not be underestimated. The problems associated with the Nut Island Plant are well documented. In brief, the plant is twenty-five years old, treatment does not meet current criteria, and average flows exceed design capacity."

The Commissioner continued, "The MDC has made a serious effort to improve the facility by spending over one million dollars in remedial repairs. However, the plain fact is that only a complete reconstruction of the Nut Island facility will allow the plant to achieve adequate capacity, reliable performance, and improved water quality.

"By allowing us to begin Step One planning simultaneously with the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) now being prepared, the EPA and the MDC will save precious months in selecting qualified consultants and soliciting proposals," Mr. Snedeker added.

"The MDC will continue negotiations with the EPA to get similar action as regards other EISs now being prepared. If this simultaneous effort of EIS preparation and first-step planning can be accomplished on the total $850 million harbor cleanup, the realization of a clean Boston Harbor and Charles River may be years closer than anyone ever imagined," the Commissioner concluded.

The anticipated total for the upgrading of primary treatment at Nut Island is $50,000,000. The first step will cost $1,000,000 with 75 percent coming from the federal government, 15 percent from the state, and 10 percent from the MDC.

GOVERNOR URGED TO SIGN FIRE INSURANCE SETTLEMENT BILL

Mayor Kevin H. White, on December 5, urged Governor Dukakis to sign a bill which requires insurance companies to settle delinquent tax bills with municipalities on property destroyed by fire before settling with the claimant.

The legislation, House Bill 6705, filed last December by state Representative Norman Weinberg (D-Brighton), does not cover owner-occupied dwellings of four families or smaller.

Said Mayor White, "When a building is lost to fire, the city often suffers the loss of back taxes and demolition liens owed on the building. Under this proposed legislation, the city will have first claim on all insurance settlements between the insurer and the building owner, enabling the city to recover those delinquent taxes."

Assistant Tax Collector Newell Cook estimates that Boston has lost over $5 million in back taxes in the last five years to fire.

Said Mayor White, "We are hopeful that, in addition to helping the city recover its tax money from fire-ravaged property, we may also stem the rising incidence of suspicious fires in the city by making arson unprofitable. Under this legislation, taking back taxes off the top of any insurance settlement, 'fire for hire' becomes a far less attractive proposition."

The Boston Fire Department Arson Squad investigates from 1,000 to 1,200 fires classified as undetermined, incendiary, or suspicious each year.

Last month, Mayor White initiated an Arson Alert Program in Boston, establishing a "hot line" for those persons having information about suspicious fires. He also announced a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of arsonists and added more manpower from the Police Department and the Suffolk County District Attorney's office to the arson squad.

BOSTON PLAN RECEIVES FIRST GRANT

Mayor Kevin H. White, on December 6, announced the first federal investment in the Boston Plan—a $1.5-million. Department of Labor grant for the establishment of a Skill Training Improvement Program (STIP). The program will provide high-skill training in marine, machine, and metal trades for economically disadvantaged Boston residents throughout the city.

Expressing his approval over the award of the grant Mayor White said, "the Skills Training Improvement Program marks the first step in realizing our goal of significantly reducing unemployment in the city, particularly among minorities."

In a joint news conference held at City Hall by Charles M. Atkins, Administrator, Employment and Economic Policy Administration, and John Drew, Director of Federal Relations, the two outlined the objectives of the new training program and its relationship to the Boston Plan.

"When the Mayor identified jobs as a top priority of his administration, we looked at the nature of unemployment in Boston and came up with a plan which specifically addressed these problems," said Mr. Atkins.

Mr. Atkins said STIP "is the prototype of the kind of program we envisioned when we put together the Boston Plan. By looking at the needs of our residents, and then identifying the industries in which there is a demand, STIP should provide the means to coordinate job training with the realities of the Boston job market."

John Drew was very encouraged by the awarding of the grant. "We have every reason to believe that Washington is receptive to the Boston Plan," he said.

"The Boston Marine Industrial Park Job Center is an example of what can happen when there is a coordinated effort," Mr. Atkins pointed out. "The center is being developed through the use of funds from CETA 112, the Economic Development Administration, and STIP.

We worked closely with the marine industry and unions in developing the program. We will now be in a position to design courses, specifically tailored to a company's need and with that comes a commitment from them to hire. We have letters of commitment which include Brasswell Shipyards, Inc., Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and General Ship and Engine Works, Inc."

Both Mr. Atkins and Mr. Drew have high expectations for increasing federal investment in Boston. The CETA program, which provides most of the federal funding for jobs and which EEPA administers, is expected to be a major part of the Carter Administration's urban strategy.

"With the increased federal investment it is conceivable that EEPA's budget could go from the present $42 million to $100 million in the next year. Through the Mayor's full commitment to a coordinated program of job development we intend to maximize this federal investment for the benefit of all Boston residents," said Mr. Atkins.

In a very, very, short time (a matter of minutes), a fire fighter tapped me on the shoulder and politely told me, 'move over sir, we will take over now.' They immediately started with the oxygen and heart massage.

I am writing you this letter to inform you of some of the dedicated men you have. The men that were at my house were of that type. I have the names of these men, but the spelling may be wrong: Acting Lieutenant Del Signore, Fire Fighters Flynn, Stokinger, Petrozziello, and Cheatham.

The final result was that my wife did not make it. It was her time to go. Your men did everything humanly possible for her at that time. I cannot express my gratitude. You might say that what your men did was in the line of duty. I think they did above and beyond that. I wish you could personally inform them of what a terrific job they are doing. I know it will mean something to get a pat on the back. They deserve it.

ARTHUR O. FROEMPTER AND FAMILY.

Commissioner's Memorandum No. 77-124
To: All Bureaus, Divisions, Districts, Offices, Sections, and Units.

Copies to: All Superintendents, Deputy Superintendents, and Directors.

The Training and Education Division is currently seeking patrol officers and sergeants to participate in its Field Training Program. Every effort is being made to encourage highly motivated police officers to become field training officers and sergeants to become field training supervisors. These officers should possess considerable department experience, exhibit leadership traits and superior skills in both interpersonal relationships and technical competence. Above all, they must have a positive attitude toward the importance of continuous, and well supervised field training.

The Field Training Officers, once selected and trained, will be responsible for the training of the probationary officers placed with them. Assigned partners are encouraged to participate. Squad, sector, and working assignments will not be affected. The recruit's schedule will be adapted to that of the field training officers.

The field training supervisor will monitor the performance of all recruits and maintain the integrity of the Field Training Program. He will consult with the field training officers in evaluating recruit progress. At regular intervals, the field training supervisor will assess the recruits' performance and forward them to the director of training and education.

All training officers must attend a seminar designed to familiarize them with the methods and goals of the recruit program and to define the role of field trainers and their relationship to recruit training.

Also, to review some technical police subjects. This may require some overtime, if necessary.

The purpose of the Field Training Program is to provide a meaningful link between the academy and the street. By drawing upon the considerable skill and talents of the department's membership it is expected that the best possible training can be provided.

Finally, a letter of merit will be submitted to the Personnel Division by the office of the Police Commissioner to be included in the field training officers personnel file.

Interested officers are encouraged to submit a letter of interest to Deputy Superintendent Paul E. Johnson at the Police Academy, no later than 5 P.M., Friday, December 9, 1977. Any questions should be directed to Sgt. Donald Devine at the Police Academy, 247-4416.

THE BOSTON PLAN: ITS PURPOSE

Part 3

II. RESIDENTIAL CONFIDENCE: HYDE PARK

A. Major Issues

Since the condition of housing is closely linked to residents' confidence in an area, a clear public policy regarding the Hyde Park housing stock is an integral part of this proposal. When residents lose the feeling that their neighborhood is a good place to live, they become less willing to invest in home improvements. In addition, a decreased income level, such as that associated with Hyde Park's high percentage of unemployed and retired persons, reduces residents' capacity to reinvest in their homes. The resultant deferring of maintenance and repair activities leads to deterioration of the neighborhood housing stock, which is perceived by residents as further evidence of the inevitability of change for the worse.

The Hyde Park housing stock exhibits a number of assets which must be preserved and strengthened. As previously described in the Boston Plan, Hyde Park contains 10,735 dwelling units, 58% of which are owner-occupied. Many inhabitants are long-term, with 65% having lived in the same house for more than five years. In contrast to the older, denser neighborhoods closer to the center of the city, single-family homes, with yards and well-kept gardens, predominate. While a few farmhouses are located on area hills, and shingled Victorian homes are scattered throughout Cleary Square, most of Hyde Park's housing was built in this century, with 16% having been built since 1960. Most clearly in contrast to other Boston neighborhoods, in fact, is the large number of modest, Cape-style homes constructed in the 1950s and 1960s. These structures provide Hyde Park with the asset of easily maintained, good-condition housing, priced within the reach of many young families. The median price on a sample of typical Hyde Park housing sale in 1976 was $28,000, substantially lower than that of comparable structures in nearby suburbs.

In addition, indicators available to the city show that investment patterns and housing stock condition in Hyde Park have remained relatively stable over the past several years. A close study of housing sales in 1976 in one section of the neighborhood found no unusual increase in turnover, and a steady, moderate increase in sales values (these values have not risen at the same rate as has the metropolitan average, however). A 1973 survey showed 11% of the housing in need of repairs costing more than $1,000, well below the city rate of 30%.

Yet, there are substantial reasons for concern over the Hyde Park housing stock:

(1) Neighborhood Image

Most persons familiar with Hyde Park say that the residents' confidence in the future of the neighborhood is waning, that people who can afford to move out have done so, and that many would move out if they could. Certainly, experience with school desegregation and busing has fed a sense of discouragement about the area, as have evidences of economic decline such as vacant storefronts and empty industrial buildings. Improvement of the neighborhood's "image," as perceived by itself and others, is crucial to residents' confidence in the area and willingness to invest in home improvements.

(2) Availability of Funds for Home Improvements

While, as mentioned above, a 1973 survey showed only 11% of the Hyde Park housing stock in need of repairs costing more than $1,000, deterioration was significant enough to warrant, in 1974, the initiation in the area of a Housing Improvement Program (HIP). Since that time approximately 1,120 homeowners have utilized this program; an estimated 80% of home improvement activities have been financed by property-owners' savings, and the average rebate, under the 20% rebate on total investment plan, has been $440. The opening of a HIP office in Cleary Square last year, and the beginning of a 50% rebate program for the elderly in July, 1977, show signs of further increasing residents' rate of participation in the HIP.

Yet to date, only 11% of the 30% of all neighborhood structures targeted for improvement under the program have been rehabilitated, and overall participation in the program is somewhat lower than in the adjacent neighborhoods of Roslindale and West Roxbury. Residents' investment in home maintenance and repair has been deterred by the level of income problems affecting Hyde Park's unemployed and retired populations. The tendency of inhabitants to utilize savings to finance improvements and the unavailability of easily-obtainable bank financing when it is desired have also slowed home improvement investments. Finally, additional funding for the Housing Improvement Program is needed to uphold a standard of maintenance more easily met in more affluent times.

(3) Changing Age Structure of the Community

The changing age structure of the community also suggests reasons for concern about the housing stock. The average age of heads of household is increasing. Twenty-eight percent of the households are headed by persons over the age of 65, and the number of single-person households is increasing. While it is difficult to find current data on the age of property-owners, as distinct from renters, widespread homeownership in Hyde Park makes it reasonable to assume that their age characteristics resemble those of the community as a whole. This age bulge means that large numbers of houses will be offered for sale in the next few years as their retired owners seek cheaper or more easily maintained housing. The possibility of substantial turnover in homeowners suggests the need for a coordinated program to maintain the physical condition of the stock and the characteristics of a desirable residential area.

(4) Demand for Elderly Housing/Deterioration of Public Housing Project

Demand for elderly housing in Hyde Park well exceeds current and projected supply of such units. About 22% of the neighborhood's residents over the age of 55 are enrolled on waiting lists for nearby public housing.

The Fairmount public housing project, a 302-unit, wood-and-brick family development built in 1952 on the city line near Milton, has visible external deterioration and maintenance problems.

To deal with these concerns, this proposal for Hyde Park aims to encourage the maintenance of property through steady private reinvestment by:

- Encouraging present homeowner investment in housing stock to maintain or upgrade its quality.
- Encouraging long-term residents to stay in their homes as long as financially and physically possible. With an extended period of self-sufficiency for residents in existing structures the sudden demand for more costly subsidized housing can be reduced.
- Encouraging a strong demand for homes coming on the market.
- Supporting replacement buyers' interest in and capacity for home maintenance.
- Building replacement housing for the elderly, choosing sites which reinforce other community goals and concerns, e.g., reinforcement of the commercial area. Encouraging design which allows provision of support services, in order to extend self-sufficiency in elderly housing.
- Maintaining city services and residential amenities which support the neighborhood's desirable characteristics.

To achieve these goals, the Hyde Park proposal recommends image improvement activities and the extension of financial and technical assistance programs, built on existing city programs and neighborhood staff, to deal with the particular concerns identified. In addition, new programs, such as energy conservation programs, are suggested to alleviate some of the costs of homeownership, thereby freeing money for property-owner reinvestments.

B. Neighborhood Marketing/Image Improvement Program

This plan recommends that efforts be made in conjunction with neighborhood groups now engaged in "image improvement" to support and encourage activities that will reaffirm the positive qualities of Hyde Park. Some of these activities would focus on the residents' knowledge of their neighborhood and its resources; others would seek to convey to the potential home buyer that Hyde Park is a good area in which to live.

Through an Innovative Projects Grant from HUD, the Parkman Center for Urban Affairs has worked with city district planning staff assigned to two Boston neighborhoods to focus on the replacement process as a key element of area housing markets. Working closely with area residents, this project team has established ongoing contact with real estate brokers, bankers, and appraisers; a major goal of this contact has been to counter negative images of the city neighborhoods by establishing a suburban-city referral network and by generally increasing the circulation of information about the areas. Simultaneously, the project team, spurred by residents' interest, has produced public information for the media to increase general awareness of the good qualities of the neighborhoods.

This proposal suggests that the above-described program be similarly applied to the Hyde Park neighborhood. The specific project activities would be defined by the groups and individuals participating in the process of their development. Themes about Hyde Park's values and assets will be drawn from the residents' perceptions and beliefs. Activities might include:

- Publications for distribution in the community, to the media, and through real estate channels about the neighborhood's history, physical assets, and resources.

- Neighborhood events such as street fairs, sponsored by neighborhood associations. Many of these associations are new and "getting to know the neighbors" is an integral part of their activities.
- A "welcome function" to introduce new homeowners to the community and its resources.
- Special events for bankers, brokers, and appraisers that give them first-hand information about the neighborhood. Tours or a presentation could be offered by neighborhood groups.
- Identification of some benefit, possibly with a small cash value, that could be made available to all new homeowners on a one-time only basis (e.g., enough paint for an exterior repainting, free yard work for a period of time from the neighborhood conservation corps).

C. Extension and Strengthening of the Housing Improvement Program

The Housing Improvement Program's current annual allocation of $225,000 does not provide adequate funds for making the improvements required in all the targeted structures. An increase by 50% in this allocation would allow for a speeded-up schedule of rehabilitation activities, making their impact more complete and readily visible. These positive evidences would foster greater resident participation in HIP. In addition, a special financing arrangement should be worked out with the local banks (particularly the key mortgage holders) to guarantee that financing for the HIP loans is easily obtainable by residents.

This proposal recommends that a new extension service be developed in conjunction with the neighborhood image improvement program and prepare materials for use by community residents in welcoming new neighbors; the materials would include information about the community's available housing resources. Such information could be accompanied by a new homeowners seminar series held at the community school or in the municipal building, which would outline the ways to make key improvements in newly-purchased homes. Crucial to the success of these efforts is that the information offered be related to what people want to know, and that the city's presence be low-keyed and supportive of the local groups' efforts.

D. HIP/Technical Assistance for the Elderly

As previously mentioned, an increase of the HIP rebate on investment to 50% is being made for the elderly. This larger rebate should be accompanied by supportive technical assistance in making home improvements. Listings of Hyde Park-based skilled construction/repair workers should be made available to elderly homeowners. Also, HIP workers can utilize various youth employment programs, such as Rent-A-Kid (funded through CETA Title I funds) which offers home and yard maintenance assistance. Labor for certain yard tasks could be provided free-of-charge to Hyde Park residents who find it difficult to perform such maintenance activities.

E. Construction of Elderly Housing

The area demand for elderly housing, well in excess of the current and projected supply, may be slowed through a policy of additional housing aid. Intensifying the city's Commission on the Affairs of the Elderly's current efforts to use outreach workers who encourage full use of available benefits (e.g., Supplemental Security Income and transportation benefits) would complement the above-described housing policy. These efforts would be financed through use of CETA Title VI funds.

While demand for elderly housing may thus be slowed, it is clear that new housing for that population segment is necessary. The 150-unit Summer Street complex, now under design, will be constructed on a site near Cleary Square in 1978. This proposal recommends that at least 300 additional elderly housing units be developed, and that at least half of these units be located on a site near Cleary Square, such as the vacant Allis-Chalmers site. These facilities should house services regularly needed by elderly persons, with particular emphasis on health services which could be managed by the local health unit, such as hypertension checks.

A plan to combine elderly housing with an expanded George White Health Center will be explored for the Allis-Chalmers site. Such a combination could extend the period of self-sufficiency for the elderly apartment-dweller or supply a congregate housing development with supportive health services.

F. Rehabilitation of the Public Housing Project

In contrast to the surrounding well-maintained private homes, Hyde Park's 302-unit Fairmount public housing development exhibits external deterioration and up-keep problems.

A first-phase modernization allocation of $275,000 has been made by the Boston Housing Authority. This proposal recommends continued programming of modernization funds to upgrade the Fairmount development and to minimize its negative impact on the surrounding area. Second-phase modernization should focus on the institution of energy-related improvements; these improvements would be accomplished through a contract with the locally-based energy enterprise described below.

Physical maintenance activities should be sustained and possibly supported by youth work programs. In addition, recreational and other youth-oriented programs should be focused in this area, because of its relatively high concentration of adolescents and its distance from more central facilities.

G. Energy Conservation Program

An energy-saving home improvements program which will encourage and support private conservation activities should be developed for

Boston Plan . . .

Hyde Park. These energy improvements will substantially cut home heating costs and provide residents with eligibility for tax credits.

In conjunction with a similar program planned for Blue Hill Avenue, Hyde Park would be a pilot area for an intensive effort involving the winterization of homes through a vehicle which would capture the job benefits for neighborhood residents. Newly-created, but possibly affiliated with a community-based group, this energy firm would work with the HIP staff to extend the number of energy audits (involve a calculation of the cost and benefits of energy-related home improvements) performed. The firm will then contract with property-owners to carry out winterization activities. Start-up costs for this venture will be funded through use of CETA-supported positions; a mix of jobs will be developed for low-skilled workers and for unemployed or retired skilled tradesmen. A market for the improvements will be "guaranteed" in the initial stages by contracts for work on public projects and through close association with the Housing Improvement Program, which provides rebates for the institution of energy conservation measures. Emphasis would be placed on elements which have a payback in savings of under four years. Analysis demonstrates that it is cost-effective to winterize almost any housing type built prior to 1960; to some extent, such a program will self-select and target areas merged in the older sections of Hyde Park. Yet cost-saving energy improvements can also be instituted in many structures built after 1960. Winterization elements to be emphasized in all structures include insulation for attics, basements, and walls; storm windows, weatherstripping and caulking; boiler tune-ups, installation of solar, gas, or electric hot water heat; solar-panelled siding; and, energy utilization and appliance purchasing patterns.

It is expected that there will be sufficient demand in Hyde Park and other areas to put this enterprise on a self-sustaining basis, and that public assistance will be limited to the first year of operation. Later stages of development could include production of winterization materials, assisted in part by use of low-cost space in an incubator building in the Readville area.

H. An approach to Racial Transition

Allegations of blockbusting in the northeast section of Hyde Park were a focus of community meetings in summer, 1976. Public actions to deal with these allegations were low-key and prompt, involving communication among several levels of government, realtors, and residents. The city followed blockbusting allegations with a close survey of the rate of sale and sale prices in the area, as compared with previous levels. Carried out by the city's district planning staff, the study confirmed the steady modest increase in property values and the apparent replacement of older homeowners by young families with children; no evidence was offered that necessitated public intervention. The present situation is calm, with no known instances of panic selling or illegal real estate practices.

While it is difficult to accurately measure population changes that have occurred in Hyde Park in 1977, available indicators suggest an increase of from less than 1% black population in 1970 to between 5-8% currently. The single- and two-family home area in which this change has occurred provides a good environment for families with young children. Both home maintenance and public services appear to be operating at steady levels.

Boston's earlier experiences with racial transition suggest that the replacement process can be orderly, with sellers retaining their equity and buyers getting a good value with promise of increase. Yet the unpredictable consequences of major intervention in the transition process encourage the city to: (1) focus its involvement in a changing area such as Hyde Park on those types of housing assistance that support home maintenance; and (2) attempt to maintain a good or above-average level of services. The capacity to monitor change in order to intervene in a low-key fashion where there are signs of irregular housing activity is important. This capacity is maintained through the community-based Little City Hall and Housing Improvement Program.

NEW ARENA? LOOKING GOOD!

Mayor White announces agreement in coliseum negotiations — seeks aid of governor, legislature in passing coliseum bill.

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced Boston's prospects for a new sports coliseum have been heightened by the agreement of the Boston Celtics, Boston Bruins and Boston Lobsters to terms of occupancy for a new facility.

Mayor White said the "persistence and persuasion" of a task force headed by developer Mortimer Zuckerman of Boston Urban Associates has "paved the way for a new sports coliseum that would benefit the entire region without burdening Boston taxpayers."

The Mayor said he will seek the support of Governor Michael Dukakis and the legislative leadership for a bill proposing an authority to build, own and operate the facility, which would seat 18,000 and cost approximately $35 million.

He praised the task force, formed in early July, for its role in "helping Boston keep its major league sports teams in the core city. This coliseum would give Boston a tremendous psychological lift."

Serving on the Mayor's task force with Zuckerman were William Powell, President of the Boston-based Kendall Co., and George E. Phalen, Executive Vice President of the First National Bank of Boston.

"I gave this group a free hand to come up with a financially feasible coliseum within six months," the Mayor said, "and they have exceeded my expectations."

"They have brought back a proposal which would provide a first-class sports facility and convention center for the New England region, but would not impose a tax liability on Boston. It would pay for itself."

The coliseum authority, under the proposed legislation, must raise revenues sufficient to cover debt service and provide Boston with annual in-lieu-of-taxes payments.

The Mayor credited Zuckerman for negotiating the financial package and prodding the prospective tenants toward leasing arrangements. The Bruins and Lobsters have approved 15-year leases. The Celtics have approved a 10-year lease.

Zuckerman said his approach "was to persuade the parties involved that their futures were best protected by moving ahead with plans for a new facility."

He said the project has received a favorable report from an independent financial study by Economic Research Associates.

BOSTONIANS TRAINED IN NEW CITY JOBS PROGRAMS

Sixty graduates of the Boston Marine Industrial Park job training center participated in commencement exercises Wednesday evening, November 30, at Wentworth Institute.

Mayor Kevin H. White, whose office of Economic Development was closely involved with the establishment of the Center, congratulated the students on their graduation and expressed his support of the EDIC job training center.

"Jobs are a vital part of the future economic viability of Boston. But equally important is the need for well-trained and motivated young people to fill these jobs. This commencement exercise is proof in itself that Boston is well on its way to filling both needs."

Seventy-five percent of the graduates already have been placed in blue collar jobs in the Boston area. The average hourly wage for the newcomers to the industrial job market is between $3.50 and $4.00 an hour.

Forty-three of the students have already completed the six-month program. Another seventeen have another two weeks of study. The students are taught English, math, drafting, and technical communications, in addition to mechanical skills.

The Back Bay/West End graduates were Robert Cornell (machine tool operation), Lennox Charles (welding), Hoi Sang Chan and Shun Sang Lai (industrial building maintenance).

The job training center is currently funded by a $600,000 annual grant from the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) and is conducted by the Economic Development and Industrial Corporation of Boston and by Wentworth Institute.

Michael Westgate, EDIC executive director, said that the city has applied for an additional grant of $1.5 million in funds from the Skills Training Improvement Program (STIP) of the U.S. Department of Labor.

"We are fulfilling our mandate," Westgate said. "We are not only developing new blue collar jobs in Boston, we are training young people to fill them. The industrial park has an exciting future and we want Boston's young people to be a part of that future."

Carl S. Swanson of Wentworth presented each of the graduates with a diploma. And instead of the traditional mortar board worn by graduates, Westgate and Maurice Daly, director of the job training center, presented each of the students with a yellow hard hat.

The hard hats are emblazoned with EDIC's new slogan, JOB, which stands for Job Opportunities in Boston.

In remarks prepared for the ceremony, Westgate said:

"All of us consider this an important day in your lives. For many of you, this will be the only formal graduation ceremony in which you will participate. You have acquired valuable skills. We want tonight to be special for you, just as it is a special occasion for all of Boston's people."

One of the graduates, Miss Dorothy Maffeo of South Boston, has found a job as a welder at E. C. Hillard Co. Another graduate, Ronald Harr of Brighton, also a welder, is working at Walsh Brothers Construction.

"These two students are examples of our partial success," Westgate said. "We will consider ourselves completely successful when Boston residents are able to find jobs in Boston — and have the skills and training necessary to fill them."

"T" INITIATES CHINESE MAP

The Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority has introduced a unique Chinese rapid transit map card designed to make it easier for Chinese-speaking residents of the Greater Boston area to use the (T). The map shows the Red, Orange, Green, and Blue lines as well as helpful telephone numbers and basic fare information, written in Chinese characters.

The idea for the map originated last fall with Peter Chan, Manager of the Chinatown Little City Hall. According to Chan, "There are many residents of the Chinese community, especially some of our older citizens, who do not speak English and have difficulty using public transportation. We felt that a Chinese map would be of great benefit to these people."

MBTA Chairman Robert R. Kiley commended Chan in a recent ceremony held at The Quincy School at 34 Oak Street in Boston's Chinatown-South Cove area. Kiley said, "It's particularly important to make the public transportation system understandable to those who don't speak English. Frequently they are people who do not yet have a license to drive and who live in the city because it is easy to get around without a car by using public transportation."

Harron Ellenson, Director of the MBTA's Community Affairs and Marketing Department, said, "We felt the map was a terrific idea, and decided to go ahead with the project. The Chinese map is the first of what we hope will be a series of special maps designed to aid other non-English-speaking groups within the Boston area."

Project Manager for the Chinese map was Charles Williams of the MBTA's Advertising and Promotion section, who worked closely with Chan and others in its design and development.

The wallet-size, fold-over 2½" x 3½" map has a four-color rapid transit map inside with all stations and other information listed in Chinese. The front cover bears the circle (T) logo and Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority, 50 High Street, Boston. On the back cover are helpful telephone numbers such as Little City Hall, MBTA Customer Services, MBTA Senior Citizens, Police, Fire, and basic fare information.

The new Chinese (T) maps will be available at the Chinatown Little City Hall as well as businesses and other locations throughout the Chinatown area.

The Registry of Motor Vehicles has begun a photo-ID card program for residents of Massachusetts who do not possess a valid driver's license. Effective January 1, and beginning January 3, identification cards similar in size and appearance to a driver's license will be available to persons eighteen and older.

"The first step to getting an ID card is to obtain an application from any Registry office or Police Station," explained Registrar Alan Mackey. "Complete instructions will be printed on the back of the application," he added, and continued, saying that the applicant will bring the completed form, and a five-dollar fee, to any Registry office where a card will be issued. "It is a walk-in system and no appointment is needed," he said.

Mackey noted that the ID card will expire on the holder's birthday four years after it is issued. He also said that the holder must notify the Registry within 30 days after a change of address, and that the card must be surrendered to the Registry if the holder receives a driver's license before the expiration date.

"The ID program is designed to help unlicensed persons when cashing a check or, for that matter, when transacting any business that requires proof of identity," he concluded.

EXTRAORDINARY STEP-RATE ADVANCE UNDER COMPENSATION PLAN FOR EMPLOYEES OF SUFFOLK COUNTY.

SUPERIOR COURT
Civil Business

JOHN E. MURPHY, JR.,
Supervisor of Personnel.

DEAR MR. MURPHY:

Effective Wednesday, August 31, 1977, Josephine J. Sanfilippo, was appointed to the position of Clerk R-2 in this office, at a salary of $130.05 per week.

Prior to such appointment Mrs. Sanfilippo was employed in a clerical clerk capacity by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Division of Employment Security, from April 15, 1947, through April 11, 1951, and from April 1, 1974, until her appointment in this office.

Because of her prior experience and outstanding qualifications I request that her one-year, two-year, three-year, four-year and five-year increments be determined under Rule 15F of the Compensation and Classification Plans for the officers and employees of Suffolk County.

Very truly yours,

MICHAEL JOSEPH DONOVAN,
Clerk of Court.

OPERATION NO-HEAT!

Elderly affairs mobilizes operation no-heat temporary shelter plan.

Because of the recent bitter cold temperatures, city Elderly Affairs Commissioner Elaine Guiney has announced the creation of temporary general shelters for older Bostonians who have inadequate heat in their homes.

Dubbed "Operation No-Heat," the temporary facilities have been set up at the L Street Recreation Center in South Boston and the Shelbourne Recreation Center in Roxbury.

Said Commissioner Guiney, "Operation No-Heat recognizes that many of Boston's elderly — many of whom live on fixed incomes . . . are the first to suffer in extreme weather."

She added, "The unexpected burden the recent cold snap may have put on carefully calculated household budgets is heavy. We realize too that many elderly suffer from marginal heating — and that a prolonged cold wave, such as we are now experiencing, may make a difficult situation intolerable."

Fifteen cots have been placed at each of those facilities to temporarily accommodate those suffering from inadequate heat. The city Department of Health and Hospitals has stationed a nurse at each shelter, and the Parks and Recreation Department, in cooperation with the Mayor's office of Public Service, will serve hot food and coffee at the shelters. Al Stuckey will manage the Shelbourne Shelter and Harriet Silvestri will manage the L Street facility.

After 5 P.M., elderly seeking the shelter may contact a ride through the City Hall 24-hour service at 725-4000.

For future information about temporary emergency general shelter for the elderly, call the elderly hotline at 722-4646. After 5 P.M., shelter information is available through the Mayor's 24-hour service at 725-4000.

NEW APPOINTMENT

Joseph Alviani appointed special counsel to Mayor White

Mayor Kevin H. White, on December 12, announced the appointment of Joseph D. Alviani as special counsel to the Mayor.

In that new post, Alviani will serve as a special legal advisor to the Mayor and department heads.

Said Mayor White, "The complexity of today's urban problems requires specialized legal and policy advice which complements the services provided by the Corporation Counsel. Just as chief executives at higher levels of government retain special counsel in addition to cabinet level legal officers, the chief executives of cities should have formal legal counsel to supplement city law departments. I expect Joe to provide that expertise for Boston."

Alviani, a 32-year-old native of Jersey City, New Jersey, brings a wealth of legal and governmental experience to his new post.

From 1974 to his appointment, Alviani had served the U.S. Conference of Mayors first as a legislative counsel for criminal justice, health, and employment and training, and more recently as executive director and associate general counsel.

A magna cum laude graduate of Dartmouth College, Alviani graduated from Harvard Law School in 1970. Book Editor of the Harvard Journal on Legislation, he was associated with the Boston law firm of Goodwin, Procter and Hoar from 1971 to 1973.

In 1973, Alviani was appointed associate counsel to the select subcommittee on labor of the U.S. House of Representatives. In that capacity, he participated in the drafting and enactment of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) and the Occupational Health and Safety Act (OSHA).

Among Alviani's first responsibilities will be the monitoring of the new agreement between the city and the Massachusetts Council Against Discrimination (MCAD). He will also be working on legal matters with the City's Employment and Economic Policy Administration.

Alviani is a Back Bay resident.
